FEDERAL OLD-AGE PENSIONS, JOB INSURANCE, POWER SUPERVISION PLEDGED BY ROOSEVELT

Dr. Clark Quits Contested State Chemist's Post

ADAMS ASSAILED FOR 'ASSESSING' CAMPAIGN FUND

Refusal To Pay $300 Demanded by Commissioner's Brother Led to Accusations Made Against Him, Official Charges.

PLIGHT OF OFFICE BLAMED ON ADAMS

Statement Says Talmadge Not at Fault; Action Ends Long Fight; Other Resignations Expected.

Charging that accusations of insubordination and disloyalty made against him by Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams were based on his refusal to pay an "assessment" for the commissioner's campaign fund, Dr. C. Reynolds Clark, state chemist, Friday announced his resignation, thereby ending a long controversy between the commissioner and Governor Eugene Talmadge.

Dr. Clark's resignation is expected to release tied up funds of the department of agriculture, the lack of which caused Commissioner Adams to announce suspension of the Market Bulletin this week and declare publicly that the health of children and babies of the state was being jeopardized by the governor's failure to release funds to the department.

Dr. Clark will be succeeded by Dr. J. R. Cain Jr., who has been appointed to the post but who has been delayed in taking office by refusal of the governor to approve the change.

"Commissioner Adams does not have the welfare and functions of the department of agriculture at heart," Dr. Clark said in a statement accompanying the announcement of his resignation.

Other Resignations Expected.

Three other assistant chemists who have been dropped from the pay roll by Commissioner Adams but whose dismissal the governor refused to approve are expected to follow Dr. Clark in resigning today. The state chemist's resignation will take effect at noon today.

In his statement, Dr. Clark said that just before Commissioner Adams went into office in January, 1933, his brother, Homer Adams, "demanded of me $300 for me to stay on as state chemist. This I refused to give, but did give them $75."

Articles of impeachment were submitted to the state house of representatives at the last session of the legislature after an investigating committee had reported that a number of Adams' employes had revealed that they had made contributions to a campaign deficit fund before obtaining their jobs. These articles failed to pass the house after a long and heated debate.

False Accusation Charged.

In his statement Friday, Dr. Clark said Commissioner Adams had falsely accused Governor Talmadge of tieing up activities of the department, and blamed the controversy on the commissioner.

"Mr. Adams had John Darsey, a co-employe of the department of agriculture, to come over and state to me that I was assessed to help pay Mr. Adams' campaign expenses," the Clark statement said. "I told Mr. Darsey that I would not be assessed anything—that whenever I made contributions to political campaigns they were made voluntarily. I presume that this

Pole Is Found Guilty Of Spying in France

PARIS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—After a secret trial Stanislas Krauss, former Polish army officer, was convicted today of being a spy on behalf of Germany and was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and a fine of 500 francs.

The sentence, which was the maximum penalty under the law, was based on charges made against Krauss and Captain Georges Froge of the French army's quartermaster service.

The court was not moved by a threat of Krauss to refuse to testify against Froge unless given the benefit of "extenuating circumstances" because of his assistance to the authorities.

Froge and Krauss were charged with having worked together to smuggle military secrets across the Rhine, especially plans for the wartime defense of Belfort, important frontier city where Froge was stationed.

HITLER IS MOVING TO REICH THRONE, EVENTS INDICATE

Observers See Striking Parallel Between "Der Fuehrer's" Tactics and Those of Napoleon III.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The events of the last few days, coupled with a historical parallel, caused some observers to wonder tonight whether Germany is headed again toward monarchy—with Adolf Hitler on the throne instead of a Hohenzollern.

Hitler's assumption of the chief executive's powers and functions after the death of President Paul von Hindenburg and then demanding a plebiscite seemed strikingly in line with the practices of Napoleon III.

On November 7, 1852, Napoleon was elevated by the senate from the presidency to the throne, and five days later a plebiscite put the stamp of popular approval on the action.

Association.

The association of ideas with Napoleon put before some speculative minds this question:

Is the presidency of Hitler (even though he hasn't the title) but the forerunner of a "volkskaisertum" or rule by the people's kaiser, who in this nazi-dominated state could be no other than Hitler himself?

That the plebiscite will result in overwhelming approval of the action of Hitler in assuming the presidential functions in addition to those of reich's chancellor was taken for granted throughout the country.

Von Hindenburg's death, like many previous tragedies and crises, was turned into excellent political capital by the nazis.

In life the old field marshal was a check on many Hitlerite plans; in death he became to the nazi orators the greatest nazi of them all.

Army Brought in Line

The passing of von Hindenburg was followed quickly by the administration to the army, navy and the schutz staffel (elite guards) of an oath of personal allegiance to Hitler.

The oath was administered secretly to the schutz staffel yesterday, and was not announced as was the action of swearing the army and navy to loyalty.

It was understood that the oath had not yet been required of the storm troopers.

Just who will be the chief deputy of the chancellor under the new order of things has not been revealed, and will not be until after the plebiscite, a government spokesman said.

He intimated that Hitler may name no one immediately to succeed Franz Von Papen, vice chancellor, who has been named minister to Austria.

TENNESSEE VOTE GIVES INCUMBENTS WIDE MAJORITIES

Bachman Rallies To Take Short Term Nomination. McAlister and McKellar Win Easily.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP) Trailing after approximately two-thirds of the state's precincts had been counted, Senator Nathan L. Bachman cmae from behind early today to win a smashing victory over Representative Gordon Browning for the democratic nomination for the short term to the United States senate.

In contrast, Senator Kenneth McKellar took the lead from the start in yesterday's primary and easily outdistanced John R. Neal for the long term nomination.

Governor Hill McAlister also was renominated by the democrats over his opponent, Lewis S. Pope, Nashville lawyer. They faced each other previously in the primaries of 1928 and 1932 with McAlister winning both times.

Memphis Saves Bachman.

Bachman, who was appointed to the senate by Governor McAlister when Cordell Hull resigned to become secretary of state, piled up his victory on smashing returns from the city of Memphis.

McKellar, the senior senator, ran away with renomination for a six-year term in a contest with Dr. John R. Neal, Knoxville lawyer. He will meet Ben W. Hooper, of Newport, twice governor of the state and a member of the railroad labor board under President Harding, in the November election. Wayne Maddox, of Huntingdon, is the republican nominee for the two-year senate term.

Roosevelt Backers.

Both Senator McKellar and Senator Bachman are warm supporters of the Roosevelt program.

Associated Press tabulations today of democratic primary returns showed:

For Long Term Senate—1,762 precincts: McKellar 180,854; Neal 32,693.

Porter Dunlap, of McKenzie, and W. H. Turner, of Carthage, won democratic nominations to succeed themselves on the state railroad and public utilities commission, Dunlap for six years and Turner for two.

McCall for G. O. P.

The republican race for nomination to the governorship, which kicked up a mild furore in certain sections, apparently was won by John E. McCall, Memphis lawyer and former state commander of the American Legion. He was opposed by Will H. Clarke, Jonesboro lawyer and former state senator.

WOMAN IS KILLED AS AUTO HITS POLE

Two Male Companions Injured in Crash While Fleeing Police.

An unidentified young woman was killed and two men were critically injured early Saturday morning when their car crashed into a telephone pole and overturned on Arden road after they had been chased several miles by radio police.

The two men were tentatively identified as W. G. Puckett and Allen Martin, both of Sandy Springs, but police could find no identification for the young woman, who they said was about 25 years of age, auburn haired and "very pretty." She had on a pink dress.

The chase which resulted fatally for the woman began at Fourth and Williams streets, when Radio Patrolman S. W. Roper and R. C. Tuggle received a radio call that someone was attempting to steal a car at that point. The officers said a man jumped into a sedan just as Tuggle dismounted from the police car to investigate, and the sedan sped away toward North avenue.

The fleeing machine turned down North avenue, sped up Hemphill to North Side drive and turned at Arden road, traveling at times above 70 miles an hour. Roper was close behind the car when the driver attempted to make a curve on the road and crashed into the pole. The machine overturned and the woman was hurled through the air to the ground. She was killed almost instantly.

The patrolman brought the two men in the car to Grady hospital, where doctors said Puckett was critically hurt and Martin was seriously injured. Both were hurt about the head and possibly have internal injuries. Roper said their machine crashed into the parked car of Supernumerary Patrolman J. J. Elliott at Fourth and Williams just after the chase began.

Soap-Box Derby Finals To Thrill Crowds Today

Great Throng Expected To Witness Concluding Events in Unique Contest; Races Will Start at 2 P. M.

By JACK TROY.

Ingenious young Atlantans, ranging in age from six to 15, having experienced the thrill and pleasure of automotive creation and having survived two days of heated preliminaries, today will enter the final test in the All-American Soap Box derby over the long, sloping course on Northside drive.

The derby is being jointly sponsored by The Constitution and the Chevrolet Motor Company. Its purpose is to afford a real outlet to the numerous youngsters of Atlanta whose favorite sport is building and racing soap box cars. It is a sport that is both instructive and exciting.

Little fellows, their hearts set on the all-expense trip to Dayton, Ohio, which is the winner's reward, will engage in 16 elimination time trial heats, beginning at 2 o'clock. Semi-finals and finals will follow.

The winner receives, in addition to the trip with either a parent or guardian, a silver loving cup. Second and third place winners receive cash prizes and loving cups. The big derby competition begins at Dayton, August 18.

Young competitors who did not have a chance to compete in trial spins Friday after winning Thursday will be allowed to enter today's heats.

City-wide enthusiasm has been created by the preliminary trials. Several youngsters pitched in late, gathered old wheels of many descriptions and built bodies, all according to specifications, and entered the colorful event. Fathers and mothers have been equally as enthusiastic.

Extra Weights Ruled Out.

The tiny cars go forward under their own momentum and the weight of their drivers. No other weights of any kind are allowed. The cars are lined up at the start and a regular starter waves them away. Brakes are released and the race is on. No pushing by feet or attendant is allowed.

There is nothing in the rules preventing the drivers from throwing their bodies forward for a fast start, however.

Robert Hamilton, of 8 Lakeside circle, has turned in the best time to date. He covered the course, which is slightly more than two-tenths of a mile, in 51 seconds. He was piloting a roller-bearing creation. Leroy Leteer, driving a car not equipped with roller bearings, finished in 54.1 seconds for the next best time of the preliminaries.

A special blue flame event for boys 16 to 18 years will be held today. There will be heat prizes. The winner will be selected for design. It gives the youngsters a chance to build a real car. The winner of the best-designed machine may enter a similar nation-wide event at Dayton by paying his own expenses to that city, but his car will be shipped without cost to him.

Heat Winners.

Jones Says Skilled Workers Are Victims of 'Chiseling' Contractors.

Describing conditions in the southern construction industry as chaotic, Sullivan W. Jones, chairman of the national construction planning and adjustment board, Friday night said a minimum wage scale for skilled labor must be fixed before action can be taken toward lowering the 40 cents an hour code wage for common labor.

Unscrupulous employers, Jones said, working under a code that provides for no skilled level as long as it is above the common minimum, can employ common labor at the code wage of 40 cents and then pay the skilled worker 41 cents an hour and still be complying with the code.

He expressed fear that if the common wage is lowered to 30 cents the "chiseling" employer would immediately drop his skilled worker to 31 cents and remain within the law.

The employer who wanted to be fair in regard to wage differences between skilled and unskilled labor could not bid on projects against the "chiseler" without reducing his skilled employes to the same level.

Touring the south to gather first-hand information on conditions that led contractors to protest that there was no differential between the minimum wage in the north and south, Jones said the fixing of the skilled level was the greatest problem facing his board.

Pending his return to Washington and action by the board he refused to comment on his findings as to whether the 40 cent common labor minimum should be lowered but was emphatic in saying the skilled problem must be solved "before we would be safe" in lowering the common minimum.

Much construction work in the south, he found, has been held up

TALMADGE SPEAKS AT DALTON TODAY

Thousand Supporters Expected in Motorcade This Morning.

Governor Eugene Talmadge will resume his campaign for relection at 3 o'clock this afternoon when he makes his first North Georgia speech at Dalton.

Talmadge supporters in Whitfield county in charge of arrangements for the day's program said Friday they were making arrangements to take care of a crowd of upwards of 10,000.

A number of motorcades, the largest being sponsored by the Fulton County Talmadge Club, are expected to arrive in Dalton around 2 o'clock, bringing supporters of the governor from practically every county in north Georgia. In addition to the Atlanta motorcade there will be 'cades from Cartersville, Rome, LaFayette and other north Georgia centers.

The Fulton County Talmadge Club's motorcade will leave the Belle Isle garage here at noon. Before leaving it will be joined by groups of cars from Macon, Griffin, Barnesville and cities south of here. At Marietta it will pick up a large delegation of Cobb county followers of the governor. Similar additions are expected in the cities between Marietta and Dalton.

Henry C. Davidson Jr., president of the club, said Friday that nearly

Royalty Joins Commoners In Last Visit to 'Old Paul'

NEUDECK, Germany, Aug. 3.—(AP) Commoners, nobility and royalty came today to pay their last private tribute to Paul von Hindenburg as he lay in state in his manor house.

The "sturdy oak" whose death Wednesday shocked and grieved all Germany, lay in his bed, surrounded by objects he loved in life.

The former crown prince, Friedrich Wilhelm, was one of the early visitors, coming as representative of the family which once ruled Germany.

Franz von Papen, long a close friend of the dead reichs president, spent 45 minutes in the death chamber.

Von Papen has been preparing to leave the office of vice chancellor, which von Hindenburg at least once saved for him, to accept an appointment as envoy to Austria. Acceptance of the minister-designate has not yet been received from Vienna.

Many others from high postiion and low went to the room, and news correspondents also were given an opportunity to view the body.

It was stated reliably that the procession to Tannenberg, where a national funeral will be held Tuesday, will start from here at midnight Monday.

The march will be one of unusual pomp and military display for a distance of 60 miles.

Whether the Tannenberg memorial, erected to commemorate von Hindenburg's famous victory over the Russian army, will be his final resting place remained undecided.

The family indicated today that burial will be in the family plot on the Neudeck estate, probably to be followed later by the building of a mausoleum in the estate park.

The government wants to place the body in a tower of the memorial.

LONG, AIDE FACE CONTEMPT ACTION IN DEFYING COURT

National Guard Forces Strengthened Despite Court Order That Troops Be Disbanded.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long today jested proadly about the tense political war between his faction and that of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley as city authorities moved to bring both the senator and Adjutant General Raymond H. Fleming to taw for refusing to obey a court order to disband the national guard.

Citations for contempt were prepared for filing in the civil district court after the adjutant general had dodged service on the court order for demobilization and instead of disbanding had ordered his force strengthened.

Without any explanation, a supply of army rifles, tear gas bombs, machine guns and steel helmets were rushed into the office of the city voters' registration office shortly after 9 o'clock tonight.

An emergency base was established by the national guard at the cantonment of the Washington artillery, a few blocks from the registrars' office, with fifty men standing in readiness with full military equipment, including gas masks.

Mayor Walmsley, from his home, said he did not know what the move meant as he had dismissed the police guard from city hall, across the street from the registrar's office.

All during the day, the adjutant general sat in Jackson barracks surrounded by fully armed troopers who denied admittance to the process servers. Counsel for the Walmsley faction said it was within the power of court to cite both Long and Fleming for contempt and demand their delivery in court under arrest.

Senator Long made a fast automobile trip to the state capital in Baton Rouge and there, chuckling, announced he had asked Governor O. K. Allen, a lieutenant in his political machine, to disband the militia and that the governor had defied him.

"He told me to go to hell," said the grinning senator, who has dictated state policy undisputed for five years.

Delivered Message.

"I'm just trying to be a good citizen," Long added. "The court told me to come up and tell the governor to disband the militia and I did."

"What did he say?" asked newsmen, who had trailed the senator all over the capital ,finally cornering him at the executive mansion, where he lunched with Governor Allen.

"He told me to go to hell, Long replied with a smile.

"Does that mean the militia will remain on duty in New Orleans?" he was asked.

"I don't know. You'll have to ask the governor. I don't think he'll talk to you."

Governor Allen, who had stood by

SLOAN QUITS POST AS COTTON LEADER

No Reason Given as Head of Textile Institute Resigns.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The resignation of George A. Sloan as president of the Cotton Textile Institute and as chairman of the cotton textile code authority, was revealed today.

The resignation was made known in a letter to members of the institute. It follows:

"Last night, at a meeting of the executive committee of the institute, held at the Biltmore hotel in Providence, I submitted by resignation as president of the institute and as chairman of the cotton textile code authority to be effective as soon as convenient to the executive committee. I appreciate more than it is possible to express the loyal support and personal friendship which has been given me by all in the industry and it is with sincerest regret that I feel it is necessary to make this decision.

"However, this does not mean any lessening of my deep interest in the welfare of the industry and of my desire to be of assistance to it in the future."

The resignation was submitted last night by Sloan at a meeting of the executive committee of the institute at the Biltmore hotel in Providence, R. I. The reason for it was not immediately learned.

He asked that the resignation be effective "as soon as convenient to the executive committee."

Action on the resignation was deferred by the executive committee until its next meeting, expected in the near future.

"Other Girl" Defends Confessed Murderer

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 3. (AP)—"The other girl" in a triangular romance today tearfully defended Robert Edwards, mining engineer held in the slaying of Freda McKechnie, a young church worker.

Margaret Crain, 23-year-old music teacher from East Aurora, N. Y., hurried to Wilkes-Barre to be at the side of the man she hoped to marry next summer as the slain girl was buried in a rural cemetery.

Miss Crain sobbed as she heard the prosecutor's statement that Edwards said he beat Miss McKenchnie and threw her body into the water. The young mining engineer was with Freda the night before her body, clad in a bathing suit, was found in Harvey's lake.

Miss Crain protested to the prosecutor that she "would believe Bobby innocent in the face of any evidence."

STRIKERS REJECT PEACE PROPOSAL AT MINNEAPOLIS

General Johnson Participates in Conference of Stockyards Handlers, Mediators in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

Strike mediation efforts brought scant results on two fronts yesterday.

At Minneapolis, truck drivers rejected peace terms offered by employers.

In Chicago there was little apparent headway at a conference between representatives of striking stockyards handlers and federal mediators, in which General Hugh S. Johnson participated.

The Chicago stockyards, practically parayzed since 800 stock handlers walked out July 24, renewed trading under guard of 150 extra policemen.

Streets of Minneapolis will be closed by troopers to all but trucks bearing necessities of life, Governor Floyd B. Olson had warned, unless an agreement was reached by midnight Thursday. But despite his pronouncement truckers turned thumbs down on proposals of employers to end the 18-day strike which has claimed two lives.

A short time later troops searched the Citizens Alliance offices at Minneapolis at the express order of Governor Olson. After the raid the chief executive charged evidence was obtained showing the employers advisory committee, representing truck owners, "maintains stool pigeons in various labor unions." He said the information gathered would be "followed up." No arrests were made.

Because of bitterness in Kohler, Wis., Sheriff Ernst Zemms said he was unable to find men to serve as deputies and asked that troops be retained in the model village until the Kohler company strike is settled permanently. The militia has been ordered to evacuate Monday.

In New York, representatives of 75,000 heavy construction workers made ready to vote on a strike in sympathy with the Mid-Town Tunnel Workers walkout.

Termination of the Tubize-Chatillon Rayon Company's strike at Hopewell, Va., was announced in Washington by the labor relations board which said an agreement was reached whereby the plant will reopen soon.

In Edwardsville, Ill., a walkout at the federal food relief depot, in which discharge of two relief officials was demanded, was partially broken when eight strikers returned to work.

A strike of 10 relief workers delayed work on the Knoxville (Ill.) high school gymnasium.

PRESIDENT TELLS PACIFIC CITIZENS DREAM OF FUTURE

THOUSANDS CHEER RETURNING LEADER

President Seems Refreshed by Long Sea Trip; Crowds at Portland Hail Him Lustily.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

BONNEVILLE, Ore., Aug. 3.—(AP) Returning to the continent after a sea vacation, President Roosevelt, in an address today, said the government would use its great river development project as "yardsticks" on electrical power costs.

At the site of the $31,000,000 Bonneville dam project, one of two great federal undertakings on the Columbia river, Mr. Roosevelt envisioned the deepening of the stream to permit ocean-going traffic as far as the Dalles, Ore., and said barge navigation might eventually be extended far into Washington and Idaho.

The president referred to the northwest, in which he was just starting an inspection trip, as a potential future homeland for people now in overcrowded places or on outworn land.

All-Time Control.

"The power that we are developing here is going to be power which for all time is going to be controlled by the government," the chief executive said.

He recalled that when he was in Portland as a presidential candidate two years ago he said the principle of government needed "yardsticks so that people in this country will know whether they are paying the proper price for the electricity of our times."

"I conceived the idea that the government could create yardsticks," he continued. "One already has been started on the Colorado river (Boulder dam). Two other yardsticks have been undertaken—the Tennessee and the Columbia, and the fourth—the St. Lawrence—is going to be started."

Old Age Benefits.

The president referred also to old age benefits and unemployment insurance as future possibilities when he said:

"Out here you've not only got space—you've got space that can be used by human beings. . . . Land already peopled by Americans who know whither America is bound. People who are thinking about advantages for mankind. Good education, some play, and above all a chance for the people to live their own lives without wondering what is going to happen tomorrow; security for old age. Security against the ills and accidents that come to people; above all, security to earn your own living."

The president envisaged ultimately sea-going navigation as far inland as Idaho when he said: "I believe that the day will come on the Columbia when we will not only extend sea-going navigation far back into the continent but by sea-going navigation we will be able to extend barge navigation still further back north into the state of Washington and far east in the state of Idaho. That is a dream, my friends, and not an idle dream. We have evidence of what man can do to improve the condition of mankind. While we are improving navigation we are creating power and I always believed in the old saying of 'more power to you.' I don't believe that you can have enough power for a long time to come and the power we are developing here is go-

HIGH AVERAGES PAID ON TOBACCO MARKETS

Prices Paid for Bright Leaf Crop Pleases Georgia Growers.

VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug 3.—(AP)—Cash continued to flow into the Georgia tobacco belt today as prices at bright leaf auctions were reported holding within close proximity to the opening day averages.

Unofficial reports from some trading centers said prices were slightly higher and a number of warehouses said offerings were somewhat larger than yesterday but still lower than Wednesday's opening day market.

Warehousemen here estimated a total of between 500,000 and 600,000 pounds of leaf were on local floors with the unofficial average ranging between 23 and 24 cents a pound.

More common tobaccos were on sale at Tifton where the offerings were said to be above those of yesterday. Prices remained about the same with the two-day average estimated at 24.86 cents, compared with the 13.69 average for the first two days last season.

Traders at Moultrie where around 400,000 pounds of weed were offered, said prices were "holding up." The average for yesterday was figured unofficially at slightly better than 23 1-2 cents.

Farmers of the Coolidge section of Thomas county where the bulk of the county's crop is produced said returns this year probably would exceed any season since 1926, making up for the deficit caused by the failure of the earlier cabbage crop to find a ready sale at profitable prices.

Vidalia warehouses sold 79,000 pounds of tobacco at between 4 to 38 cents with the average reported "slightly higher." Opening day levels were maintained at Pelham where official figures on yesterday's sales were 50,000 pounds auctioned at an average of 22 cents.

The official sales at Douglas were placed at 137,730 pounds for an average of 20.94 cents with traders saying the market was stronger than at any time since the opening. The sales today about halved those of yesterday for which the official average of 21.7 was paid.

The farmers warehouse at Blackshear reported unofficial sales of 120,000 pounds for which an estimated 24 cents a pound was paid. An average of 21.55 cents was paid for 54,800 pounds of flue-cured leaf. At Brantley's warehouse 32,000 pounds were auctioned for an average of 22.16 cents.

State Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams was a visitor at the Hahira markets where the Gold Leaf warehouse sold 60,500 pounds at an average of 22.18 cents, the Hahira warehouse 20,000 pounds average 19.78 cents, and the Farmers' warehouse 20,000 pounds at an average of 21.79 cents.

The Statesboro sales were estimated at around 200,000 pounds, but no estimate as to the price was available. Considerable tobacco was moved from the floors because of dissatisfaction, especially with inferior grades.

SAVANNAHAN MOURNS DEATH OF HINDENBURG

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 3.—Julius C. Schwarz, of Savannah, German consul at this port, was one who regretted very much to learn of the death of President Von Hindenburg because of the fact that he was personally acquainted with him. Mr. Schwarz, who is a native of Germany but a longtime resident of Savannah, met him while on a visit to Germany several years ago. In 1929 he spent a weekend at the Von Hindenburg home at Hanover. "He was a very charming old man" is the way the consul describes him. Schwarz says he will do nothing in the form of mourning officially for the death of the ex-chancellor and president until he is officially advised by Berlin just what he is to do.

Farm Women's Live-at-Home Plan Beating Depression, Athens Hears

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Farm women are leading agriculture out of the depression through live-at-home programs, Mrs. Frank Boatright, of Eatonton, Ga., told the annual farm and home week conference at the University of Georgia today.

The role played by farm women in every era has been one of major importance, she said, adding:

"No less brave have been the women of the last five years than those who followed their husbands through the revolution, or those who endured the hardships of the Sixties."

She paid tribute to home demonstration agents for their contribution to farm home life.

R. A. Winston, of the United States department of the interior, speaking on the same program, sounded a warning of national impoverishment, if soil erosion is not controlled. Unchecked, he said, it will steal the farmer's principal capital—his land.

Winston, technical secretary in the soil erosion service at Washington, said that "more than any other process or combination of processes affecting the chemical and physical characteristics of land, soil erosion tears down and wastes sloping, cultivated and overgrazed areas."

"Every rain heavy enough to cause water to run down hill strips off a film of soil from the surface, wherever the land is devoted to clean tilled crops," Winston continued. "This surface is the most productive part of the land. Its average depth over sloping areas is only about seven inches. Where plowed crops are grown continuously this precious surface layer is being removed by erosion at rates ranging from 7 to 75 years."

Earlier in the day the Bankhead cotton act, the Kerr-Smith tobacco act and the lumber code were explained at a meeting presided over by Harry L. Brown, director of the university agricultural extension service, which is in charge of the state administration of the AAA production control programs.

Four-H Club boys and girls, here for five-day short courses, prepared to break camp today. Most of them will leave tomorrow morning.

Alleged Harvey Pal Is Shot at Bradley

GRAY, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—J. B. Rowland, 43, whose prison sentence of four years for robbery in Chatham county was commuted by Governor Talmadge in December, 1933, is in jail again, with a severe head wound inflicted when J. A. Brundage, clerk in a store at Bradley, Ga., fired three times after being ordered to 'stick 'em up.'

The alleged attempt at robbery occurred last Saturday night near Bradley. Rowland, in jail at Gray, is reported recovering.

Solicitor G. L. Anderson of Gray city court was told by Rowland, according to Sheriff J. P. Hawkins of Jones county, that Leland Harvey and Aubrey Smith, Macon men recently pardoned after serving part of long sentences for robbery, carried him from Macon to Jones county on the night of the alleged crime. Later, however, he is said to have claimed that he walked. According to the sheriff's wife, Smith and Harvey, who knew Rowland in prison, called at the jail and left money and cigarettes for the wounded man.

Records at the governor's office show that J. B. Rowland, held in Jones county for attempted robbery, served all but seven days of his four-year sentence for robbery.

Rowland's term was due to expire December 27, last year, but he was freed on commutation of sentence December 20, at the request of his mother, who came to Atlanta and told Governor Talmadge that if he cut off the seven days her son could be with her at Christmas. The governor acceded to the mother's request.

PRINT SHOPS CHARGED WITH CODE VIOLATION

MACON, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Complaints against six print shop operators for violation of the graphic arts code and price determination schedule were sustained by the Georgia regional fair trade compliance code committee in a meeting at the Hotel Dempsey here today, it was announced by O. W. Passavant, Newnan, administration manager of the regional code authority, who acted as secretary for the group.

Names of the six alleged offenders were withheld, but Passavant said that that the committee instructed him to allow the alleged offenders 21 days in which to appeal the committee's decision, and after that time cases will be sent to the joint national code authority for action.

Gordon S. Chapman, of Sandersville, is chairman of the committee which met here, and other members attending were J. B. Chism, of Pelham, and J. Doyle Jones, of Jackson.

The maximum penalty upon conviction for failure to abide by the printers' code is a fine of $500 on each count, Passavant said.

$1,000 BONDS STOLEN FROM SAVANNAH AUTO

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 3.—Police and banking authorities in Savannah are on the lookout for two $1,000 bonds which were stolen from the automobile of William J. Ryan Jr., Wednesday. One of the missing securities is a bond for $1,000 on the Hicks hotel and the other is a $1,000 bond of the Greater Savannah Company, which owns the Hotel Savannah.

There is no clue as to the robber who must have been familiar with the affairs of Ryan. He unlocked a compartment in the car and abstracted the papers.

The police have advised and Mr. Ryan has warned the public through an advertisement not to negotiate for the missing securities.

'TYRANNY' CHARGE MADE BY PITTMAN

Candidate at Dahlonega Compares Acts of Governor With Tyrant's.

DAHLONEGA, Ga., August 3.—Governor Talmadge's campaign of "bluff, deception and evasion is crashing to the ground," Judge Claude Pittman declared here this afternoon in an address at the Limpkin county courthouse.

Judge Pittman said that the administration of Governor Talmadge had been marked by "outrageous tyranny,"

T. Frank Christian, clerk of the Lumpkin superior court, introduced Judge Pittman.

"Not since reconstruction days have justice and the rights of the people of Georgia been outraged by the heels of a tyrant and military rule," Mr. Christian declared.

He said that a vote for Judge Pittman was a vote for the return of decent government and assurance that a man of high ideals would be elevated to the position of Georgia's chief executive.

Judge Pittman declared that the people of the various counties in which paving work had been contracted for since the campaign started were not obligated to Eugene Talmadge's highway board for the benefits.

"The federal government made this work possible," he said, "and it belongs to the people."

Judge Pittman reviewed his indictment of the Talmadge administration here and challenged the governor to explain his activities for the people of Georgia.

He pleaded with the people "to return Georgia to a state of democracy and remove the dictatorship which threatens to embroil the state as Louisiana, North Dakota and European countries have been disturbed on account of political machinations."

Ready to Explain.

"I'm ready to explain and discuss any part of my record," Judge Pittman declared. "There's nothing in my public or private life that I am not willing for the people to know.

"Governor Talmadge is not that frank with you. He can't explain some of the things he's done. He hasn't attempted to deny the charges I have made against him.

"And when he ignores these charges, he does it because he knows they are true, and because he knows that they are backed by facts."

Judge Pittman discussed in detail his own 15-plank platform, declaring that the 'raw deal' for the farmer and the laboring man is over, once and for all.

"Governor Talmadge in his entire administration has proved his friendliness toward the big corporations and the silk shirt crowd he has denounced in the past," he declared. "Man can serve but one master; those of you who have a $3 tag know that he has served the big interests, the truck and bus corporations, better than he has you."

IT'S NEW DEAL AGAINST "RAW DEAL" SAYS PITTMAN

CUMMING, Ga., Aug. 3.—Under President Roosevelt it is the "new deal," but under Governor Talmadge it is the "raw deal," Judge Pittman declared here today. Judge Pittman was introduced by Arthur M. Sosebee, a former classmate at Reinhardt College. Sosebee said that in his college days Judge Pittman was a leader among the students and that he was looked up to and respected as a man of firm convictions, high ideals and dependability.

Judge Pittman, declaring he was going to talk "straight from the shoulder" to his north Georgia neighbors, recounted recent events and said that retribution was overtaking the House of Talmadge. "Do not be fooled by their campaign of bluff, deception and evasion," he advised. "The people of Georgia are rising in a mighty tide of resentment against the usurpation of power by Talmadge and his henchmen, and their days are numbered."

Reviewing his own platform which includes his "poor man's program," Judge Pittman declared that the days when those in power may favor special interests and corporations at the expense of the little man are over.

"The great president of the United States today has opposition from the trusts and corporations because he has given the farmer and the laboring man a 'new deal.' He has deprived the big man of spoils that he never earned, and which were gained at the expense of the little man," he declared.

"Governor Talmadge in Georgia has gained nation-wide notoriety for his opposition to the president, and the laborers and farmers of the entire nation have their eyes on Georgia to see if the people of Franklin D. Roosevelt's part-time home will repudiate him or Eugene Talmadge."

Reporters Win Fight To Hold Confidential Data From Court

DANVILLE, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two young newspapermen who had declared they would go to jail daily "from now on," rather than break a newspaper confidence, won their fight in police court today.

Police Judge Jay W. Harlan who had been sending them to jail for three to six hours or fining them daily since July 24, did not formally give up his legal right to punish them for contempt in refusing to answer question about Danville's now famous hanging in effigy. He simply ended the whole inquiry after two other men out of many suspected pleaded guilty to taking part in the hanging. He then dismissed Jack Durham and Wesley Carty, the two newspapermen, with the explanation that since the inquiry was ended, the court "therefore cannot inquire of you further as to your knowledge of the offense."

Colonel Vernon Richardson, publisher of the Kentucky Advocate, of which Carty is city editor and Durham a staff member, said he believed the preponderance of public sentiment had been with them, although many felt Judge Harlan was right in upholding the law, and added, "but all are glad the contempt case is over."

George A. Joplin, Somerset publisher and president of the Kentucky Press Association, who had offered to aid the reporters if necessary in their fight, issued a statement saying:

"Durham and Carty have the respect and congratulations of the entire newspaper fraternity for upholding a fundamental principle of the profession's code of ethics.

"In refusing to betray a confidence in the face of the court's repeated attempts to intimidate them they displayed a genuine sense of personal honor.

"The Kentucky Press Association will endeavor to obtain enactment of a state law to preserve newspaper confidences."

Durham and Carty had learned in confidence that Representative J. Sterling Towles was to be hanged in effigy in the courthouse square here early July 19, and were among witnesses summoned for the inquiry.

CHICAGO JUDGE HOLDS REPORTERS JUSTIFIED

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan refused today to cite A. L. Sloan, reporter of the Chicago Evening American, for contempt of court because he refused to divulge to the grand jury the source of his information concerning alleged graft in relief commission orders.

The grand jury had insisted on a contempt citation.

"Newspapers, just as individuals, perform a high duty of citizenship when they assist the government to establish the facts of crime," said Judge Finnegan.

He held that Sloan could not be cited for contempt since the state's attorney already had substantially the same evidence Sloan "discovered."

ATHENS WORKING OUT TRANSPORTATION PLAN

Right To Discontinue Bus Service Granted in 1930, Citizens Hear.

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—A citizens' committee seeking restoration of bus service here were told by Mayor A. G. Dudley tonight that plans were under consideration for a transportation system which the city council hoped could be worked out satisfactorily.

The statement was made after City Attorney Lamar C. Rucker said an agreement entered into in 1930 gave the Georgia Power Company the right to discontinue its bus service here any time after 1932. The buses were abandoned last month.

Rucker said the committee had no further recourse since the agreement was binding and that the Georgia public service commission had no jurisdiction in the matter.

Details of the proposed system Mayor Dudley said were under consideration were not disclosed.

Trolleys were discontinued here several years ago and when the bus service ended last month the city was left without any form of public transportation except automobiles for hire.

FIRST "SKY TRAIN" DECLARED SUCCESS BY GLIDER PILOT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(UP) America's newest mode of air transportation, the sky train, "is a thorough success," John O'Meara, pilot of the third glider of the New York sky train which landed here today, said tonight.

O'Meara landed his motorless conveyance in Potomac park at 12:45 p. m., completing the first American sky train junket, a service which soviet Russia tested successfully several weeks ago.

The train left New York yesterday. It dropped one mail-laden glider at Philadelphia, then was forced by bad weather to descend. It dropped another glider at Baltimore this morning, then flew on to Washington to complete the hop.

"I am thoroughly sold on the idea," O'Meara told the United Press, "and we are going ahead and develop it as rapidly as possible."

The flight was sponsored by Elias Lustig, of New York, who was here to greet O'Meara. Lustig, too, was enthusiastic. He said he had visions of linking the nation by the new type of mail, express and freight service.

O'Meara's glider carried 4,000 letters. He cut loose from his tow plane 1,000 feet above the city and in sweeping circles soared to a graceful landing.

The train will take off for New York at 8 a. m. tomorrow.

"Our only hard luck," said O'Meara, "was the weather. We hit rains near Philadelphia and descended for safety's sake."

LA GRANGE CHIEF SAVES ATLANTAN LONG TRIP

LA GRANGE, Ga., Aug. 3.—The efficiency and courtesy of Chief Horne and the LaGrange police force saved Jeff Davis, a member of The Atlanta Constitution's advertising staff, a long trip to Alabama today.

Davis had started on his trip when a letter arrived which satisfactorily disposed of his business and made further travel unnecessary. Chief Horne was given a description of Davis' car and asked to stop him on his way through LaGrange and tell him to telephone the office.

One traffic policeman spotted Davis' car and started after him. Davis knew he had not broken a speed law, but decided to speed up anyhow. The officer followed on his motorcycle, finally making desperate gestures to Davis to stop. This Davis did and was given the message—to his intense relief.

On his way back through LaGrange, Davis was stopped by several other traffic officers who recognized his car.

TWELVE KILLED IN WINDSTORMS

Damage Heavy in Great Lakes, Mid-Atlantic Seaboard States.

By the Associated Press.

Wrecking wind and rainstorms, starting Thursday night and continuing through Friday morning, lashed Great Lakes and middle Atlantic seaboard states, caused heavy property damage and 12 deaths. Three other persons were missing.

Ten were killed or drowned in eastern Michigan and two others died in Lake Erie off northern Ohio. Three men, in an open boat on the same lake, were unreported.

Raging waters of the Cohansey river swept away three bridges at Bridgeton, N. J., virtually isolating the west side of the town from the business district. The section's water supply was cut off through breaking of a main.

The Pennsylvania railroad roadbed near Townsend, Del., was washed out for 130 feet, forcing suspension of train service between Wilmington, Del., and Cape Charles, Va.

A tornado shattered eight houses in a summer colony near Baltimore, Md.

Altoona (Pa.) residents donned hipboots when rain flooded streets. Passengers were removed from trains on baggage trucks.

Heavy damage to crops was reported from western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio. Communications between Pittsburgh and outlying points in the section were demoralized.

Western New York state and southern Ontario also felt the storm's stinging blows. Telegraph and telephone lines were blown down and trees uprooted.

Eastern Michigan and northern Ohio were repairing damages to homes and communications lines after Thursday night's destroying storm. It was estimated normal service would not be established before three or four days.

Hail, driven by the high wind, added to the destruction in the Michigan-Ohio districts, where total damage was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

In the middle west corn belt, where crops stood in urgent need of added moisture, no rain fell and skies were mostly clear.

BUILDINGS, HOMES FLOODED IN BRIDGETON, NEW JERSEY

BRIDGETON, N. J., Aug. 3.—(AP) Bridgeton struggled tonight to repair the havoc wrought by a roaring Cohansey river which literally split the town in two.

Three bridges crumbled into the torrent created by more than seven inches of rain in a few hours. The city's third ward of 6,000 to 8,000 residents was cut off from the business district and its water supply was stopped.

Gas mains broke, buildings toppled into the stream, the municipal water works was put out of service and hundreds of homes were flooded. No serious casualty was reported.

TOO MUCH RAINFALL BREAKS DROUTH

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Michigan surveyed today the havoc strewn across the state from Muskegon to Detroit by Thursday's violent wind and rainstorm, and found the death list had reached 11, and the damage totaling millions of dollars.

The life-giving rain that ended a period of drouth, brought far more destruction than relief. Agricultural officials in Genesee county alone, where the gale hurled its full force upon the city of Flint, estimated the crop damage in excess of $2,000,000.

Flint spent Friday digging out of the debris that littered every street of the city. Two of the storm victims in the city were dead, and nine were recovering from injuries. The full extent of the damage will take a week to estimate.

U. S. ERECTS DEFENSES AGAINST FOOD CORNERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The government disclosed plans today to thwart wildcat speculation or "corners" in the nation's food in the aftermath of the drouth disaster.

Perhaps the most potent weapon is power under the AAA to buy surpluses of farm commodities for future use, thereby striking a blow at any attempt to kite prices because of relative scarcity. The foods thus bought by the government could be distributed to the needy, resold through commercial channels or shipped into drouth areas where needed.

For the immediate future, officials predict that supplies will be ample and prices relatively low. This is due to heavy marketings, particularly of live stock which the drouth threatened to kill.

Through the winter, though, the normal reaction would be smaller food supplies and higher prices.

The administration will try to level off this variation, guarantee ample supplies for all sections and prevent wide fluctuations in prices.

"Security lies somewhere midway between glut and scarcity," said Victor A. Chritgau, acting farm administrator.

An organization is being formed within the administration to determine actual and potential supplies of all food products, availability of imports, normal price ranges, and whether market operators might tie up any large part of these supplies.

When this study is finished a plan of distribution will be drafted.

The consumers' counsel of the AAA, headed by Dr. Fred C. Howe, will seek—through publicity on prices and accumulation of supplies—to prevent consumers from being "pinched" by artificially high prices.

Train Hits Building, Two Persons Killed

MANTECA, Cal., Aug. 3.—(UP) A crack Southern Pacific passenger train, wrecked by a switchman's error, hurtled onto a blind siding today and crashed into a building in which 180 FERA workers were employed.

Two men were killed. A wrecking crew searched in the debris for more bodies, fearing two transients also perished.

3 CHILEAN SOLDIERS DIE AS PLANE FALLS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A Chilean air force plane, with the bodies of its three military occupants charred by fire, was discovered late Wednesday at Los Sauces, near Ovalle, in the province of Coquimbo. The news reached here today.

The crew, Captain Julio Calderon, Lieutenant Francisco Montes, and Mechanic Gutierrez, had been engaged in making photographic air maps of Chile.

Displacing of Bad Money, Bandit Routing Chief Accomplishments of New Manchukuo

By FRANCIS W. CLARKE

HSINKING, Manchukuo — (By Mail.)—Outstanding among the factual accomplishments to date of the government of the new state of Manchukuo are the rapidly progressing eradication of banditry, the almost complete retirement of the huge amount of practically valueless paper money with which the country was flooded, and the sharp reduction of many of the taxes with which the farmer, the profit-maker and the wage earner was loaded down under the administration of the war lords.

The bandit situation is unique in that it was the one phase of life in Manchunria that grew worse instead of better with the initiation of the new state.

Bandit Boom.

Within a month after the setting up of the Manchukuoan state its entire territory was over-run with bandits, to a degree far greater than ever had been experienced in the long history of Manchuria. This territory has always had its bandits, but they were generally half bandit, half farmer, going on looting excursions only when their crops were poor and they needed food and money for their families. There was a certain percentage of bad fellows who perferred to steal than to work, but they were not numerous.

With the defeat of Chang Hsueh-liang's armies in 1931 and his flight from the country, the bandit situation assumed a different and far more serious aspect, for the simple reason that Chang's several hundred thousand soldiers immediately took up banditry. Thus the new type of bandit was, for the most part, well armed and a trained fighting man.

Government Responsible.

It was soon realized by the Hsinking government that if it was to gain the favor and support of the ignorant Chinese farmers and laborers who form the great proportion of the population of Manchuria, that this new threat to their lives and property must be removed. It was not so much that the Chinese would understand what the new government was all about, knowing as they do nothing about government except that of their local communities, but that they would be certain to figure, and rightly, that the Hsinking setup was responsible for the increased threat to their safety.

Among the first steps to be taken by the Japanese, therefore, in their direction of the affairs of the new state, was to set aside the best of their fighting regiments for the purpose of bandit extermination, and the lending of 200 of their officers to train the native Manchukuoan army that had been recruited.

Drive Launched.

Then the campaign against the bandits was launched in earnest and now, in little more than a year's time, the provinces of Jehol, Hsingan, Heilungkiang and Fengtien have been cleared of bandits to such an extent that the Japanese have withdrawn and left the Manchukuoans to ferret out the few outlaws who are still in hiding in these provinces. Only in the one remaining province of Kirin are the bandits still entrenched and there the war is being carried to them in a way that is certain to clean them out of their mountain retreats in due course of time. The inaccessible nature of most of these hideaways in the mountainous sections of Kirin is the only reason these bandits have not met the same fate as those of the other provinces.

It is true that bandit outrages in Manchuria are still reported in American newspapers about as frequently as ever, but the difference is that all of these outrages are now restricted to a small section of the country while formerly they occured in every section.

Won Success.

Thus the new state, through the aid of the Japanese—a qualification which so far has been necessary with every step taken by the Hsinking government—has carried to practical success one of its first and most serious undertakings—the return of conditions of law and order and peace throughout its broad expanse.

Another reform that has been practically completed and one that curiously enough, may antagonize the very lower class of the people that it will benefit most, is the stabilization of the currency in circulation in Manchukuo.

Worthless Money.

Under Chang Tso-lin and later under Chang Hsueh-liang the country was flooded with paper money, having no backing of any kind, being printed merely for the purpose of building up the private treasuries of the Changs and of paying the farmers for the soy beans that were their chief crop and which they were permitted to sell only to the government, and which the government—in other words the Changs and their dependent officials—sold overseas for gold.

Gradually the Manchurian farmers and the merchants with whom they dealt worked out a scheme by which the load of this depreciated, and in the long run, worthless currency, could be spread out over a period of years. Under this plan, the situation, roughly, was that the new issues were to go at face value, but they would automatically reduce the value of the money already in existance—money issued by the same government and with the same backing, or lack of backing, but which merely happened to have been printed first.

Added to Taxes.

It was found that under this program the paper currency generally reached the point of worthlessness in about 10 years, a depreciation that in effect added approximately 10 per cent per year on currency to the other taxes already carried by the Manchurians. The Chinese, being the world's most inveterate gamblers, gained great joy in trading various issues between themselves, hoping thereby to put off on somebody else the depreciation certain to come. The new stabilized currency has brought an end to this combined trading-gambling and the Chinese have thus been deprived of one of their chief sources of amusement and, what each individual believed to be, profit.

At the time of the formation of the new state there were some 142,000,000 yuan—the standard of value in Manchurian money as the dollar is in American—in circulation, most of it worth only a fraction of its face value. As the first step towards the reform of the currency situation, the government established a central banking institution, designated the Central Bank of Manchukuo. To prevent reckless issuance of its notes, in such fashion as the Chang's had gained good money for bad, its powers of note issue are limited by the prohibition that the bank must have a reserve equal to at least 30 per cent of the total amount of notes issued. It alone can issue notes and money for the Manchukuo government.

Following the establishment of this bank it was announced that the 15 different kinds of currency then in circulation—such as Harbin dollars, Dairen dollars and Mukden dollars—would be considered invalid after two years, but prior to the expiration of which time the government would redeem them at a fair rate of exchange for its own stabilized currency.

Already 83 per cent of the old notes have been redeemed and burnt at public bond fires, and the remainder are expected to be secured before the end of the year. The net result is that instead of having as complicated a currency situation as existed in any country in the world, with values entirely problematical, Manchukuo now has a standard currency, with less fluctuation than is true of the dollar or the pound sterling.

Son of Luke Lea Dies In Highway Collision

DANVILLE, Ill., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Percy Lea, 24-year-old son of Luke Lea, former Nashville publisher, was killed and five other youths were injured today when the car in which they were riding crashed into a bakery truck on United States Highway 41, five miles south of Veedersburg, Ind.

The injured, all of whom were taken to the Lakeview hospital, were James Simpkins, 18; Cleo Barbee, 26; William Louis, 16; Percy Austin, 12, and Milton Thorton, 18, all from Nashville.

The six were returning from the World's Fair at Chicago in an automobile driven by Barbee. Shortly after leaving Veedersburg a tire blew out. The car swerved out of its traffic lane and struck the approaching bakery truck.

McALISTER REQUESTS FURLOUGH FOR LEA

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—(AP) In a telegram to Governor Ehringhaus, of North Carolina, Governor McAlister tonight recommended that Luke Lea, former Nashville newspaper publisher now in prison in North Carolina, be permitted to return here for the funeral of his son, Percy.

In addition to Governor McAlister, Commander James Patrick, of the Nashville post of the American Legion, telegraphed an "urgent request" that the father, a World War artillery colonel, be permitted to attend the funeral.

AckermanHitsJohnson For Attack on Press

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, said tonight General Hugh S. Johnson's Chicago speech was "a direct challenge to the press to lead the fight for freedom of public opinion."

Ackerman told a special meeting of the California Publishers' Association that from the time the president signed the recovery act, "General Johnson has been fighting to control the press and suostitute NRA-made opinion for public opinion."

"The men who drafted the law which gave the president power to license the press not only desired but expected to control the press," he said. "Furthermore, they intended to use the radio, which the government can license, to manufacture government opinion."

"What General Johnson wants is a press which will take orders, a press which is united for the government and by the government, edited by governmental yes-men who will suppress every opinion not approved by an American-made dictator of propaganda."

DR. CLARK QUITS STATE POSITION

A short time before Dr. Clark announced his resignation, Dr. W. E. White, chief of Commissioner Adams' board of veterinary advisers issued a report showing what is being done in the state in regard to testing tubercular cattle and to analyzing dairy products. In his statement Thursday, Commissioner Adams had said that these functions were among those "paralyzed."

Dr. Clark, who first became chemist in the department in 1910, has served the state a total of 16 years under seven different commissioners of agriculture.

Dr. Clark's Statement.

"Mr. G. C. Adams came out in a statement last night and said that the functions of the entire department of agriculture were stopped; that tuberculosis in cattle was not being checked. Babies in danger, drugs were not being analyzed, and the Market Bulletin stopped.

"He attributed all of this to Governor Talmadge, who was former commissioner of agriculture.

"Governor Talmadge has nothing whatever to do with this, and Mr. Adams knows it.

"About two months ago, Governor Talmadge refused to approve a budget where Mr. Adams wanted to get rid of J. T. Adair, food chemist; E. A. Neely, drug chemist; Don E. Woods, dairy chemist and bacteriologist, and myself as state chemist.

"Governor Talmadge refused to approve this budget, and wrote Mr. Adams that it was a mistake to make a change at this time of the year when all fertilizer samples and other samples were being analyzed.

"The law is plain on this subject, and requires charges to be filed against them before they can be summarily dismissed.

"Mr. Adams does not have the welfare of the functions of the department of agriculture at heart, as he claims.

Told of "Assessment."

"Mr. Adams had John Darsey, a coemploye of the department of agriculture, to come over, who stated to me that I was assessed to help pay Mr. Adams' campaign expenses.

"I told Mr. Darsey that I would not be assessed anything—that whenever I made contributions to political campaigns, they were made voluntarily. I presume that this is what Mr. Adams says is insubordination and lack of loyalty.

"I graduated at Georgia Tech in chemistry, and have been working in the chemistry department of the state since 1910.

"I have held every chemist's place in the laboratory since that time.

"I have served as chemist under seven commissioners of agriculture, and have never been accused of incompetence or erroneous determinations in a single instance, or lack of co-operation with any official.

"I was promoted from the ranks to state chemist by State Commissioner of Agriculture Eugene Talmadge in January, 1931, and planned and had consummated the present state laboratory, which Governor Talmadge built out of the appropriations for the department of agriculture.

"Just before Mr. G. C. Adams went into office as commissioner of agriculture, his brother, Homer Adams, demanded of me $300 for me to stay on as state chemist. This I refused to give, but did give them $75.

"Knew Demands Wrong."

"I knew at the time these demands were wrong, but I had a family to support, and my only profession is chemistry.

"While serving as state chemist under Mr. Adams, I have supervised the determinations of all analysis work, covering over 10,000 fertilizer samples alone last year.

"I reported to Mr. Adams last year the deficiency in analyses of over 500 tons of fertilizer sold by one company, and begged G. C. Adams to warn the farmers, through the Bulletin, about this fertilizer.

"Commissioner Adams would not take my advice, and allowed the farmers of Georgia to be fleeced in buying the fertilizer while he was commissioner.

"I am tendering my resignation as state chemist, effective August 4, for the reason that Mr. Adams is holding up the pay of the entire department for political reasons.

"He wants to accuse Governor Talmadge of stopping the functions of the department of agriculture. He wants to give Talmadge's opposition this to talk about.

"Let's see now if Mr. Adams will run the department, and publish the market bulletin, and have the penalties on fertilizer collected as they should be by law."

The report of Dr. White follows:

"In 1933 the co-operative work was started in 11 counties. Eight counties were completed and the test applied to 88,903 cattle for the entire year.

"For the first seven months in 1934 the work has been going on in 16 counties, and so far has been completed in six counties, and three more will be completed by August 15, the test having been applied to 56,095 cattle.

"We are now working in 13 counties and have 17 veterinarians doing this work, and more will be added within a few days.

"The number of cattle tested in July, 1933, was 4,473. The number of cattle tested in July, 1934, was 12,699. In December, 1933, there were 2,383 cattle tested.

"In addition to this area work, we have tested, with the co-operation of the city of Atlanta and the dairymen, nearly all the dairies furnishing raw milk to the city of Atlanta.

"We are now having all the drouth cattle that are being shipped into the state tested by the local veterinarians of the state and to date have reports on over 15,000 having been tested, and hundreds of these cattle are being tested daily."

The bureau of animal industry, in the United States department of agriculture, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary of service this year.

ATLANTA, GA., AUGUST 4, 1934.

TOBACCO PRICES HIGHER.

The price range during the opening days of the Georgia tobacco marketing season gives hopeful promise that the growers of the weed in the state will experience one of their most profitable years.

Prices last year ranged from 3 to 18 cents on the opening day, while this year the lowest quotations were twice as high and the price received for the finest quality of leaf nearly three times as large.

While the total amount marketed this year will probably be somewhat below the figure for last year, because of the acreage reduction program, it is certain, if the present scale of prices continues, that the growers will receive a much larger revenue than they did in 1933.

Tobacco is now one of the four chief cash crops of the state, ranking lower only than cotton, corn and peanuts, and the sale of this year's fine crop at continued high prices will mean a material advance for the southern tier of counties from the after effects of the depression.

As the first of the large crops to be marketed, the fine prospect faced by tobacco is a good omen that the producers of our other agricultural products will also come to the end of the year in far better condition than has been the case with them since 1929.

INTERNATIONAL GRAND JURY.

An international grand jury, composed of cross sections of the citizenry of every civilized nation, for the purpose of giving the peoples of the world more direct voice in matters of international policy, is suggested by Lloyd N. Scott, New York attorney, in a recent address at Hunter College.

This prominent New Yorker, who has become nationally known through his sponsorship of the auditing grand jury plan under which these bodies are given greatly increased influence in checking the spending of public money, points out that "as the grand jury is the only remaining point of contact between the average citizen and his government and its officials, so an international grand jury, made up of average citizens of the world, offers the only direct and practical means of contact between the world court and the citizenry of the various nations."

The method of creation of the proposed grand jury and the manner in which it would serve is simple, calling for the appointment in each country by its highest court of a panel of citizens to sit once or twice a year at The Hague, and who could be called together at any time in special session by the World Court.

Arguing the need of such a body, the speaker says:

> Foreign offices and diplomatic technique have now grown away from the will of the people, in that they may precipitate war and see no means of averting it, even though the people do not want it. If we assume the necessity of maintaining the present international set-up for the solution of international difficulties, there apparently is no way of averting this. We do not have to make this assumption, and war can be averted.
> An international grand jury, composed of these plain people, average citizens of the world, would express, and have the sanction of, public opinion everywhere. It would have those historic powers which have made the grand juries of the past the most effective weapons against tyranny and the thwarting, twisting or utter disregard of the public will. An offending nation would hesitate long before flouting the expressed decision or will of a body representing the average citizens of the world, with no official or political affiliations—with no ax to grind.

The suggestion is interesting.

Such a plan, properly worked out, might go far toward eliminating governmental friction between the nations of the world. It would be another step in safeguarding against the abuse of the power by those in control of the authority given them by the people.

Since the days of the Magna Charta, the grand jury, in one form or another, has been the mouthpiece of the people. It has become one of the cornerstones of civilization, especially in the English-speaking nations, playing a vital part in the international affairs of every country.

An international grand jury could render valuable service in focusing world-wide attention to the promotion of peace and good will between the nations, in adjusting misunderstandings between the peoples of the world, and in putting a publicity check upon those in power who would ruthlessly or selfishly plunge their countries into the holocaust of war.

AMERICAS GROW CLOSER.

The inauguration of regular air express between the United States and the 32 Latin American nations and colonies is another tie bringing closer together the peoples of the two continents of the western hemisphere.

Step by step since the World War the relations, commercial, political and social, between the two Americas have become more intimate. Prior to 1914 the Latin Americans were far more intimate with the peoples and governments of Europe than they were with the United States. There they bought most of their goods, borrowed money for both public and private enterprises and went to enjoy their overseas vacations.

With the upset of existing world economic conditions caused by the great war, American exports and money began to flow with increasing volume into Latin America. While this trend was slowed down somewhat during the readjustment period following the end of the war, we continued to register at least small increases in our investments and our exports to the Latin American countries.

The coming of air passenger service again accelerated the increase in business. Formerly the great port cities of South America were no closer, by water transportation, to New York, than they were to London, Paris and Lisbon, but the time of the trip to New York was cut in half by the airplane.

Now the coming of air express is another link in the chain of intimate business relations gradually being forged, and which will inevitably unite the two Americas in such strong bonds in future as to practically eliminate the European nations as serious competitors.

The new intimacy will be mutually beneficial and is a natural trend in international relations. While the Latin Americans do not "speak our language" in the sense of the spoken word, they do to the extent that their immediate background and their current problems are largely similar to ours.

The Americans of both the northern and southern continents are descendants of hardy and fearless pioneers who carved the beginning of a new civilization out of the wilderness, conquerors who departed radically from the ways of the Old World in building the new.

While we of North America were busy developing our own vast resources, we overlooked and neglected to strengthen the natural ties binding us to our fellow Americans to the south. We have during recent years awakened to our neglected opportunities, and with the tremendous advantage offered by fast air transportation, both for passengers and express, a new era of close intimacy between the Americans of Anglo-Saxon and Latin descent is not far distant.

The greatest buy-word is "installments."

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

The Big Parade.

France gave a demonstration of her military strength on July 14, the national holiday, anniversary of the earth-quaking act of mob violence: the fall of the Bastille. If cannons thundered in the streets of Paris 145 years ago and bloody heads were carried around on pikes by the delirious sansculottes of the Fauborg St. Antoine, the racket was insignificant, I dare say, compared with the ear-shattering din that broke over the city this morning when the sky suddenly darkened and one hundred squadrons of fast pursuit planes and bombers—five hundred machines in all—roared over the sun-powdered roofs.

Sharply at 9 o'clock a parade of the garrison headed by a mounted regiment of the republican guard, their silver helmets and breastplates gleaming in the sunlight, swung past the Arch of Triumph where flickers the flame on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A thousand swords flashed in salutation to the symbolic martyred comrade. Softly, with muffled trumpets, the musicians played Napoleon's favorite hymn: "Where can one better be, than among one's own best friends."

Mechanized Army.

Astonished Parisians saw for the first time the mechanized army. Hundreds of whippet tanks raced down the broad boulevards, turning around on themselves, pirouetting and maneuvering like baby perambulators to show the swiftness with which these machines can be operated. They were followed by armored cars with reversible turrets from which machinegun nozzles pointed menacingly, and finally by great, heavy 20-ton caterpillar tanks whose appearance like that of titanic green monsters from pre-historic times, silenced the applause and threw a hush over the people. Their frightening hulk and merciless crushing progress made it clearer than anything else how gruesome an eventual war must be. The bands played: "Le Jour de gloire est arrive!" (The day of glory has arrived.)

What glory? Whose glory? Then came the chasseurs alpins, the famous Blue Devils, followed by the massed battleflags of the disbanded regiments that fought at Verdun, at the Chemin des Dames and the Marne, carried by ex-poilus who withstood the hail of steel 18 years ago. Infantry regiments of the line hove in sight, dressed in their new field uniforms of green and earth-colored helmets. Moving forests of bayonets! Huge siege-guns were next, bigger than the Big Berthas of Skoda. They were pulled by tractors, of which the drivers were invisible behind sheets of armor-plate. The gunners followed in closed bullet-proof trucks.

No commands were heard. An intercommunicating system of radio in tanks and trucks assured the perfect movement of these death-dealing monsters.

"Fantasia."

For two hours the regiments filed by: machinegun sections; mounted mobile guards, their carabines slung over their shoulders "en bandolier"; dragoons, marines from Toulon; cadets from St. Cyr and Saint Maixent with the plumed kepis which Bonaparte designed for the officers of "La Grande Armee"; black Senegalese, Algerian fusiliers, veiled Tuaregs on swift huge camels; Tonkinese infantry, wearing helmets in the shape of pagodas; Tunisian cavalry. The Spahis in their white cloaks, which are lined with scarlet wool staged a so-called "fantasia" in honor of the Sultan of Morocco, who was in the reviewing stand along with the president of the republic and the marshals of France. A distance before they reached the reviewing stand the Spahis suddenly spurred their white Arabic thoroughbreds and then thundered past, a magnificent wave of color and motion, while they shouted the ancient war-cry of the fighting men of Islam.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

YOU CAN'T ARGUE WITH HUNGER.

Up to a point the sensation of hunger is quite pleasant. That is, when you are confident you are going to have something good to eat at the regular time. Call it appetite if you prefer. Whatever it is or whatever its nature or origin the feeling is pleasant.

But let it pass beyond that point, say when by some mischance you are cheated out of the anticipated meal, and shortly it changes ot something unpleasant, and if you have to go a day or so without food you are likely to suffer actual pangs or pains of hunger.

Physiologists explain the pleasant stage of hunger as being the sensation or sensations produced by peristaltic movements of the lower end of the stomach (pyloric portion) in the process of digesting the last meal. It is assumed there is still a little food left in the upper end of the stomach. But now this is propelled onward and there you are with an empty stomach. The peristaltic movements now include the upper or cardiac portion, and when contractions occur in this upper portion they become unpleasant pangs or hunger pains.

It might be inferred from this that if one could take some fake food into the stomach about the time it is propelling the last morsel onward into the duodenum, one could prevent the pangs of hunger and carry on with comfort, on a restricted diet.

But you can't argue with hunger and you can't fool the stomach as easily as that. A repast of boot soup may temporarily assuage the hunger pains of a starving man. A tightening of the belt may put off for a time the pangs of hunger. But this sensation or sense of hunger is not due entirely to the stomach contractions or peristaltic movements mentioned. Surely the instinctive demand of the body for food has something to do with it. It is the body as a whole that craves food, not just the stomach. I think we too often lose sight of the fact that it is not just meat or bread or sugar or butter the body craves. For well-being we require not only a minimum daily ration of protein, carbohydrate and fat, but also a certain daily minimum of minerals and vitamins. And it is in the instinctive effort to gratify this natural, normal demand for the essentials that most people eat too much. You know one has to eat a lot of bread and meat to get any vitamins at all and neither of these, nor sugar and starch as these materials are found in our ordinary food, will supply the minerals the body demands.

Remember, now, I am giving merely my opinion or belief about this. It seems to me, from study and observation as well as from personal experience in dieting, that when one gets the minerals and vitamins the body requires, on can restrict the intake in calories enough to insure reduction, without suffering from hunger. That, I am convinced, is the key to scientific reduction.

After all, it is only logical to find that when the vitamins and minerals, of which manufacturing, preserving and cooking processes rob our natural food, are restored to us, we eat to live and not to grow fat.

News Behind the News

BY PAUL MALLON.

ANGER WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The best North Dakota authorities feel sure that ex-Governor Langer will change his abode to Leavenworth (by request) shortly, and, in all probability, his wife will be elected governor.

Outsiders will not be able to understand how a man convicted of corruption by authorized courts stands such a good chance of being vindicated by voters.

The answer is the farmers are mad. That word is used advisedly. The courts which convicted Langer are those which upheld the farmers' mortgages. The law which made it illegal for Langer to extract political funds from federal relief workers also said it was illegal for farmers to keep their homes if they could not pay their interest.

The bald truth is the farmers are not inclined to think much of the law or the courts.

GRAVITY That makes the underlying situation far more important than the political force it seems to be. When respect for law and justice dwindles among a majority of people in any community, the gravest political possibilities arise.

It is alarming national judicial authorities in the government. They cannot see their way clear to do much about it because, essentially, it is a state political matter. Their personal sympathies, however, are strongly against Langer and, if an opportunity offers, they may do something.

N'AWLINS An entirely different inner attitude was taken at the outset of the contemporaneous political farce in New Orleans.

The big democrats have marked Huey Long down as a bluffer, and a smart one. They declined to take his national guard siege of New Orleans as seriously as it appeared to be. They believed Huey was merely playing politics with guns, and he would make sure none of them went off.

No one seemed to think much about the question of state and city rights involved, because they knew the situation was all Huey.

MONEY The hullabaloo over George Harrison's whispered conference with Treasury Secretary Morgenthau generated new rumors about dollar devaluation, stabilization, inflation and whatever you can think of.

The truth seems to be that Mr. Harrison was filling in Mr. Morgenthau on Harrison's unofficial talks recently in Europe.

As Mr. Harrison's talks do not seem to have been very productive the best informed people here regard his meeting with Mr. Morgenthau as similarly unimportant.

INFLATION There is a growing feeling among the wise money boys that the administration may have to create some fresh inflationary talk some time soon. It worked very well last year in a similar situation. When people believe prices are going up, they may loosen up and buy.

The stagnation of money is quite an important problem now. There is plenty of money in the country, but it is being hoarded in banks and elsewhere. Talk of inflation would undoubtedly encourage spending.

At the same time, no officials in responsible positions here want to take any sincerely inflation step. They might go for some pseudo-inflationary step, but not for straight-out money inflation.

FIRE They burned the Blue Eagle at the stake very quielty in the commerce department building a few days back.

A dozen huskies were employed to carry bundles of Blue Eagles from NRA headquarters down to the basement. The furnace was used as the stake.

The explanation for thus roasting their own bird is that the NRA had a surplus of old Blue Eagles (now supplanted by code Eagles) and wanted to destroy them so they would not fall into improper hands.

SILVER The administration bought about a million dollars' worth of silver last month. That is, the unfathomable treasury figures indicate that its holding increased by that much. It may have bought more and sold some.

At that rate, it would probably only take a couple of hundred years to accumulate enough silver to establish its proposed parity with gold.

NOTES Montagu Norman, alias Professor Skinner, has been sought out by newsmen in all the dark alleys and treasury corridors, but there are good reasons for believing he will not come to Washington. His presence here would encourage rumors of stabilization between the dollar and the pound and neither side wants that yet.

The reason von Starhemburg backed out of the Austrian chancellorship is because he felt he was too young and would rather be the power behind the throne than the power in it. That appears to be rare judgment after what happened to Dollfuss.

Public works expenditures have been hitting around $23,000,000 a week lately, in actual cash spent. That is a top figure which should be stimulating purchasing power.

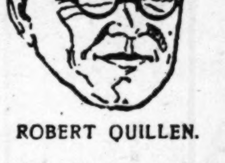
Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad To His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

My Dear Louise: Yesterday the newspapers quoted some college professor's statement that young men in search of brides no longer expect or demand chastity. They are satisfied with second-hand goods.



ROBERT QUILLEN.

I suppose you read the story. So long as newspapers print such things, young people will see no harm in reading them. And the simple, at least, will believe what they read and cut the pattern of their lives to fit it.

I can't make you believe or disbelieve anything, more's the pity, but I can at least urge you to use your own common sense in measuring the worth of what others say.

If the quality of peaches is in dispute, which man will you believe: the one who has bought and sampled them, or the one who has them to sell?

If a wreck is under discussion, whose testimony will you accept: That of the driver who did the damage, or that of disinterested witnesses?

It isn't enough to analyze a man's statement. You must also examine his reason for making it.

The gentleman who said that men no longer care about virtuous brides is 70 years old.

Do you think his testimony worth anything? Of course he doesn't care about the chastity of brides. He doesn't care about a bride, either.

But 50 years ago, when his mind was filled with high ideals and his veins with the hot blood of a jealous male, the very thought of being second in his bride's experience would have sickened him.

One of the authorities says love is mere animal lust and fidelity to a mate unreasonable. He means his kind of love is like that. He was unfaithful to his wife and she quit him.

Lecherous old bachelors will testify that purity is out of fashion and much-divorced men will declare that trial marriages are necessary.

But who cares what they think? If you would know what decent boys think of feminine purity, ask decent boys. If you would know what kind of marriage is successful, ask those who have made a success of it.

Everybody is full of opinions, good and bad, and you must listen with a grain of salt handy. If you would learn to drive safely, don't consult the fellow who has never driven or the one who wrecks his cars.

Love,
DAD.

Postoffice Robbed.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Aug 3.—(AP)—Burglars, using a sledge hammer and iron bar, broke open the Leakesville post office safe here early today and stole $60 in cash. Mrs. Florence Churchwell, postmistress, discovered the robbery when she came to work today.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Counsellor Answers NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Joseph D. Greenberg, counselor-at-law, writes a defense of the criminal lawyer.

"You have branded defenders of life and liberty as criminal receivers of stolen property," says he, "as chartered libertines who palliate and defend every species of iniquity, who cast obscurity over truth and make a jury sing Pagliacci. Yet, should you be so unfortunate as to fall into the net of the criminal law, I am sure you would not retain the civil lawyer to defend you. You would prefer the chartered libertine."

Mr. Greenberg is correct. If I should be so unfortunate as to fall into the net of the criminal law, I would try to keep a still tongue in my head until I could establish relations with a criminal lawyer. If the police sent me touring the circuit of police stations, to hide me from my attorney while they tried to get a confession out of me, I would try to bear in mind that a few hours or days of acute physical suffering were unimportant by comparison with the consequences of a weak moment and a signed confession. It would be a great relief, no doubt, to be let alone after the gallant officers had been slugging me with blackjacks, garden hose and fists for 72 hours. But I would try to stick it out always a little longer, remembering that the confession would later be used to send me to prison or to the electric chair. And, though I might be bruised and bleeding and almost too weak to grasp the pen to sign my name, the confession would be certain to contain a clause, dictated by the prosecuting attorney, himself a criminal lawyer, insisting that this confession had been made of my own free will and without duress, coercion or promise of reward.

Safety, Not Ethics Indeed I would prefer the chartered libertine. If I could have my choice I would retain the wiliest and most unscrupulous criminal lawyer in town because he would be the most successful one in any town. When I am up against it I do not wish to have any truck with any beginner or with any lawyer who would jeopardize my life and liberty with ethics, morals or a fastidious and exaggerated regard for truth and justice. The hell with his ethics and morals and his regard for truth and justice. Those are for Sunday. Those are for the meetings of the bar association and commencement addresses to new classes of criminal lawyers in June.

When I am having trouble I want a lawyer who can send out private detectives to dig up the fact that No. 6 in the jury box has been tearing around with another woman and threaten to tell his wife about it. He must have confidential employes who will telephone the wife of No. 8 that something terrible is going to happen to their little girl on the way to school if I am not acquitted. I want a man with connections who can plant a good, strong stiff among the 12 good men and true, with the gumption to stand out for acquittal and hang the jury even though the rest of the jurors gang up on him and punch his ears off.

Pressure Where Needed My lawyer must be a man with connections in the underworld and politics who can turn up the fact that the big witness for the prosecution is not legally married to the woman who is the mother of his children. If this were publicly brought out it would disgrace the children and the prosecution's big witness might be willing to forget or change his story for their sake.

And, in case of desperate necessity, my lawyer should be able to go to the prosecutor's boss and have him induce the prosecutor to accept a plea of guilty of simple assault or disorderly conduct. It is true that I shot an innocent man through the spine and left him paralyzed for life, but that is his hard luck. I am thinking of my side of it as the criminal in the case and of the sort of criminal lawyer I would want.

The prosecutor, being a criminal lawyer himself, will not be too insistent on his ethics or morals or the sanctity of truth and justice. He is not only a criminal lawyer but a politician and he wants to be governor or United States senator some time. So, if my lawyer reaches his boss and his boss tells him to lean a little, he will lean.

Price Raised On Ideal Lawyer. But I am afraid I will not be able to retain as my counsel when I get into trouble the man who is my ideal in the practice of criminal law. I am only a petty operator myself, and the stickup of which I am guilty as charged was only a $500 trick. Twenty years ago I could have hired my ideal lawyer for my $500 of stolen money, but he has come along in the meantime and it takes a crooked banker to bring him into court now. When bankers steal they steal in boxcar figures and my ideal takes a deep cut of what they stole to prove that it wasn't really stealing.

My ideal is no special individual. He is a composite. He is the great criminal lawyer.

"You have branded defenders of life and liberty as criminal receivers of stolen property," Mr. Greenberg writes, "as chartered libertines who palliate and defend every species of iniquity, who cast obscurity over truth and make a jury sing Pagliacci."

That is not exactly the way I put it. Mr. Greenberg puts it much more beautifully than I did. But that is what I meant, all right.

during the jocular exchanged, maintained his silence.

Reached over the telephone, Fleming told newsmen:

Carrying Out Orders.

"I am carrying out the governor's orders. I have ordered my men to fortify their positions at the registrar's office and at Jackson barracks."

Additional troops and machine guns were moved today into the city registration office, across the street from city hall, seized last Monday night under a proclamation of martial law issued by Governor Allen from the Long political headquarters.

With sentries on guard at the barracks, it was impossible to learn the total number of men mobilized there.

"How many troops have you?" Fleming was asked over the phone.

"Plenty," he said laconically.

Mayor Walmsley continued to hold his augmented police force of 1,400 men in readiness for any emergency. All are equipped with riot guns.

Two sets of tax assessors functioned in the city today—one the elected assessors of the Walmsley faction, and the other a new set of appointed assessors, designated yesterday by the state to supercede and ignore the elected group.

The two republican and five democratic incumbents who sought renomination to congress were successful. Herron Pearson, Jackson attorney, received the democratic nomination for the seventh district seat now held by Representative Browning, who ran for the senate. City Attorney Walter Chandler, of Memphis, is the democratic nominee in the ninth. He had the support of Representative E. H. Crump, who decided to retire from congress.

KENTUCKY VOTERS GO TO POLLS TODAY

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 3.—(UP)—Strongly-democratic Kentucky may send a republican congressman to Washington as result of tomorrow's primaries. Here's how:

Since the 1932 election, in which a solidly-democratic delegation was elected on an "at large" basis, the state has been divided into nine congressional districts in accordance with the 1930 census. The ninth district comprises counties in which many of Kentucky's republicans are concentrated. Among the republican primary candidates in this district are former Governor Edwin P. Morrow and former Senator John Marshall Robison, strong campaigners. The democratic candidates are of smaller caliber.

A congressional delegation and four members of the court of appeals will be nominated. Votes will not be counted until Monday, beginning at 9 a. m.

ing to be power which for all times is going to be controlled by the government.

Security in Living.

"People who are thinking about advantages for mankind, good education, some play and above all a chance for the people to live their own lives without wondering what is going to happen tomorrow. Security for old age. Security against the ills and accidents that come to people. Above all, security to earn your own living.

"So today I am seeing the picture that I knew only in blue print form. So far it completely conforms to the blue prints. The chief engineer tells me that nothing stands in the way of its being completed on time, on schedule and according to plans."

Refreshed from his month's vacation in which the cruiser Houston took him to American possessions in the tropics and to the territory of Hawaii, the president landed in Portland shortly after noon to receive an ovation from a cheering throng and to be greeted by Mrs. Roosevelt, their sons, James, Franklin and John, and members of his official family.

A 21-gun presidential salute hailed Mr. Roosevelt as the Houston moved slowly into Portland harbor. The sun-bronzed chief executive stood on the bridge waving his Panama hat in acknowledgement of the cheers as the ship docked.

Mrs. Roosevelt boarded the cruiser at once, as did Secretaries Dern and Ickes, chiefs respectively of the war and interior departments, who with Governor Julius L. Meier, of Oregon, headed a welcoming delegation.

Bids Crew Goodbye.

After luncheon Mr. Roosevelt stood on the gangplank to say goodbye to the crew of the Houston and to stand at salute while massed bands played the National Anthem. Automobiles sped the official party 40 miles up the Columbia river to Bonneville for presidential inspection of the government project and delivery of the address.

A stop at the Columbia river estate of Governor Meier put the party behind official schedule but another throng waited at the big development here and stayed through until Mr. Roosevelt and his party boarded a special air conditioned train for Spokane.

The train will double back a short distance from Spokane tomorrow. President Roosevelt will visit the $63,000,000 Grand Coulee development, Columbia river companion to the Bonneville project. From there he will head eastward through the northwest to inspect other government undertakings. The inspection tour will end at Chicago, whence the chief executive will speed straight to Washington.

by uncertain conditions and the talk of lowering the wage minimum has scared contractors from jobs.

Quick action is necessary, the board chairman said, and short cuts must be taken to reach agreements.

While declining to commit himself on possible reductions in the code requirements he blamed the lack of differential in the wage scale on the fact that the south was not represented in the fixing of the scale.

Union labor representatives were all northerners who did not understand the south and the NRA advisory board that met with them for the most part thought as northerners with a northern viewpoint, he said. No evidence that a lower wage scale was needed in the south was presented.

The construction code provides that skilled labor wages be fixed by area agreements but Jones pointed out that there was comparatively little organized labor in the south ready for collective bargaining and short cuts must be taken. He declined to elaborate on any method that might be used in fixing the skilled wage until he consulted with the legal division of the NRA.

South Carolina contractors agreed yesterday to name a committee next Wednesday to begin work immediately on a skilled labor agreement and Jones said if all sections would adopt similar measures the problem might be solved. He feared, however, that the fixing of area agreements might take too long unless federal officials intervened.

His trip through the south has shown him, the chairman said, that the law permitting municipalities and state governments to fix minimum wages must be changed. He said he had found small towns setting up minimum wages as low as 10 cents an hour and they should not be given the authority to fix such low scales.

Jones will leave here Sunday and then go to Birmingham before returning to Washington. He attempted to see Governor Talmadge here today but found the Georgia chief executive was "electioneering" and was unable to talk with him since the governor's office could not give him an appointment until Tuesday.

HOAKON FELICITATED ON HIS 62D BIRTHDAY

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

By MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1934, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 3.—I don't know that "British Agent" was planned especially for the era of clean pictures because, if I remember correctly, Jacob Wilk had spoken of buying the Bruce Lockhart book some time before we began worrying about our gelatine product. I do know that it comes easily within the limits of what our new pictures will have to be and that it is one of the most interesting things of its type I have yet seen.

To many of us, the precise problem of the British, French and American representatives in Russia toward the end of the World War was very vague. "British Agent" clears up this vagueness very satisfactorily for the unenlightened. It gives you a love story that is more than interesting and it combines politics, history and emotion in a thoroughly capable manner.

Kay Francis has done one of the best bits of work of her career as Elena, the beautiful secretary of Lenin. And if you thought of Bruce Lockhart in the flesh while reading the book, a picture of Leslie Howard would fully fulfill the demands for a sensitive, conscientious, serious fellow left in an ambigious and, therefore, awkward position during the World War when Britain made him non-official head of its embassy following the first withdrawal of soviet troops from the war front.

When Marlene Dietrich appeared in the Cocoanut Grove with Monsieur Chevalier a few evenings ago, she wore black pajamas, a white broadcloth topcoat with broad shoulder effect, and a black velvet beret very much larger than the type head covering we have come to associate with this name. Over her black suede gloves were huge pearl rings and a diamond bracelet of generous proportions was sparkling on the black suede wrist.

STRIKERS REJECT PEACE PROPOSAL AT MINNEAPOLIS

haha county, Iowa, relief projects went on strike for a 50-cents an hour wage with a 30-hour per week minimum for married men.

MILITARY RAIDS EMPLOYERS' UNION

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Troops searched the Citizens' Alliance offices today at the express order of Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Afterward the chief executive charged evidence was obtained showing the employers' advisory committee, representing truck owners in the drivers' strike, "maintains stool pigeons in various labor unions."

Records were "taken into custody" to be analyzed, the governor said, and the "information therefrom gathered will be followed up." No arrests were made.

Shortly before strike leaders had rejected the employers' peace terms for ending the truck drivers' strike, which already had cost two lives.

The Citizens' Alliance, organizations of which exist in many cities, is financed and supported by employers.

Acceptance of the employers' advisory committee peace terms, said Vincent Dunne, one of the strike leaders, would be "a compromise in which the governor, the state, the federal government, and the strikers would yield to the citizens' alliance."

Strenuous objections were voiced by the strikers over the provisions for reinstatement of drivers upon termination of the walkout. Leaders said under this clause workmen who have been "trying to break the strike by driving trucks" would be given preference in re-employment upon settlement of differences.

STOCKYARDS STRIKE HEADS CONFER WITH JOHNSON

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Leaders of the stockyards strike were closeted with General Hugh S. Johnson in a lengthy discussion of the walkout today as trading in the live stock market was resumed under police protection.

That the NRA chief was being drawn into an active role in the mediation activities was indicated when General Johnson's hotel reservation was extended to include tonight. Previously he had indicated his intention of returning to Washington today.

After Johnson had conferred more than an hour in his hotel suite with Redmond S. Brennan, of Kansas City, attorney for the striking handlers, and John Gorman and John Sprecher, officers of the handlers' local, the meeting was augmented by the arrival of Carl Steffensen, deputy secretary of the Chicago regional labor board.

A shower of bricks which greeted a farmer waiting to move his cattle into the yards was the only violence accompanying the resumption of trade. The farmer drove away unharmed.

There were few buyers and trading was dull.

FIRMS SAY CODES ARE MONOPOLISTIC

Refusal To File Price Lists Charged Against 3 Rubber Companies.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—Some 300 of NRA's codes were charged today before the federal trade commission with being monopolistic and oppressive.

Three rubber footwear companies and an ice company made the charge in answering complaints issued by the commission at the request of NRA.

The companies were the Phillips-Baker Rubber Company, Providence, R. I.; the La Crosse Rubber Co., La Crosse, Wis., and the Goodyear Rubber Company (not Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company), Middletown, Conn. The ice company was the Purity Ice Company of Lakeland, Fla.

Refusal to file price lists with their code authority was charged against the rubber companies, and failure to obtain permission to increase productive capacity was the complaint against the ice company.

Taking of evidence in the rubber case will begin August 13 before the commission. This is the major case since it involves nearly 300 codes.

The rubber companies charged that the price provision in the rubber code was included without their assent and without their being consulted. They said that if price lists were made available to other major members of the industry, such members could force them out of business by discriminatory practices.

The ice company, also charging a monopolistic tendency, further denied that the commission had jurisdiction because the company was not operating in interstate commerce. The company asserted the provision for production control was unconstitutional, and that congress had no right to delegate such powers to the president or his appointees.

The rubber companies involved were the subject of dispute between the Darrow board and NRA. The board charged NRA with oppressing them, and NRA replied that the companies probably should not be classified as "small," since they employed several hundred workers.

NRA said Phillips-Baker Company sold largely to mail order houses and other mass distributors "who in turn undersold the independent merchant."

Negro Is Lynched By Members of Race

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 3.—(AP) Beaten to death by members of his own race, the body of Grafton Page, 30, negro, was found tonight about one-half mile from Bethany, La.

The negro, known as a bully and troublemaker among the negroes at Bethany, had been tied hands above his head to the limb of an elm tree. His assailants, believed to have numbered 10 or more, stripped him and used pine clubs to beat him to death. They then cut down the corpse and threw the negro's clothes over the body.

Drys in Mississippi Abandon Beer Fight

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The United drys of Mississippi have abandoned plans to make an immediate vigorous fight against legalized beer in the state, it was indicated here today.

Ten days ago, petitions were prepared and circulated in 30 of the 82 counties asking boards of supervisors to order a special election on the subject.

Since that time all of the petitions have been withdrawn or abandoned, it was learned.

BURGLARS GET $200 IN POOLROOM MONEY

Burglars hid in the second story poolroom at 89 Pryor street, N. E., Thursday night, took $200 in money and escaped by lowering themselves into an adjacent alley by a rope made from pool table covers, according to police reports.

Patrolman C. C. Harper saw two negroes running across a parking lot in the rear of the poolroom and gave chase. He later discovered the burglary.

MANY BURGLARIES LAID TO YOUNG NEGRO

A 22-year-old negro was held by police under a charge of suspicion in connection with approximately 25 burglaries while posing as a drugstore messenger. The negro, Frank Butler, who gave police a Greensferry street address, admitted to police that he robbed about 12 homes. When he was arrested by Radio Policeman Charles Burks and G. R. Elliott he was about to enter the home of Mrs. Loy Morgan, 948 Oak street.

According to Detectives J. A. McKibben and E. D. Meek the negro is wanted and has served time in most principal cities in the country.

Four Workers Strike On Police Station Job

The smallest labor strike on record in the south is in force in Atlanta.

Four plasterers who had been at work on the Atlanta police station project of the public works administration walked off the job this week, alleging, according to George Googe, southern representative of the American Federation of Labor, that the contractor had placed unskilled labor on cement finishing work.

The largest strike, Googe said, of a single local union is in force in Alabama, where Huntsville textile workers numbering approximately 5,000 are idle. This is the largest on record in the south, Googe said, for one local organization.

GRAND JURY RETURNS ASSAULT INDICTMENT

Jealousy Said Cause for G. T. Williams' Attack on His Wife.

Charging assault with intent to murder, G. T. Williams, captured in the river bottoms Monday by county police after he had allegedly beaten his wife and fired three shots at his brother-in-law, was named in three indictments returned by the grand jury Friday. Williams is said to have attacked his wife with a metal pitcher and to have shot at Mack Williams and County Policeman John Carter. Witnesses said that jealousy was the cause of the trouble.

A. J. Billingsley, alias D. C. Black, was named in three indictments charging burglary, robbery and automobile theft, the charges growing out of the holdup-robbery of M. G. Judge, of 668 Ashby street, who lost $8 and a watch when three men took him for a ride after he had met them in a poolroom. The automobile used in the holdup is alleged to have been stolen from W. E. Huger, whose home was also ransacked.

The grand jury exonerated Paul Massey, charged with involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Homer Foster on July 11, who was killed when Massey's automobile hit a telephone pole on Defoor avenue.

George Raft Fights As Ear Is Maligned

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3.—(AP)—George Raft, sleek-haired film actor whose specialty on the screen is the portrayal of gangster and bull fighter roles, turned pugilist in real life today, planting a nose flattening punch during 10 minutes of furious battle on Sam Satz, Hollywood man-about-town and nephew of a chain drugstore owner.

More than 100 screen celebrities, tourists and autograph seekers witnessed the melee, which took place on a parking lot adjoining an exclusive Hollywood cafe.

The spectacular fight started after a verbal tilt between Raft and Satz when the star entered the restaurant with his bodyguard, Muck "Killer" Grey.

Satz, seated at a table with two women, was reported to have remarked:

"There go a couple of boys who just had to be beautiful. Raft had his ear decauliflowered and Grey had his nose remodeled.

By PEGGY GADDIS.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

While Calissa Logan, pretty 19-year-old southern cotton mill workers, is dancing in a pavilion near Stanley Mills, she attracts the attention of Kent Stanley, 25, and handsome, whose aristocratic mother owns the mills. Kent cuts in and, the dance ended, suggests a drive in his roadster. He stops at the roadside but when she refuses his kiss he drives her to her home, the shabby cottage of her uncle and aunt, the Johnsons. As they arrive Calissa confides that she repulsed him because she suddenly realized how much he wanted him to kiss her. She kisses him and he gives her his fraternity ring. Jim Wright, a cotton mill worker who has been "courting" her, shoots her in a jealous rage and kills himself. Kent goes to see her daily in the hospital but he is called suddenly to Atlanta by the serious illness of his mother. Calissa is greatly disturbed when she sees a lurid story in an Atlanta Sunday newspaper featuring pictures of Jim Wright, Kent and herself and telling of the romance of the mill owner's son and the "cotton dolly," as the girl workers are called. When she returns to work she is summoned to the office of Mr. Powers, the general manager, where Mr. Norman, a lawyer representing Mrs. Stanley, offers to buy Kent's ring. Calissa says it is not for sale and he repeats this to Mrs. Stanley, who goes in person to Calissa's home, adding, "We love each other and some day we are going to be married—whether you like it or not!" Mrs. Stanley says Kent is engaged to a girl of his own class. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XX.

Johnny was studying her closely, bewilderment in his eyes.

"And now—you're living in a swanky apartment, and dressing like a million—oh, yes, of course, I understand now—it was your lost uncle in Australia who left you his fortune!" he pretended to remember.

Calissa grinned at him—a gamin grin. She knew, of course, the thoughts that were hurrying through his mind. It was hard for him to reconcile the picture of a cotton mill worker, with this beautifully dressed and expensively housed girl before him. But there was no reason why she should explain anything to him. After all, Kent understood—and that was all that was necessary. Let Johnny Ainsworth or anybody else think whatever they liked—it didn't matter. So she merely grinned at him, and nodded, her eyes dancing demurely.

"Something like that!" she agreed, pleasantly.

Johnny studied her for a long moment. And then he shook his head, as though he gave up the puzzle of her. He was constantly being hailed by parties at other tables, by people coming and going in the restaurant, and the eyes of the men fastened upon Calissa with interest, while the girls studied her, frowning, wondering who the dickens she was, and who was she visiting. For, of course, she was a stranger or else they would have seen her about, long before this.

A man and woman came into the restaurant, and approached the table at which Calissa and Johnny sat. The woman was about 40—with the traces of a lost beauty clinging to her still. She wore a black evening frock, quite simple, without jewels, save for a small strand of pearls about her throat. Calissa thought she looked tired and sad, and there was something tragic in her eyes. She nodded and smiled at Johnny, and passed on, following the waiter who was leading the way to a table.

But the man paused, speaking heartily to Johnny, but with his eyes straying with interest towards Calissa. And Calissa, meeting his eyes, gave a tiny start, for the man was Robert Gordon!

"Hello, Johnny—how are you? I haven't seen you in an age!" said the man, with forced heartiness, and Johnny could do no less than stand up and shake the proffered hand. But he did it with a bad grace that made his dislike for the man almost insolently obvious.

"Hello, Uncle Bob—I've been around somewhere!" he answered the older man's greeting, and then, yielding to the inevitable, he said, "Miss Logan, may I present my uncle, Mr. Gordon?"

"How do you do, Mr. Gordon?" Calissa said, demurely.

Gordon looked down at her with keen interest. "But—haven't we met somewhere before, Miss Logan?" he wanted to know, and Calissa smiled.

"Of course—this afternoon, in your office—Miss Lawrence introduced us—I'm to work in your office, you know!" she reminded him, her eyes dancing a little.

Gordon looked unpleasantly, startled, and his face darkened a little as he straightened and said, quickly, almost bruskly, "Oh, yes—of course—I remember, now! Glad to have seen you, Johnny—I'll be seeing you at the office in a few days, Miss Logan!"

And he went on to the table where the tired, sad-eyed woman in black waited patiently for him.

Johnny was looking steadily at Calissa, and there was an odd look in his eyes—a look as though she had been perfectly strange, and not entirely pleasant to look at.

"So you're going to work in Uncle Bob's office!" he commented, drily, after a moment. "Well, now, isn't that nice? And you are a friend of Miss Lawrence's? Well, well—so it wasn't an uncle in Australia, after all!"

His tone was so odd, despite the casual words, that Calissa could only stare at him, puzzled.

"Is there anything wrong about my working in Mr. Gordon's office? Or in living with Miss Lawrence?" she demanded, with spirit.

"Certainly not—according to Miss Lawrence's lights!" said Johnny, grimly. "Only—it happen that I am—rather fond of my aunt, and Uncle Bob treats her shamefully!"

Calissa stared at him, offended, and bewildered. "But—of course I'm sorry—but what's that got to do with me?" she demanded sharply.

"Nothing, of course—nor with Miss Lawrence, either. Forget I said it!" said Johnny, grimly. "And now—I see you've finished. Suppose we go!"

Calissa stood up, her cheeks scarlet, her eyes angry and bewildered. Another crazy, crooked, misplaced piece to fit somehow into her jig-saw puzzle that had been growing more confusing ever since her arrival.

On their way out of the restaurant, they met a group of young people coming in, and one of the girls, a pretty, fluffy blonde, called gaily to Johnny. He answered her greeting with a wave.

"That's Isobel Chambers!" he told Calissa, and added, significantly, "the girl Kent Stanley is going to marry!"

The brief drive from the hotel to the apartment that was now home to Calissa was made in almost complete silence. Calissa was feeling shaken and a little frightened by the significant tone of Johnny's voice as he pointed out the girl to whom Kent was engaged! Johnny seemed to be pretty well absorbed in his own thoughts, and, judging from his expression, they were not kind thoughts, or cheerful ones.

He left her at the door of the apartment with the most casual of goodbyes and no suggestion of another meeting. He seemed hugely relieved to be free of her company. Bewildered and humiliated, Calissa let herself into the apartment, feeling that, all of a sudden, a world that had been going with glorious smoothness had become topsy-turvy.

As she stepped into the apartment, Myrtis came to the door of the living room to greet her. Myrtis' face was dark with anger, and she snapped, hotly, "Well, where the devil have you been?"

Calissa's head went up and her eyes chilled. "Not that it's any of your business, but I've been out to dinner, with a very attractive young man," she said, spiritedly.

"None of my business, eh? Why, you impertinent little guttersnipe—" gasped Myrtis, her eyes blazing with fury.

Calissa walked past her and into her own room, where she took off the taffeta wrap, unpinned the gardenias from her shoulder strap, and brought out of the closet the battered, cheap little suitcase with which she had arrived a few days ago. As she placed it on a chair, open, ready for packing, Myrtis came to the door and looked at her sullenly.

Well? What now?" she demanded.

"I'm going home, of course!" said Calissa, quietly, and began to pack the cotton underthings, the cheap, sleazy little silk dresses, with which she arrived.

"Oh, for Pete's sake!" snapped Myrtis, in a tone of exasperation as she snatched up the suitcase and hurled it, still open, through the closet door.

She forced herself to a measure of self-control, though her eyes seethed with anger.

"Snap out of it, Calissa—oh, I admit I had no right to speak to you as I did—but you didn't tell me you were going out, and when I got to thinking about you here by yourself—well, I felt guilty and so I broke my date and left a perfectly swell party to come home and keep you from feeling lonesome—and then when I got here, you had gone, and Ruby had no idea where you had gone! And I might just as well have stayed at my party and had a good time! So can you blame me for boiling over?"

Calissa's anger melted swiftly beneath this perfectly reasonable explanation, and she said, quickly, contritely, "Oh—I'm sorry, Myrtis—I didn't understand. Of course you had a perfect right to be cross—but I didn't know that you were coming back and when this man called up and asked me to dinner—well, I just went, without thinking!"

Myrtis was lounging in the doorway now, the ever-present cigaret between her fingers, her eyes narrowed a little against the smoke.

"Say, where did you meet Johnny Ainsworth, anyway?" she demanded, suddenly.

Calissa stared. "If Ruby didn't know where I went, how did you know I went with Johnny Ainsworth?" she asked, quietly.

Myrtis started, and colored faintly; her eyes narrowed still more. But all she said was, with an air of carelessness, "Why, you said yourself that you'd been to dinner with Johnny Ainsworth—naturally, I know who he is—one of the most eligible bachelors in town and all that—why? Didn't you want me to know who you went with?"

Calissa knew she had not mentioned Johnny Ainsworth's name since she came into the apartment—but there seemed no point in arguing, and so she pretended to accept Myrtis' explanation.

"Kent introduced him to me the other afternoon, and he insisted on having my telephone number, and address! And tonight he called me up, and I went to dinner with him. That's all!" she said, quietly.

Myrtis stood for a moment, thinking. And then she said, with an effect of feeling for her words, making her speech sound a little strained and awkward:

"Well—if I were you, Calissa—I don't think I'd be in such a hurry about accepting invitations from young men like this Ainsworth bird, or being seen around the sweller places with them. It's bound to get a business girl talked about!!"

Calissa laughed, so lame and unconvincing was the other girl's suggestions.

"Surely not in a place as big as Atlanta!" she protested.

Myrtis surveyed her for a long moment, then shrugged. "You're a hard-boiled, stubborn little mutt, aren't you, Calissa?" she said, grimly, as she turned on her heel and walked out of the room, leaving Calissa alone to mull over the events of the evening, and try to fit them into place in her puzzle.

She had more than a suspicion of why Mr. Gordon had been a bit upset at sight of her, in evening dress, with his nephew, at the exclusive hotel. She had a very clear memory of what she had seen in Mr. Gordon's office that afternoon—Mr. Gordon advancing toward Myrtis, his eyes blazing, his arms extended, Myrtis meeting the embraces with heavy-lidded eyes, and a little, provocative, alluring smile! Myrtis shopping extravagantly, and charging her purchases to "Gordon!" The tragic-eyed woman, in the black gown, pathetic in her traces of lost beauty! Robert Gordon's wife! And Calissa could not dismiss the conviction that Myrtis was more than an employe of Robert Gordon! That, of course, would explain the instant cooling of Johnny Ainsworth's manner as soon as he had discovered that Calissa shared an expensively furnished apartment with Myrtis.

This thought of Myrtis and of herself, Calissa, as sharing this apartment made Calissa extremely uncomfortable. But—what was she going to do about it? She had no money except that which Norman had advanced to her, and Myrtis had calmly appropriated that, and made no sign of any intention of returning it. Somehow, she must repay the hundred dollars to Norman, and her only hope of doing that was by getting to work on the new job, and living frugally, and saving every possible penny towards that end. That done, she could take a small furnished room somewhere by herself, and pay for it herself.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

A newsy letter comes from a reader who has something to tell us about her adventures with birds:

"Dear Uncle Ray:

We have lots of birds. I like birds and flowers better than anything. I had a pet martin in 1932. It was small when I got it. It fell out of its nest, and I kept it until night, and then daddy would put it up. I had it so tame that it would come down every morning about 6 a. m.

"We have a screened-in porch, and when the bird would sit on our pump, dad would hold the door open, and it would come in. When old enough to fly, it would sit on my finger, and would fly around and then come back again. When the rest of the birds left, it also left.

"Our martin-house has 20 rooms. This year the sparrows built in some of them. Underneath the rooms which dad was cleaning, there was a dead martin and it never flew away. I bet it was my pet. I have a cemetery in my flower garden for birds.

"ELMERA LEE CUMMINGS."

Perhaps Elmera is right in her guess. Perhaps the little dead bird was the one she had had as a pet in 1932; but on the other hand it may have been a different martin.

At any event, she did the proper thing when she let her pet fly away at the end of the summer season, instead of putting it in a cage and keeping it away from its friends. Canaries and parrots are among the few kinds of birds which seem to do well in cages.

Mr. Andres de la Garza writes me a letter in which he speaks of astronomy, and asks this question:

"Is it true that the stars are more or less like suns, and that they have planets and other worlds around them?"

The real stars are like our sun. They are trillions and quadrillions of miles distant from us, and look small simply because they are so far away. Careful study with telescopes has proved that they give light of their own, and that some of them are larger than the sun in our solar system.

When I speak of "real stars," I am not thinking of the planets which go around our sun, or of the meteors which sometimes are called—in error—"shooting stars" or "falling stars." I am thinking of such stars as those in the Great Dipper, or in dozens of other star groups not so well known.

Our telescopes are not powerful enough to tell us certainly whether there are planets going around the stars; but it is quite likely that some of the stars are at the center of what we might call "other solar systems."

ILLINOIS' SALES TAX PUTS STATE IN BLACK

People Praise 'Painless' Levy That Has Put State on Cash Basis.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Pennies of the Illinois sales tax have mounted into millions of dollars to put the state on a cash basis.

At the end of its first year, state officials announced $36,632,933 poured into the treasury from the 2 per cent sales tax, and acclaimed it as the "most satisfactory state tax."

The revenue, officials said, made possible elimination of all state property taxes, furnished more than $18,000,000 for emergency relief, and filled in miscellaneous funds when other revenues shrank alarmingly.

"The state is on a cash basis, paying all bills and taking advantage of discounts. Without the tax, a depleted treasury, unpaid bills, and mounting real estate taxes would have thrown the treasury into a mess," Director of Finance Knowton L. Ames said.

Called a "painless tax" because few persons notice the pennies that it costs, a disgruntled populace greeted the enactment of the measure in 1932. When no appreciable difference in prices resulted and state property taxes were entirely eliminated, people hailed the sales tax as an ideal assessment.

Its low administration cost, only 2.1 per cent, is praised as another good feature and it enabled the state to do its own financing on part of a relief bond issue.

Miss Thacker's Beneficiary Receives $1,000 On Constitution Policy Following Accident

Claim No. R-70834 Georgia. Check No. ______

North American Accident Insurance Company
Home Office, 209 So. La Salle Street
Chicago

Not Valid unless Release on Back is Signed by Claimant

July 17, 1934

Pay to the order of Edna Thacker, Mother and Beneficiary of N. Elizabeth Thacker, deceased, $1000.00

One Thousand and No/100 - Dollars

PAYABLE THROUGH THE NORTHERN TRUST CO.
CHICAGO, ILL. 2-15
FORM 440

M K Gordon
Claim Examiner.

Facsimile of check for $1,000 which the North American Accident Insurance Company paid to Mrs. Edna Thacker, mother and beneficiary of Miss N. Elizabeth Thacker, 686 Penn avenue, N. E., through The Atlanta Constitution. Miss Elizabeth Thacker was in an automobile accident on the Birmingham-Atlanta highway May 27, 1934, receiving injuries from which she died in a Birmingham hospital the following Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Tracker, who resided at 686 Penn avenue, N. E., Atlanta, was critically injured near Birmingham on the Birmingham-Atlanta highway on May 27, when the automobile in which she was riding was turned over and caught on fire. This accident resulted in her death the following day.

On June 5 the North American Accident Insurance Company received notice of this accident. On July 17 it received claim and proof of death, and check for $1,000 was drawn and forwarded to The Atlanta Constitution. This check for $1,000 was received by and receipted for Mrs. Edna Thacker on July 21.

The first thought is that it pays to be a subscriber to The Atlanta Constitution in connection with the accident insurance feature which it offers to its subscribers. Miss Thacker was not only a subscriber to the daily and Sunday Constitutoin, but she took advantage of The Constitution's insurance feature and protected herself against the very accident which unfortunately happened to her.

The price of the insurance was $1. This made an investment of $1 pay her beneficiary $1,000. Had she not been thoughtful enough to take out this insurance in connection with her subscription to The Atlanta Constitution, this $1,000 would not have been available.

No one knows when tragedy will strike. Many even now are standing on the brink of the grave without knowing early death or injury is their lot. When Miss Tracker started out in the automobile on May 27 little did she think what the sad ending would be and how soon. The accident was unfortunate, but Miss Thacker was wise enough and thoughtful enough to take out this protection.

Every person should take advantage, without fail, of The Constitution's unparalleled reader service feature. Its expense is insignificant. Under its terms the policyholder is protected against death in train, bus, boat, elevator, automobile, pedestrian, burning buildings and other daily hazards to life and limb.

The insurance offered you through The Atlanta Constitution is issued by the North AmericanAccident Insurance Company, of Chicago, Ill. This company, during the last several years, has paid to Constitution subscribers and members of their families over $200,000.

The insurance is offered to subscribers and immediate dependent members of a subscribers' family between the ages of 15 and 69 on the one subscription going into the home at the small registration fee of 20 cents with application and 10 cents per month thereafter in addition to the subscription price, or $1 each per policy per year in advance, to subscribers who live in Atlanta; and to subscribers outside Atlanta and suburbs the rate is $1 per year per policy in addition to the subscription price, whether paper goes by mail or delivered through dealer.

The policy The Constitution offers you provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $10,000 for travel, $1,000 for auto and pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specific accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from accidents set forth in the policy, which is at the rate of $43.33 per month. All this for the small fee, as stated above—just about 2 1-2 cents per week, and it is offered to old and new subscribers alike.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation, and if beneficiary is desired, the full Christian name of beneficiary must be given and relationship of same to the insured.

Chicago Police Order Pants on Fan Dancer

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Fan dancers wore pants again today at the World's Fair.

Declaring "the lid is not off," police squads last night raided five villages and "The Bowery," seized gambling wheels in each place, closed an exhibition, and on their way out ordered pants placed on Faith Bacon, a fan dancer.

Officials said they would not permit abuses of their new liberalized policy, adopted at the insistence of disgruntled concessionaires.

Clear, Hot Weather Predicted for Today

Fair weather today with temperature extremes of between 75 and 92 degree was forecast Friday by the weather bureau.

Friday was fair, with a temperature range of 75 to 92 degrees. Indications were Friday that warm weather would continue at least until Monday.

Appeal To Borah Lowers Bread Price

GLENNS FERRY, Idaho, Aug. 3. (AP)—The price of unsliced white bread dropped a cent a loaf today after Senator William E. Borah, republican, Idaho, promised to provide "counsel without expense" to a baker if he should be prosecuted for defying an NRA code authority administrator's order.

E. W. Nestak, the only baker here, increased his wholesale and retail unsliced bread prices 1 cent to 7 and 10 cents August 1 in accordance with an order issued by Sid Graves, of Twin Falls, bakery code administrator for southern Idaho. After receiving the senator's message in response to an appeal for advice as to the course to pursue, Nestak lowered the prices to their former standard.

New Fires in Forests Caused by Lightning

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lightning, playing over the Bitter Root and Nez Perce national forests of western Montana and central Idaho, added new woes to fire fighters today.

Preceding scattered light showers and cloudy weather, the lightning sprayed 15 small spot blazes on the Bitter Root forest, and numerous small ones on the Nez Perce. All blazes were well manned at noon.

Rain on the western edge of the timber country, with showers farther east and predictions for soaking rains over the timber country, did much to brighten the fighters' outlook.

The Trout creek blaze, which claimed the life of a Civilian Conservation Corps worker yesterday, was reported to have spread during the night, and today had a perimeter of 20 miles.

The huge Curlew fire on the Colville forest of northeastern Washington, was reported to be quiet.

Three Wives Get Part Of Ochsner Fortune

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The widow and two former wives and three children of the late Professor Washington Henry Ochsner reached a final agreement today upon the division of his Kettleman hills oil estate, usually valued at $10,000,000.

The agreement gives Mrs. Hilda Carling Ochsner Hinckley, the late geologist's third wife, 25 per cent.

Mrs. Frances A. Ochsner, the first wife, receives 10 per cent, and the second wife, Mrs. Nany Ochsner Baldy, of Carson City, Nev., receives five per cent.

Each of the three children will receive 20 per cent, approximating $2,000,000.

British Yarn Mills Stop Selling Berlin

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 3. (AP)—British exporters of cotton yarn to Germany decided at a meeting here today to suspend deliveries at once pending settlement of all outstanding accounts and arrangements of a method of paying for new deliveries.

The action of the exporters will have a vital effect on Lancashire's trade with Germany and may mean loss of employment, directly or indirectly, for 50,000 operatives.

A British cotton delegation is in Germany and it was hoped that an early agreement on outstanding questions would be reached. The exporters' conference adjourned until August 10.

ALLEGED MURDERER RETURNED FOR TRIAL

Andrew Boston, alias Bostwick, alias Ralph Simmons, 28, negro, who is under indictment by the Fulton county grand jury for murder, was lodged in Fulton Tower Friday after being returned from New York city, where he was arrested last week.

The negro was named as the trigger man in the slaying of Benny Gadlin, who operated a junk yard at Decatur and Fort streets, on May 13, 1933, by Floyd Smith, who was electrocuted recently for his part in the murder.

Gadlin was shot and killed when he returned to his yard to feed some dogs he had there. The negroes, planning robbery, shot him when he resisted.

HEARING POSTPONED IN STATE VS. CITY CASE

Hearing on a petition by the state of Georgia to restrain the city of Atlanta from collecting a building permit fee for alterations at the Confederate Veterans' Soldiers' home was postponed Friday for an indefinite time by Judge Virlyn B. Moore, when the state's attorneys requested time to study an amendment to the original petition.

In the original suit and the amendment the state contends that the city has no authority to levy on the work, which is being financed by the FERA, and charges the city with "harassing" the state on former similar occasions by arresting those in charge of state construction jobs, and that such fees have been paid in the past merely for the purpose of avoiding litigation.

Jean Harlow Picture At Grand Proves Spicy

Jean Harlow as "The Girl From Missouri," at the Grand theater, scores again in a top-notch risque comedy about a gold-digger who wouldn't be downed. She tears all the way from New York to Palm Beach to get what she wants and does some very nice acting going and coming. Anita Loos, who has had a hand in giving blondes publicity before, was a co-author on the story and the result is just what might have been expected.

Franchot Tone and Lionel Barrymore make a marvelous team as the millionaire son and father both caught in the clutches of the Broadway chorine. In fact, Lionel Barrymore walks away with the first part of the picture in his portrayal of a swashbuckling Wall Street bloodhound. But young love scores in the second half, and as a young lover Franchot is just right.

Jean plays the part of Eadie, the home-town girl who looks like what she isn't. And people misunderstand so, just because she happens to have a ruby ring that didn't come from the ten-cent store. The way is left open for a good many cracks and the cracks are all made. Most of them are funny, too.

The platinum hair photographs as well as ever and so do the Franchot Tone brown eyes. The whole picture is as spicy as a bottle of 1923 Heidseick and as full of giggles. But those who never liked champagne anyway had better not see it. It's not exactly food for thought.

Patsy Kelly is funny as the girl-friend who serves as a chaperon hither and yon. And Clara Blandick smirks effectively as the one prim person in the show, a secretary whom nobody ever notices. In short, the story is good, the acting better, and the moral too, too prominent.

A travel-talk and a Charley Chase comedy of the not-so-funny variety tag along behind the picture.

—SARA WILSON.

"Show Off" at Rialto Pleases Reviewer

The story or plot, if there is a plot, of "The Show Off," George Kelly's incomparable stage play which opened at the Rialto Friday night, is simple enough. So is the setting. The very simplicity of both is remarkable considering the fine effects it attains.

J. Aubrey Piper is a railroad clerk who gets on the nerves of his in-laws, a middle-class Philadelphia family, with his bluster. Amy, the daughter of the family, falls in love with him and marries him. His poses, his penchant for riding in demonstrator cars, one of which he wrecks and thereby almost kills a traffic cop, his habit of buying things on the installment plan and not paying for them, finally get on his wife's nerves, and she makes him leave her.

His bluster, however, brings big financial returns to Aubrey's brother-in-law inventor, and even impresses the president of the railroad, who previously had fired him.

George Kelly, the author of this play which has become a classic of the American stage, was a vaudeville actor who wrote it for one of his skits. It survived vaudeville, was a New York hit, and has gone the rounds of the stock companies.

Its rare comedy, its touches of pathos and its swift characterizations have not suffered with time and repetition. The screen version sticks fairly well to the original, although there is some new stuff and some screen exaggeration. Spencer Tracy has the central role and plays it perfectly. Madge Evans is Amy.

The audience on the opening night received the play enthusiastically. It will continue for a week. Those who like exceptional pictures should not miss this. In addition to the main picture, there is an exceptional Mickey Mouse, a newsreel and a comedy, the latter not so hot.

Good Humored Farce Found on Fox Screen

Those who may turn to the Fox this week for haven from heat and humid worries will find "Ladies Should Listen" hot weather entertainment par excellence.

This is farce of a breadth that frequently takes it over the line into burlesque. It has its share of flaws but somehow you get the comfortable feeling that is hasn't any pretensions to perfection and you are quite ready to forgive its little sins in gratitude for its immense good humor and breezy charm.

It has to do with an improvident Parisian Lothario who, as we find him, has reduced his assets to a single nitrate option while increasing his telephone numbers to a formidable total. The latest addition to the latter is scheming with her husband to separate him from the former. They nearly succeed, when an omnipresent and omnipotent hello girl comes to his rescue. She delivers him from the clutches of the schemers, gets him a good price for his nitrate and even saves him from an unwelcome match. The moral of the tale seems to be that one most definitely should remain on the good side of the nearest telephone operator. Censors who might object to this probably would find evil in the shenannigans of the Katzenjammer kids.

Cary Grant is satisfactory in the central role as is Frances Drake, who plays the switchboard role. The rest of those present, including old Charles Ray, who has a bit, comport themselves in a preposterous fashion appropriate to the vehicle.

HOME WARD VOTERS HEAR W. B. HARTSFIELD

Charging that Phil C. McDuffie, one of his three opponents, is "disqualified to be a fair and impartial representative from Fulton county because of his numerous fights with various factions," William B. Hartsfield, seeking renomination as one of the three Fulton representatives in the general assembly, Thursday night spoke to a meeting of his home ward voters.

The meeting, presided over by Thomas C. McLarin, former member of city council, also heard from Bond Almand and Ralph L. Ramsey, seeking two other Fulton posts in different brackets; G. Everett Millican, a candidate for the 35th state senatorial nomination, and Recorder John L. Cone, of the second division.

Hartsfield was introduced by William A. Vernoy, leading third ward citizen and a member of the 1926 bond commission.

Vernoy lauded Hartsfield's services as alderman from the third ward, citing many improvements which Hartsfield was instrumental in bringing into the ward. He also praised his tenure of service as a legislator reciting several outstanding achievements and attempts to gain other advantages for the county.

"Mr. McDuffie has had run-ins with virtually every official of Fulton county," Hartsfield asserted in attacking his opponent at the meeting, which was held at Glennwood and Cherokee avenues. "He has attacked judges of the superior courts. He attempted to block the federal government in its low cost housing operations in Atlanta, and his 'non-political' March-April, 1933 grand jury has entered a complete ticket in the primary.

"Mr. McDuffie has attacked me personally all over the county for failing to do anything constructive for the people. This bill alone, if approved, will enable Fulton county, the richest, most populous and the largest county in Georgia, to have a representative in the state senate in every legislature instead of having to wait for four years as it will have to do after this coming meeting."

Almand told the group that he will conscientiously and faithfully serve them if elected and asked for their votes on a reasonable and fair basis.

"I intend to represent every section of this county," he said, "and I propose to be fair to all sections. It will be my purpose to support economy in government and to protect the taxpayers from additional burdens."

Ramsey told the voters he was asked to make the race.

"I deem it an honor to have been asked by labor to take the place vacated by Luther Still as labor's representative in the forthcoming assembly," he asserted. "I will do the best job I can to be of real service to the people of this county and the state, if elected."

"I've got my first time to double-cross any man," Millican asserted. "As a member of general council, I have done some things which I feel sure you did not approve of, but I did them because I believed them to be right. I voted for economy and I have a record for constructive service. I want to serve this district as its senator."

Cone told the meeting he had "called every case as I saw it," and that he would continue to give an honest and fair administration if re-elected.

U. S. Type Bandits Operating in Italy

BOLOGNA, Italy, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two masked men armed with pistols held up a city pawnshop, American fashion, and got away with it today at the little town of Altedo.

The amount taken was not disclosed by authorities but it was ruefully admitted by authorities that the men appeared suddenly in front of the cashier, "struck him up," took the money and disappeared before a carabinero could be summoned.

PODERJAY EXTRADITION VIEWED AS IMPOSSIBLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The state department will take no action leading to the extradition of Ivan Poderjay, who is being held in Vienna in connection with the disappearance of Agnes Tuferson until an official request has been received from Governor Lehman of New York.

Poderjay is under indictment for perjury alleged to have been committed when he made application for his marriage licens.

A 1930 treaty between the United States and Austria provides for extradtion for "perjury or subornation of perjury."

MAN BADLY INJURED, STEPBROTHER HELD

L. T. Thompson, 45, of 685 North avenue, N. W., is held in city jail without bond, on a charge of disorderly conduct pending the outcome of the condition of E. L. Melton, 45, same address, who is in Grady hospital suffering from a fractured skull and a fractured left arm. Melton's condition was described by hospital officials as serious.

According to police reports, Melton was thrown out of the house on North avenue by Thompson, his stepbrother, and struck his head on the sidewalk. Melton is charged with drunk and disorderly conduct.

Illiterate Burglar Gets Vacation Fund

A polite but illiterate burglar robbed the apartment of Cecelia Tesler, 942 Ponce de Leon avenue, of $107, a pearl ring and a bar pin containing about 18 diamonds and chips.

The burglar left a note explaining the theft. The note read: "i tok $107 money and that is fine."

Miss Tesler explained to investigating police that the money was her savings of the year with which she planned her vacation. The burglar entered through a window in the rear of the apartment.

COMMITTEE VOTES MONEY DIVERSION

Finance Body Plans To Use Interest Account for Emergencies.

Atlanta's finance committee Friday night voted to divert $20,400 from the interest account to meet emergencies in several city departments and heard reports from Grady hospital and the Albert Steiner cancer clinic as to the number of patients treated who live outside the Atlanta city limits.

In voting the diversion the committee followed recommendations of the budget commission which Friday declined to raise anticipated receipts to provide the money.

The diverted fund will be used as follows:

Emergency sewer repairs, $10,000; reconstruction of the machine shop at the city garage, $8,500; provision of a cable for the new police station, $900; supplies for the sanitary department, $1,000.

From January 1 until August 1 of this year 51 patients from Fulton county outside the confines of any incorporated municipality were treated at Steiner at a cost of $3,170, and 95 were treated from incorporated cities other than Atlanta at a cost of $5,810. A total of 568 came from Atlanta. A total of $8,980 was spent on patients who came from Fulton county areas outside Atlanta, and the cost of the clinic was $23,980.18.

Grady hospital reported that 8,005 bed patients had been treated for the first five months, and that 987 of that number, or 12.3 per cent, came from outside Atlanta. Those outside the city cost $23,602.50 and the estimated cost for the year was $56,694.

The Grady clinic treated 15,254 patient and 19.2 per cent came from outside Atlanta, costing on an annual basis $12,814. The two costs total $69,508, and the county is paying into the hospital at the rate of $70,000 a year.

It pays none of the cost of operation of the Steiner clinic.

Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, and chairman of the Steiner board of trustees, said Friday night that he would take the matter under consideration and map out some program to attempt to obtain funds for the patients from Fulton county. He demanded the figures at the meeting of the committee last Tuesday.

PUBLISHERS BATTLE PULP PAPER CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The full strength of the nation's newspaper publishers today was thrown against a proposed revision in the newsprint manufacturing code which would set up an administrative board empowered to regulate consumption and imports.

Elisha Hanson, counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, led the attack on the proposed amendment at an NRA hearing charging that it would create a monopoly, limit the supply of newsprint, arbitrarily fix prices and regulate all conditions of marketing and use.

He warned that the national recovery act specifically barred monopolies and charged that newsprint manufacturers already have violated anti-trust laws through an agreement reached with Canadian manufacturers in October, 1933, ending price competition in this country in the newsprint industry.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that there has been no price competition between manufacturers since October, 1933," Hanson said. He added that the time had come when the "NRA instead of listening further to their plans to cloak their illegal acts with administration sanction, should refer this case to the attorney general for appropriate action."

"There is no question about the necessity for the importation of newsprint paper in order to meet publishers' requirements," Hanson continued. "That question was decided by congress years ago when it provided for the entry free of duty of newsprint paper."

In closing, Hanson said emphatically that the A. N. P. A. will not become a party to the proposed amendment even though it is approved by the NRA, and he demanded open, free and competitive market for newsprint paper.

ROOSEVELT IS FLAYED AT COOLIDGE RITES

Ceremony To Honor Former President Made Occasion for Political Broadside.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Nearly 5,000 persons gathered today in the quiet mountain valley where Calvin Coolidge lies beneath the untrimmed turf to venerate a departed president and to hear criticisms of the administration of a living one.

On the eleventh anniversary of the induction into office of the former Vermont farm boy, Senator Warren R. Austin, of Vermont; Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, and other speakers charged the New Deal had brought regimentation bureaucracy and economic dictatorship.

"The New Deal, or misdeal," said Beck, "assumes that the state working through bureaucratic agencies, knows better what is for the welfare of a man than the man himself.

"The theory of the divine right of kings has become divine right of dictators."

He spoke in a natural amphitheater on the apron of Notch mountain.

It was in the old Coolidge homestead a short distance up the road that Calvin Coolidge was administered the oath of office by his father, Colonel John Coolidge, after word was received that President Warren Harding had died.

A large grand stand, covered with a canvas canopy, had been erected across the road from the country graveyard where the former president is buried beside his son, Calvin Jr.

Representative Beck, introduced by Governor Stanley C. Wilson, of Vermont, levelling his attack at what he termed the "misdeal" said:

"I appreciate that the dictatorial power of the NRA and the AAA have been exercised by an iron hand veiled in a velvet glove," he said. "A pretended spirit of moderation has been one concession to the American spirit, but dictatorial powers are not less dictatorial because they might be apologetically exercised or because there are assurances of extreme consideration for the victim. You cannot give a bureaucratic official the sword of absolute power and not expect him to use it when the spirit moves him."

GEORGIANS SEEK RIGHT TO SAVE DROUTH CATTLE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Officials of the department of agriculture and the federal emergency relief administration today had under consideration the matter of exchanging native Georgia cattle for some of the better females recently shipped into the state from western drouth areas.

At the instigation of Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, the agricultural adjustment administration and FERA have referred to experts in their departments the question of whether the exchange of cattle could be effected without violating the government's agreement with former owners of the drouth animals. The agreement was to the effect that nothing would be done with the drouth-stricken animals after they had been transported east that would affect the western market for cattle and beef.

However, Senator George has been advised at his home in Sea Island by the government that several agricultural and relief experts interested in cattle reduction and the federal relief administration have been asked to study the matter with a view to lending every possible aid to Georgia farmers and cattlemen.

W. H. King, county agent of cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics for the state of Georgia, advised the senator that farmers in Colquitt and other counties of the state were deeply interested in building up their breeding stock and that inasmuch as the drouth cattle were to be slaughtered for canning purposes after they had been properly fattened, some of the better breed of these cattle might be turned over to farmers of the state for the purpose of improving their stock.

"If it could be arranged to trade our native cattle, which would be practically as good for canning purposes, and obtain drouth animals of a better breed," wrote Agent King, "our farmers would profit immensely."

Others interested in the exchange are the chambers of commerce of Moultrie and Columbus, the Edison Provision Company, of Edison, Ga., and various independent cattle raisers of the state.

C. S. Sealy Sr., of the Edison company, wrote Senator George that he saw a shipment of "drouth area" cattle at Bainbridge and that with the exception of a few herds, the animals were of a better type and breed than any in Georgia.

"I have spent a number of years breeding my own herd in Seminole," said Mr. Sealy, "and with the exception of my pure bred stock, the drouth cattle are far better than mine."

French Adopt Device For Automatic Flying

PARIS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—An invention enabling airplanes to operate automatically, including the takeoff and landing, has been acquired by the French army, it was learned today, after a year of tests at Istres airport.

The control is described as being by means of a series of push buttons, one for landing, and others for takeoff, direction and pitching.

NEGROES TAKE FOWLS AS OWNER WATCHES

Two negroes have in their possession enough chickens to last them for at least 25 days unless they eat more than one a day.

Dave Schaffer, a groceryman at 231 Forrest avenue, reported to police Friday night that two negroes drove up to the front of his store and leisurely proceeded to place a crate of the fowls in their car. The crate contained 25 of the birds.

JOHN SIMON DENIES JEWISH ANCESTRY

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, denied today he is a Jew. Sir John wrote the denial to a correspondent who had drawn his attention to statements current in Britain and abroad that the foreign minister was of Jewish origin.

At the same time Sir John expressed the hope that his denial would not be distorted to make him appear sympathetic with anti-semitism, an attitude he regards as "un-English" and which he "utterly condemns." The minister's correspondent had mentioned reports that Sir John's ancestry had powerfully influenced the national government since he became foreign minister.

Mother Brings Two Dall Children To Chicago for Visit With Father

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall brought her two children to Chicago today and they were turned over to their father, Curtis B. Dall.

But the couple, divorced Monday at Minden, Nev., did not meet during the transfer.

The youngsters came in from the west with their mother, a nurse and a secret service man. The nurse took "Sistie," granddaughter of the president, and "Buzzie," his four-year-old grandson, down the platform to where Dall was waiting with W. G. Wilmot, a classmate at Princeton.

"Sistie" wriggled into her father's arms. He called out a cheery "Hello, young fellow," to his son and the quartet hurried to a government car at the Canal street entrance. They were driven away with "Buzzie" on his parent's lap and "Sistie" at his side.

Mrs. Dall left the station in another government automobile for a hotel where she will rest until she boards a Washington train later in the day.

She told reporters who inquired about her future:

"There is nothing to the rumor that I am engaged to marry a Washington newspaperman. I am going home to work. I have more than the usual amount of writing and radio work to do while mother is away."

Mrs. Dall said her children would remain with their father for "a couple of weeks" and then return to her. But she would not discuss the terms of their custody incorporated in the divorce decree.

Dall, taking the youngsters to his hotel suite said he would show "Sistie" and "Buzzie" the World's Fair, particularly the Enchanted Island.

Lack of Permit Halts "Rainmaker's" Flight

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Aug. 3. (AP)—The attempt of two former service men to produce rain by bombarding clouds with bombs was delayed today because permission for the attempt was not received from the department of commerce.

Wilfred Bottenfield, pilot of the plane from which the experiment was to have been made, flew here from Dallas with the information that the department could not issue a permit for such a test without obtaining the approval of the Washington headquarters.

Cuba Asks Arrest Of Former President

HAVANA, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The state department tonight instructed the Cuban minister to the Dominican Republic to request the arrest of former President Gerardo Machado, pending a request for extradition, based on seven charges including murder.

Nazi Assassins' Lawyer Is Arrested in Austria

VIENNA, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The arrest of one of the attorneys who defended the two nazis hanged for participation in the putsch which was fatal to Chancellor Dollfuss was revealed today.

Word that the lawyer, Dr. Erich Fuehrer, was in custody came shortly after President Miklas had commuted to life imprisonment a sentence of death against a nazi convicted of possessing explosives.

The lawyer's secretary said that the home and office of Fuehrer were raided by police yesterday and after a thorough search for incriminating documents he was taken to headquarters.

"That was the last I saw of him," said the secretary.

B.W.M.U. Elects Mrs. Bowles As Chairman for Mission Study

At Wednesday's meeting of the executive board, Atlanta Baptist W. M. U., Mrs. J. T. Bowles was elected associational mission study chairman to succeed Mrs. Boyd Quarles, whose resignation was regretfully accepted at the last session of the board. Mrs. Quarles has most ably filled this position for the past several years, and under her leadership mission study has made such decided advancement that the Atlanta union now ranks among the first associational unions of the S. B. convention in this especial phase of W. M. U. work. Last year a total of 567 classes were taught an association-wide institute of methods was conducted, and mission study rallies were held in each of the eight districts of the union. Mrs. Bowles is well known in Baptist circles and is thoroughly conversant with W. M. U. activities, having been president for a long while of an A-1 W. M. S., and having also filled chairmanships and other positions of responsibility in the Atlanta union.

Wednesday's all-day meeting was held in the library of McWhorter Hall, Hapeville Orphans' home, and was presided over by the president, Mrs. L. O. Freeman. Reports of the summer's work in various departments and districts were featured. Mrs. James Kempton, chairman of personal service, announced the annual linen shower for the orphans' home to be held at the home on the afternoon of Friday, September 28. All missionary societies are requested to send their shower contributions as early as possible to the treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Awtry. Mrs. J. L. Jackson, chairman of White Cross, reported a total of $445 for the annual shower for the Georgia Baptist hospital. This sum will purchase a generous amount of much-needed linen for the hospital. Mrs. H. M. Blanchard and Mrs. Lee Cutts, chairmen, gave interesting plans relative to scholarships for Margaret Fund and Training School.

Mrs. James R. Dickey and Mrs. Julius Smith reported plans in readiness for the repainting of the two good-will senters owned by the union. This work will be done during August, when the smallest number of children are attending the nurseries and the general activities of the centers are at lowest ebb. Associational contests in stewardship declamation for young people's organizations, were announced by Mrs. M. O. Hemperly for Sunbeams, and Mrs. R. I. McMahan for Royal Ambassadors. Local organizations wishing to enter these contests may secure desired information by communicating with these leaders. The Girls' Auxiliary contest, directed by Mrs. H. A. Cole, and Mrs. Eugene Steele, G. A. leader and stewardship chairman, was recently held at Inman Park.

The worship period, which opened the board meeting, was led by Mrs. J. H. Zachry, vice president of the north central W. M. U. division. At noon the board, together with members of the Orphans' Home board, were served a luncheon of home-grown products from th gardens which are cultivated entirely by the boys of the home, under the general supervision of W. P. Anderson, home superintendent.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

A Sound Defensive Play.

One of the old maxims which have come down from the early days of whist is "Never lead up to strength." This maxim is undoubtedly very sound. However, there is no rule that should not be broken at some time or other. In contract bridge "never say 'never'."

In today's hand the East player found that the only way of defeating the opposing game contract was by making what would seem to the casual observer the worst possible lead.

Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A distinct underbid by North. North should have bid three hearts. Just why he chose one notrump I cannot say—he was probably a victim of the well-known notrump complex.

2—Another bad bid. East in this position should pass and hope to penalize the opponents. There is no point in showing the four-card club suit.

3—A third bad bid. South had just about enough strength to make his vulnerable overcall a sound one. He should not make a bid at this point but if he does insist on bidding, he should double for a penalty. South, however, was anxious to tell his partner of the club stopper, despite the fact that the distribution of his hand would seem to make a notrump contract inadvisable.

4—After all the bad bidding, North and South finally do get to the correct final contract. This last bid by North is, of course, correct. If anything, it is slightly conservative after his partner's two no-trump bid.

West opened his fourth-best card of East's first bid suit—the diamond 3. The Declarer went up with the king in dummy, forcing East to win with the ace, in an effort to make it easier for East to continue the suit. Obviously, a diamond continuation is exactly what South wants. East, however, quite correctly chose to believe his partner's fourth-best lead and decided that a second diamond lead would be futile. From the bidding he decided that the declarer very probably had four clubs to the jack-ten, and that these clubs, after being set up, could be used for spade discards in dummy.

East, of course, knew that to defeat the contract, four tricks would be needed. He already had one diamond trick and the certainty of being able to win two club tricks. From the bidding the South player was marked with the ace and king of hearts, and the only hope of finding a fourth trick lay in the spade suit. Obviously, a spade trick had to be set up as soon as possible, before South could set up his clubs. East saw that to set up a spade trick his partner would have to have the jack of that suit and although the declarer should have this card from the bidding, East decided that South had obviously overbid so much as it was that he might just as well have overbid a little more. At trick 2 therefore East promptly returned his deuce of spades—right up to dummy's ace-queen—for he knew that if his partner did not hold the jack, the contract could not be defeated anyway.

The spade lead was won with dummy's queen and after the trumps were drawn East was put in with the king of clubs. Now, holding equals in the spade suit, the East player very promptly set up a spade trick for himself, and when he got in with his ace of clubs he was able to cash it and set the contract. Any other return at trick 2 but a spade would have made four hearts an absolute laydown for North and South.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I never thought I would have to ask a woman's advice about a girl, but I am coming with tears in my eyes asking for help. Three months ago I met the most lovely girl in all the world. I went to see her as often as she would let me, treated her like a queen, took her everywhere she wanted to go, bought her everything she expressed a desire for, and prayed that she would let me do more. She went away on a trip and promised me she would let me know when she got back. She is back giving excuses for not letting me see her. Every night I feel like dying when I am not with her. There have been a few girls in my life but never one like her. She is constantly on my mind. Don't tell me that I ought to forget her, because I can't. Don't tell me I was too good to her. Don't tell me to treat her with indifference. Just tell me how to get her back. Don't blame me for being a fool about her. She is the sweetest, best girl in the world and if you knew her you would agree. I will never forget you if you will help me realize my ambition.

WRETCHED.

Answer: You are like a man who once went to a doctor to get treatment for an incurable heart trouble (only yours is not incurable) and before the doctor had examined him the patient said "Now don't tell me not to play golf because I had rather die than give up my game. Don't tell me not to drink because life wouldn't be worth living without whisky. Don't prescribe a diet, for I can't stick to it. Outside of these things I will do anything you suggest." The physician looked at the patient calmly and then replied: "You had better see another doctor. You have tied my hands."

Everybody respects the grand passion, everybody is sympathetic with the lover, so long as he behaves like a sane person, but when he behaves like an insane person, people pity him—that is outsiders do; the girl whom he pesters doesn't pity him—she runs from him, and only looks back to see that she has put a good distance between him and her.

An hysterical woman is bad enough but an hysterical man is worse and you, in the ardor of your passion for this girl, are becoming hysterical. To begin with, you will make yourself physically ill. Only a strong constitution can undergo a prolonged emotional strain without suffering bodily sickness. To end with, you are defeating your own purpose. You will make the girl actually afraid of you and then she will never give you a date.

So, young man, you will have to get another doctor or take this advice from me: First, get a grip on yourself and don't try to see the girl until you have the assurance that comes with self-control. Second, don't give her any more presents until she has showed some interest in you and some consideration for your feelings. Don't pursue her, begging her for dates. Ask her in a dignified way to let you come to see her and if she refuses don't ask her for another date for a long time. If she continues to run from you if you ignore her and rush some other girl, preferably one of her friends. If she can sit by silently and see you transfer your interest from her to another girl then mark it down, you havent' a chance with her.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: A young man comes to se me every Saturday and Sunday night. The love light shines in his eyes and he always hates for the time to come when he has to leave me but he never says a word of love. I am the only girl he ever takes to a show and he seems willing to do anything I suggest. I know I love him for it makes me hopping mad when I hear the girls laugh at him for being stingy. I can't take it up because he has not told me that he loves me. Do you think the signs are good? Do you think he will some day get to the point?

D. P.

Answer: Men who are slow about spending their money are frequently slow about coming to a decision in any matter that is important. It is sometimes said of a stingy man that he is "thoughtful about money." This is an euphemistic expression designed to cover up the ugly implications in the word stingy. The habit of thinking before spending so fixes itself in the man's character that he carries the habit into everything he does and says; he is thoughtful about everything.

The signs are unquestionably good, particularly significant is the fact that he spends his money for two show tickets, a sacrifice of cash he wouldn't make if he were not interested in the girl.

Convention of American Boys Held On Baseball's Anniversary

LUTHER WILLIAMS FIELD, MACON, Ga., Aug. 3.—It is very appropriate indeed that the convention for Georgia's American boys should be held in Macon this week.

Because it happens to be the anniversary of baseball. It was this week in 1839 that Abner Douleday just hauled off and invented himself a game which he called baseball. That was 95 years ago. Which is quite a span of years. But baseball remains essentially the same.

Abner Doubleday laid out the square, or diamond, on which the game was to be played, in a cow pasture at Cooperstown, N. Y. Just this week they dedicated a municipal diamond on the lot where the first diamond was laid out. Strangely enough, it had gone back into a cow pasture.

The American Legion sandlot tournament is being played on the same sort of diamond which Abner Doubleday laid out. It has never been necessary to change the measurements, they still being 90 feet between the bags. The pitcher's box has been moved back a bit because of the new type of baseball and pitching delivery. But that's all.

And it is a mistake to say that baseball originated from the English game of rounders. It did not. It is a brand-new game which the English cannot play. It is gradually making progress in England but the fact remains that England did not have anything to do with the game. It is purely American. The only claim English rounders has to a kinship with baseball is that both are played with a ball. Well, that makes them both kin to roulette, which to also played with a ball.

Baseball and the seventh-inning stretch are the only purely American inventions on the American horizon. And the American boy would not be really American if he did not care for baseball.

And so we are celebrating the anniversary of baseball this week as the American boy convention moves into its second day. Abner Doubleday would probably be mildly surprised were he to know just how many people are interested in his game. Now and then we begin to suspect that golf may be supplanting baseball as the American game. But it isn't and hasn't. Baseball is the national game.

TWO GREAT PLAYS INVENTED HERE.

It was at Macon that the hit-and-run play and the squeeze play were invented.

John McGraw, Hughie Jennings and Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson were in here with the old Orioles years ago. And McGraw, an unusually good base runner, and Keeler, perhaps the greatest place hitter in baseball's history, worked the first hit-and-run play here. This was at the old park, a site now occupied by Centennial stadium. It is now a football field.

McGraw told of how he and Keeler upset team after team with the play. Many of them never discovered it to be a deliberate play and spent many days reviling the good luck which seemed to follow Keeler and McGraw.

It was Keeler, of course, who is credited with baseball's most famous axiom. When asked for the secret of his great success as a hitter he said: "Hit 'em where they ain't."

There have been many volumes written on the art of hitting and many coaches spend hours teaching it. But no bit of wisdom can say it better than did Keeler. And all the volumes do not say as much as did Keeler when he spoke his five little words—"Hit 'em where they ain't."

McGraw told of the first hit-and-run play in his memoirs, published posthumously in a weekly magazine. Macon really should place a marker at Centennial stadium commemorating the fact. The hit-and-run play is still a great play, but it never reaches the acme of success unless there is a fellow in there like Keeler to "hit 'em where they ain't."

CHEERS FOR THE LEGION.

The American Legion has done a very fine thing in carrying on the national sandlot baseball program minus the support of the major leagues.

The major leagues once donated $50,000 per year to the program. Last year they eliminated the fund as an economy move. It was, of course, a stupid move by the major league owners. The Legion sandlot program had created new fans, new interest and, what was more important, it had begun to produce players. There are quite a few players in professional baseball today who began with the Legion sandlot program.

The majors will spend $100,000 for some player without turning a hair. The $50,000, prorated among 16 teams, was no expense at all. Yet the big league owners, penny wise and pound foolish, eliminated the aid.

The American Legion has carried on. Baseball is the greatest influence for Americanism and the Legion is determined that the American boy shall have the opportunity to play the American game.

SORROW'S CROWN OF SORROW.

It was the poet Tennyson who said that a sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier days. Now, that situation is productive of super-sorrow, all right, but the poet had never seen real sorrow.

He should have beheld the misery and sorrow that is the lot of a sandlot player who strikes out in a crucial moment in a crucial game.

In my time I have looked upon considerable misery, but for concentrated woe the faces of the Grant Park Aces, when they lost an 11-inning game to Rome this afternoon, contained more of it than I have ever seen.

The Aces looked like a group of orphans who had missed the street car going to the picnic. But the Romans—now, there was happiness!

Buford Sweeps Lanett, 6 to 3

LANETT, Ala., Aug. 3.—Buford made a clean sweep of a two-game series with Lanett Mills, winning the final game 6 to 3, today, in a ninth-inning rally.

Gene Nix, who tried out with the Crackers this spring, kept five hits well scattered and struck out five Lanett batters. He was the hitting star for the winners with a single, double and triple.

Lefty Parker, former Cracker hurler, pitched steady except for the fifth and ninth innings when the visitors bunched hits.

CARL HUBBELL BLANKS PHILS, BESTS ROOKIE

Giant Ace Has Record of 22 Consecutive Scoreless Innings.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Carl Hubbell continued the stretch of shutout pitching which followed his recent slump and blanked the Phillies in a duel with Euel Moore, the Phillies' Indian rookie, to give the Giants a 2-to-0 victory.

Hubbell gave up only six hits as registered his second straight shutout over the Phils and his fifth blanking of the season.

The feat gave him a record of 22 consecutive scoreless innings. Between his triumph over Philadelphia Sunday and today's game he hurled four scoreless innings against the Braves. Today's victory was his 15th of the season against eight defeats.

Johnny Vergez took care of the only effective hitting in the tight game. He clouted his fifth home run of the season into the left-field bleachers just after Travis Jackson had beaten out a bunt in the fourth inning to account for the day's scoring.

Moore, who beat the Giants a few days ago in his first start against them, pitched well enough except when he threw that home run ball.

THE 'BIG TRAIN' RESTING WELL

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Walter Johnson, the "Big Train," who manages the Cleveland Indians, was reported resting comfortably today by attendants at Lakeside hospital, where he is under treatment for pleurisy.

Dr. H. M. Castle, team physician, said Johnson appeared to be somewhat improved, but still was running a slight temperature, as is common in pleurisy cases. He is in some pain.

The physician said pneumonia, which at first was feared, has not set in. He was unable to indicate how long Johnson might be in the hospital, except to say that in similar cases patients have been confined for two weeks or more.

Connie Laughs At Jimmy Foxx Sale Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, laughed tonight at recurring rumors that he was about to sell his great first baseman, Jimmie Foxx, to the Detroit Tigers, or that he had had recent arguments with the home run star.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," he said with a chuckle. "You must not worry about such rumors. You'll be hearing them for the next 12 months anyway, probably until 1936, but it's a safe bet that even then Jimmie Foxx will still be with my ball club."

Mack also said he had no agreement of any kind with Gerald McQuaig, Mercer football and baseball star, who was reported coming here tomorrow from the south to talk over joining the Athletics.

"I've never heard from the young man, never ave seen him, haven't any idea of his accomplishments or his ambitions," Mack said. "However, if he is on his way here to see me, I most certainly will talk with him and find out what he wants.

"I have been told that he is coming here by newspapermen, but that is all I know. After I have seen the young man, I may have something entirely different to say."

Diegel 'Cracks,' Bags 82 And Armour Grabs Lead

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Leo Diegel's game came completely apart today and cost him the lead in the second round of the Canadian open golf championship he has won four times.

From the record breaking 65 of the first 18 yesterday, the Philadelphia professional tumbled to a terrible 82 for a total of 147 strokes half way through the 72-hole medal play over the short par 70 Lakeview course.

As a result Tommy Armour, who won the tournament in 1927 and 1930, inherited the lead with a 69-73 for an aggregate of 142.

Herman Barron, New York pro, and Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of Louisville, both added 73's to opening 72's and trailed three strokes behind the pace-making silver Scot from Chicago with aggregates of 145. The best round of the day, a 69, was shot by Jack Littler, Ottawa professional, and added to his 77 of yesterday lifted him to the 146 division with Fay Coleman, of Culver City, Cal., and Lighthorse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, both of whom shot 73's when par would have put them right on Armour's heels.

Walter Hagen again failed to hit his old time stride and with a poor 79 added to his 77 start dropped back in the ruck with an aggregate of 156. Gene Sarazen, former British and American open champion, came back to the 73 class but his 80 on the opening day left him 11 strokes back of the leader with 153 for the 36 holes.

GEHRIG BLASTS TWO HOME RUNS AS YANKS WIN

Yankee Star Passes Foxx With Second and 35th of Season.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig did a mighty job of hitting today and Johnny Allen pitched with equal effectiveness and that was plenty to give the Yankees a 5-to-0 victory over the Athletics.

Gehrig poled his thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth home runs, tying Jimmie Foxx in the fourth inning and passing him in the eighth in the major league home run derby. He also connected for a single, giving him seven straight hits in the last two days, and drove in four runs.

Allen's share was to limit the A's to seven hits and strike out 12 before he was forced to retire with two out in the ninth because of a cramp in his pitching arm.

Dykes Spoils Rowe's No-Hitter.

DETROIT, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Behind the one-hit performance of their slugging moundsman, Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the Detroit Tigers opened their series with Chicago today by shutting out the White Sox, 14 to 0.

Today's victory was Rowe's eleventh in an unbroken string and his fifteenth for the season as against four defeats. He added to his glory by getting a double and two singles in four trips to the plate.

The Tiger attack was featured by such highlights as Greenberg's homer in the first inning with two men on base.

The only thing which robbed Rowe of a no-hit game was Jimmy Dykes' single over second in the seventh inning. At the end of this inning Manager Cochrane sent in Sorrell to relieve Rowe and the latter held the Sox hitless for the balance of the game. Rowe walked three men during the game and a fourth reached first base on Rogell's error. He chalked up only one strike-out.

BRYAN GRANT.

Grant Plays Parker For Net Title Today

Bitsy Eliminates Prusoff, Coast Star, 6-4, 7-5, 7-5, on Slippery Court.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Young Frankie Parker, 18-year-old Lawrenceville student, turned in the major upset of the 44th annual Meadowbrook Club invitation tennis tournament today by downing Berkley Bell, winner of the Seabright singles, 1-6, 9-7, 6-2, 11-9 to reach the final round.

Parker's stamina and splendid stroke assortment earned him his place in the finals after Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, pint-sized Atlantan, cut down Henry Prusoff, of Seattle, 6-4, 7-5, 7-5, to win the place against the schoolboy in the climax match tomorrow.

Bell, winner at Seabright where Parker was eliminated in an early match by Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., raced away to a fine start. His steady service, chop strokes, and brilliant volleying easily won him the first set.

But there the New Yorker, who has been staging a comeback after last year's failures, tired badly and Parker came on to outsteady the veteran in the long, close exchanges.

Once Prusoff decided to play a soft ball game against Grant, the day was lost for him. Despite a court surface slippery from an early rain, the tireless southerner tore from one side to the other, making seemingly impossible returns, and always outsmarting the far westerner in the storking duel, Prusoff led at one point in each set, but never could hold off Grant's rallies.

Robert Grant, of Chattanooga, and John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, continued their fine doubles play to gain the final round with a 6-3, 6-3. 2-6, 6-4 victory over Prusoff and Wilmer Hines. Tomorrow they will meet Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, and Don Budge, of Oakland, Cal., in the final.

Mako and Budge put out Parker and Grant in the second semi-final today. 6-2, 2-6. 6-4. 3-6, 6-3.

Men's doubles, semi-final round:

Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, and John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Texas, feated Henry J. Prusoff, Seattle, Wash., and Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Gene Mako, Los Angeles, and Don Budge, Oakland, Cal., defeated Frank Parker Spring Lake, N J.., and Bryan Grant Jr., Atlanta, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

GEHRIG TAKES HOME RUN LEAD

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' clouting first baseman, captured the major league home run lead from Jimmie Foxx, of the Athletics, today when he hit his thirty-fifth homer of the season in the eighth inning of the Yankee-Philadelphia game. He had tied with his thirty-fourth in the fourth frame. It was the first time this season the A's pair of Foxx and Bob Johnson had been ousted from the lead.

Miss VanLandingham, Mary Rogers Meet

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 3.—(AP) Deane Van Landingham, of Charlotte, former champion, and Mary Rogers, of Jacksonville, Fla., today won their way to the finals of the Biltmore Forest women's invitation golf tournament.

Miss Van Landingham scored a 2 and 1 victory over Jane Cothran, Greenville, S. C., star, who put out Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., the defending champion, yesterday and Miss Rogers turned back Marion Gayer, of Charleston, 4 and 3.

McKee Is Benched, Taft Goes to Right

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 3.—Spencer Abbott, manager of the Crackers, in an effort to start his club winning, announced a change in the Atlanta lineup for tomorrow's game with New Orleans.

Duck McKee will be benched and Taft Wright will play right field.

ROSE'S HOMER SCORES THREE IN ROUND SIX

By Jimmy Jones.

HEINEMANN PARK, New Orleans, La., Aug. 3.—Jim Lindsey, Spencer Abbott's pitching choice in the opener of the five-game series with the league leading Pelicans here today, was on his way to doing an excellent job in the capacity until the sixth inning when he laid a fast one in the slot to Eddie Rose and the latter hit it out of the park with two on base to break a tie score and put New Orleans out in front by three runs.

The Pelicans won the game, 7 to 2.

It was really a good ball game with the exception of that sixth when Lindsey made the mistake of giving Rose one right in the old alley on the first pitch. Rose, who had hit only one home run here all season and whose average has been away below .300, nailed it on the nose for a curving drive over the short right field fence.

Ward, who had beat out a hit to short to start the inning, and Carson, the new outfielder who had been passed intentionally, scored ahead of Rose on the drive.

A TOUGH BREAK.

That decisive blow was a tough break for Lindsey in more ways than one. He had given two runs in the first inning after retiring Ward, the lead-off man, on strikes, both of which might have been avoided had Eddie Moore come up with Holman's grounder on the next play, which took a bad hop and went for a hit.

Carson, the rookie outfielder sent down by Cleveland, then tripled, scoring Holman, and himself came home on Rose's short fly to Oana.

After that Jim Lindsey settled down and pitched great baseball against Fred Johnson for the remaining innings.

Jim, whose home is in near-by Baton Rouge, was anxious to get a good game out of his system with some of his home town rooters on hand. He held the Pels, who are just back from a great road trip, to a pair of singles between the first and sixth and retired four of them on strike-outs

DEKALB BARONS ALSO DEFEATED IN TOURNAMENT

Griffin Outfit Ruled Ineligible

MACON, Ga., Aug 3.—The Griffin team was proven ineligible here tonight. Griffin had defeated Rochelle and Americus in the tournament. Rochelle was defeated in first round yesterday, and Americus in second today.

Rochelle and Americus will play Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Gainesville and Rome will play at 2:30 o'clock.

The winner of the Rochelle-Americus game will play Macon for upper bracket crown at 4:30 o'clock Saturday.

The finals are scheduled for 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

By Ralph McGill.

LUTHER WILLIAMS FIELD, MACON, Ga., Aug. 3.—For a time this afternoon it appeared that it would be necessary to take a page from Mr. Gibbons' book and write about the decline and fall of Rome in the Legion sandlot tournament here.

But one of those Romans, Clarence Player, committed simple larceny by stealing home in the cool of the afternoon and the eleventh inning. And so Rome did not fall but the Grant Park Aces did, the score being 5 to 4.

Had it not been for the fleet feet of Clarence Player which is a very good name for a ball player, the game might have been going on yet. But it isn't and the Aces are on their way home.

LODGE OF SORROW.

They go to form a lodge of sorrow with the DeKalb Barons from Decatur, who were eliminated Friday morning by the scrapping crew from Gainesville. The Gainesville crew is a well-balanced one and it keeps playing baseball without stopping for any interludes of carelessness. The DeKalb Barons went out, 11 to 5, and the score tells the story. The Gainesville boys bunched their hits, Gil Edwards getting three of them. Tom Jarrad was the defensive star, making seven putouts in left field.

The Grant Park Aces and the Barons played a great ball game. One forgot, watching them, that they were kids. They had a lot of real baseball in their systems and they got it out.

The Aces trailed almost from the beginning, tieing it up at three-all in the eighth. She stayed there through the tenth as both teams scored. In the eleventh it happened. Clarence Player singled and Milner, next up for the Romans, bunted. The second baseman, hurrying to handle it, threw wild to first and the damage was done. Before the frantic Aces could retrieve the ball Player was safe at third and Milner had gone to second.

ONE DARING CHANCE.

He risked it all on one daring chance. He took a good lead and as the pitcher wound up he lit out, so to speak, for home. He made it with a slide and the ball game was over. The Aces had him almost trapped but he eluded them to reach the plate.

And so it is that Atlanta is again eliminated from the Legion tournament. And the record set by the Inman Park Cardinals of 1929, who won the state, regional and went to the semi-finals in the eastern tournament at Washington, stands as the best one to be made by an Atlanta team.

The Aces played under a severe handicap because of the absence of Johnny Bosch. It is no bosh to say that he is a very valuable man. I am glad finally to have got rid of that little pun. It is no bosh to say that Bosch is a valuable player. It is a terrible pun but so obvious it was inescapable.

Bosch was hurt in the third inning as he raced down to second base. He slid and hurt his ankle. For a while it was feared it was broken but an X-ray examination at the Macon hospital revealed it was merely a bad sprain. With him out the Aces lacked their usual defensive and offensive strength.

GRIFFIN WINS.

The Griffin boys, producing another pitcher who seemed equally as good as Ward McIntosh, the first day winner, easily defeated Americus, 13 to 3. It was simply a case of too much baseball. Americus had a clever little team but Griffin seems to be too powerful for any of them.

Jimmy Bray pitched great ball today.

But tonight Griffin was in a hot spot again. After being declared eligible Thursday night the case was reopened today. It seems that there have been some erasures in the affidavits as to ages. Five players are under protest and it is entirely possible that Griffin will be declared out and some of the games replayed.

The Legion committee may simply shift the Americus team, defeated today, over in place of the Griffin team instead of having games replayed. A decision will be reached tomorrow morning.

Macon swept aside the Moultrie team, 10-0. The Macon team is a smart one, having played a lot of the mill teams in this section. They have no outstanding star but play well as a team. Which explains why they have won consistently.

CALLED IN SEVENTH.

The game was called at the end of the seventh on account of darkness. Tommy Green, pitching for Macon, produced a great game. The Moultrie team could get but 3 hits off him in the seven innings.

Captain Link Smith, the first baseman, is the leading hitter for the Macon team and makes a lot of smart plays in each game. Sidney Churchwell, at short stop, is the alternate captain.

Jack Denham, at second, is one of the smallest players in the tournament but manages to get his shares of hits and fields well.

And so it comes to the final day with Rome meeting Gainesville in the first game Saturday morning and Macon meeting Griffin or Americus, depending on the outcome of the eligibility protest, in the second game.

The championship game will be decided in the afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

WEST POINT LOSES.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 3.—By virtue of being able to win only one of the matches in the 20-man Nassau contest, the golf team of the first West Point class was defeated by the Fort Benning golfers by a score of 52-8, at Fort Benning. Cadet Donahue won from Captain Fay Ross, of the post, by a score of 2 1-2 to 1-2 for his team's only win.

Crackers

and tied up the score for Jim in the third, getting to the veteran Johnson for two runs on Joe Palmisano's single—his first of three hits—Lindsey's sacrifice, Eddie Moore's hard double to left which scored Palm, and Buster Chatham's hit down the first-base line on which Johnson failed to cover the bag, then juggled Boss' toss to let Moore score.

With clouds hovering over the bayous and rain threatening every minute, both teams were trying hard to get one run.

Atlanta missed another chance to score in the fifth. Then came the ill-fated sixth and Rose's home run.

Again failure of the Cracker infield to retire the first hitter got Lindsey in trouble.

Ward, first up, hit one down between short and second. Buster Chatham made a fine scroop-up of the ball and a good throw to first, but Ward, a fast man, beat it by a step. Holman sacrificed him to second and up came Carson, a left-handed hitter, who had reached Lindsey previously for a triple and a single.

Lindsey passed him on Abbott's orders to take a chance on Rose, who hasn't been doing much hitting this season. He had gone hitless twice before. But Jim, who is not yet wise to the hitters of this league, came in there with the first one—about waist high—and Rose lashed into it, the ball clearing the shortest sector of the fence.

CLUB LOOKS GOOD.

That put the Pels ahead. Then Bozie Berger beat out a tap to third and Hughes dropped a fly into left that went for a double, scoring him with the fourth run of the inning. Lindsey gave one more in the eighth on Rose's double—another pop fly that Koehler couldn't get to and Harley Boss' single.

The Crackers and Lindsey, with the exception of the one bad inning, the sixth, looked practically as good as the league leaders. Fred Johnson was a little steadier than Lindsey, but not a great deal outside of the home run ball to Rose.

Buster Chatham, a popular player with the fans down here, by the way, did some brilliant fielding at short and what is more important from the Cracker side, Joe Palmisano, who has been in a long slump, came out of it with three nice hits.

Eddie Moore, returning to New Orleans where he played such good ball for Larry Gilbert's pennant winners last year, received a big ovation from the fans and also made two hits. But Eddie still isn't himself in the field.

Both he and Chatham have come up with the same kind of bobbles which paved the way for New Orleans two big innings today, the first and sixth. Moore let Holman's hopper play him on the bad bounce in the first and Chatham, who literally eats up the balls hit between him and second, has turned a hundred such grounders as Ward's starting the sixth into putouts. It would have been a fine play had Buster nailed Ward, but he has done it before.

GREAT CHANCE.

In spite of all this, however, Lindsey might have had an excellent chance at victory but for grooving one for Rose in the sixth.

It wasn't such a wholesome start for the Crackers, who are on a nine-day road trip which will, or will not, keep them in the race.

They hope to do fairly well with the Pelicans, however, and then come home with a good record in the four at Birmingham. They have another nine-day trip to Memphis and Little Rock after the lone game with Knoxville at home Saturday and after that they are away for only seven games the rest of the season, having 23 at home.

New Orleans is a vastly improved ball club from the one last seen in Atlanta and has all the earmarks of being the last-half champions with an excellent chance to take the crippled Nashville team in the playoff.

Cleveland has helped the club's punch, which was sadly lacking before, by sending down Carson, the 20-year-old outfielder purchased from St. Joseph in the Western league where he was batting .364. The Crackers, incidentally, had tried to buy Carson previously from the same club, but Cleveland beat them to him. Carson looks like a real hitter, and Gilbert says has "made" his ball club.

Harlee Boss, sent down by Cleveland, also has helped immeasurably. Boss is just finding himself and playing great ball at first.

CLASSY PITCHERS.

The New Orleans pitching staff, however, is the real secret of the club's winning streak. The Pels have the classiest corps of chunkers in the league in Johnson, who scored his 13th win today; Messenger, Galehouse, Milnar and Bryant, the latter being the club's two sensational rookies.

Bryant was sold to the Cubs, after Cleveland refused first choice on him, but will remain with New Orleans until the season is over. Larry Gilbert is too smart to let a winner like this boy get away at this stage of the campaign.

"We wouldn't have been anywhere but for our pitchers," Gilbert stated today. "We have been winning on an average of four runs a game until recently. And we had only three hitters in the .300 column until Carson joined us."

The entire New Orleans outfield of Ward, Rose and Gleeson was batting below that figure until Carson was delivered by the Santa Claus of the Pelicans—the Cleveland club. Gilbert had the choice of taking him or Eddie Moore, but chose Carson to help his slipping outfield.

He plans to pitch Hugh Cas—, who beat Knoxville 3-2 the other night, tomorrow, with Lynn Nelson and Bill Schmidt likely choices to work the double-header Sunday. There will be a postponed game Monday.

Bryant, who has won 1 games and lost 5, will face the Crackers Saturday.

Mercer Star Will Confer With Mack

DAYTONA BEACH, Aug. 3.—(AP) Gerald McQuaig, star Mercer fullback who has been playing in the outfield for the Daytona Beach Islanders, will confer with Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, tomorrow morning relative to signing a contract with the Athletics.

McQuaig left here last night for Philadelphia after Phil Haggerty, Athletic scout, had seen him in a game here yesterday. Haggerty said the Athletics' manager probably would demand that McQuaig quit football immediately.

McQuaig was said to have made the Philadelphia trip reluctantly, not being eager to quit football.

Sopwith Arrives For Cup Races

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—T. O. M. Sopwith, the British airplane builder who will challenge American sailing supremacy with his all-steel Endeavor off Newport in September, today arrived on the Aquitania with Mrs. Sopwith, quietly confident his boat will give a good account of herself in the America's cup contests.

Beyond saying that Endeavor would have no excuses so far as equipment and crew go, Sopwith smilingly declined to make any forecast as to the result of his challenge.

"How long is a piece of string?" he countered, when asked to make a definite prediction one way or the other.

He was met at the pier by Junius Spencer Morgan, commodore of the New York Yacht Club, holder of the famous trophy, and was taken direct to the Morgan estate at Glen Cove to await the arrival of his challenger, which he said should arrive in Newport Monday or Tuesday.

Thomasville Strong For Diamond Ball

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 3.—Diamond ball continues to be one of the most popular of the outdoor sports at this time, several games being played at the local stadium each week, a city league having recently been organized. In addition there are a number of teams outside the league.

The game has attracted men of all ages, quite a few well past the forties and some up in the fifties finding it just the form of recreation best suited to them, and except for a few sore muscles after the first game or two the experience is a most delightful and interesting one. The spectators also get quite a kick out of the games which are played at night.

Tommy Hitchcock Will Ride at Back

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Tommy Hitchcock Jr., around whom the east's team will be built for the east-west polo matches in September, will play in the second test game Sunday at Port Washington.

Hitchcock will ride for the first time at back, the position he is expected to play against the west, on a "white" side which will have Stephen (Laddie) Sanford at No. 1, Raymond Guest at No. 2 and Stewart B. Iglehart at No. 3.

Opposing Hitchcock and his mates will be a "blue" team consisting of Michael Phipps, James P. Mills, Elbridge T. Gerry and Billy Post II, riding in that order.

VALUE TO TEAM, NOT RECORDS, GEHRIG'S DESIRE

Lou Scoffs at Marks But Nevertheless Passes Foxx.

By Jack Cuddy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Locomotive Lou Gehrig, baseball's armor-plated paradox who is slugging murderously toward a batting grand slam this season, scoffed at records today.

Then he went out and blasted two home runs to take the lead from Jimmy Foxx in the American league four-bagger race with a total of 35.

He drove in four runs, getting three hits and a walk in four tries, bringing his total runs driven in to 123—far above anyone in either league. He boosted his batting average to .378. Only Heinie Manush, of the Senators, with .395, has a higher average in the league. But with 56 games left, Lou has a good chance to pass him.

The echoes of Gehrig's dissertation on the unimportance of records had scarcely died down in the Yankee dugout, before the Athletics game, when he made these strides toward a sweep of the batting trinity. Jimmy Foxx, of the A's, is the only modern batsman to accomplish such a sweep. He did it last season.

MAN'S USEFULNESS.

"To me, records mean nothing," the Yanks' indestructible first-sacker proclaimed. "The big thing in baseball is a man's usefulness to his club."

But what about that all-time record for consecutive games which Columbia Lou is still stretching? Including today's encounter, he has participated in 1,448 straight championship games. He started this string on June 1, 1925, when he first stepped into the Yankee lineup as a regular. To keep this record intact, apparently, husky Lou played in games with broken bones, mild brain concussions, lumbago, bumps, bruises and in spite of hell and high water.

"But that string doesn't mean a thing," insisted Gehrig. "It just happened. I never have played in a game when I was unfit. I never played when it was an effort. I like to play baseball, just as I like to eat. (Gehrig has such a reputation for his healthy appetite that some call him "Hungry Lou.") It would take something pretty serious to keep me away from the dinner table, and likewise it takes something pretty serious to keep me out of a game. Besides I figure I owe it to the club to play as often as I can."

But what about a couple of games in which he played only a small portion after injuries.

SMALL MEAL.

Lou smiled. "Well, just figure that I ate a small meal on those days—but I ate nevertheless."

Similarly, Lou explained, if he happens to win the league's batting championship, drive in the most runs (as he did for the past four seasons) and top the circuit in homers, it will be just one of those things. He is trying for no records. But he is out there every minute endeavoring to boost his club along, and incidentally having a swell time.

"Of course," admitted the broad-shouldered slugger, "everyone likes to have a fair batting average, but it's the way club officials figure your value to the team that counts."

Bright Bird Wins For Lord Astor

GOODWOOD, England, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Lord Astor's Bright Bird, an odds-on favorite at 4 to 6, today won the Gordon stakes at one and a half miles by a length and a half from Lord Derby's Pharillon. J. Hornung's Snowden was third. Four ran.

Victor Emanuel's Totaig was unplaced in a six-furlong sprint known as the Chichester stakes, which was won by R. L. Glasspool's Hardy, a 20-to-1 shot. Hardy won by three-quarters of a length from C. Jarvis' Fling Spear II. Sixteen ran.

SMOKIES 8; CHICKS 7.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Staging a Garrison finish in the eighth inning, the Knoxville Smokies nosed out Memphis here this afternoon by the count of 8 to 7.

The winning run came after a session that had been anybody's battle up to the finish and the hits flew off the contenders' bats with the regularity of machine-gun fire, Memphis collecting 16, while the Knoxville war clubs lammed out 10.

Kelly, the Memphis ace, was knocked out of the box in the second inning, and was relieved by Aube and Boward in turn. Knoxville also used three pitchers, Huesser, Hulvey and Moon.

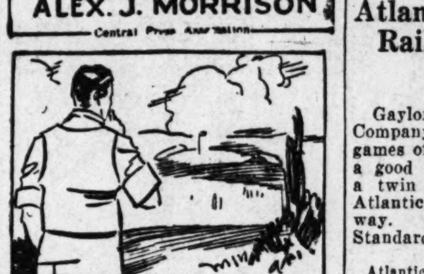
GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Central Press Association



Alex Morrison says:

In trying to get a pupil to change his stance, grip or anything else about his swing you soon learn the part fear plays in golf.

Most players are afraid to make more than a minor change for fear of losing what they've got. Even champions of a sort shy away from any shift that might upset their game.

In fact, the more a conventional player knows of the countless twists and turns that may take place during a round, the more he's apt to respect any and all pet fears.

Worse yet, a player may be gripped by fear and not realize it.

The best bet is to be as carefully careless as you can at all times.

BAZAAR WINNER AT SARATOGA

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—E. R. Bradley's Bazaar, winner of the rich Hopeful stakes at Saratoga last year, showed that she still was partial to the Spa racing strip when she scored an impressive victory in the seven furlongs of the test stakes today.

Opposing four other 3-year-old fillies, the daughter of the English stallion, Tetratema, followed the pace closely and swept to the front, entering the last furlong to beat the Wheatley stable's Slapdash by one and one-half lengths. The Maemere farm's Coequel, after running away three furlongs before the start, was third, another four lengths back.

Bazaar, with only a poor effort in the Kentucky Derby to mar a fine record this year, was the second choice to the Wheatley entry of Slapdash and Fleam. The Bradley filly paid 13 to 10.

The winning surge of J. D. Mikel's Khamseen, 3-year-old son of Sir Greysteel, was stretched to four straight victories when he won the Puritan purse over six furlongs at Narragansett.

A former $1,500 plater claimed from S. W. Labrot, Khamseen defeated the favorite, F. A. Griffith's Cutie Face, by a half-length to pay $10.70 for $2.

Eastern Girls Gain Final Round

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 3. (AP)—Two eastern girls, Katherine Winthrop, of Boston, and Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., turned in surprising victories over two western stars today to gain the final round of the ninth annual Maidstone Club invitation tennis tournament.

Playing excellent tennis, the tall, slender Boston girl eliminated Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, the country's sixth ranked player, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, in one semi-final, while Mrs. Andrus staged a late rally to defeat Mrs. Mary Greef Harris, of Kansas City, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5 in the second.

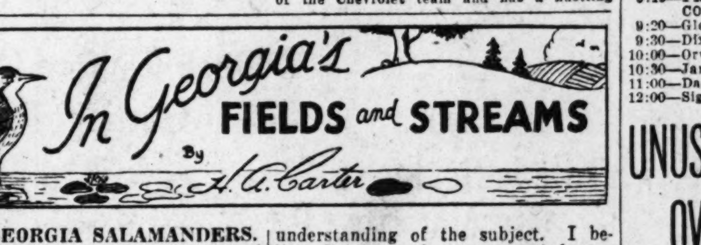
The final match will be played tomorrow afternoon, along with the women's doubles final.

Helen Jacobs Set To Defend Crown

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(UP)—A field of more than 60, headed by the defending champion, Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., has entered the women's national tennis championships starting at Forest Hills August 13, it was announced today. Entries close tomorrow.

The name of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody was missing.

In addition to most ranking stars of the United States a brilliant field of foreign competitors has been entered. Among the British stars to compete are Betty Nuthall, winner of the United States title in 1930, and Freda James and Katherine Stammers.



In Georgia's FIELDS and STREAMS

By H. A. Carter

TWO GEORGIA SALAMANDERS.

In order to overcome my natural inclination to spend too much time on the amphibians in this series, I am grouping today two of our salamanders and will mention them as typical of two primitive families. One of these is known variously as the Congo eel, Congo snake, and blind eel, but correctly as Amphiuma means. The other is called most picturesquely the Hell-bender. Don't ask me why. I prefer the other name of Cryptobranchus alleganiensis, given to it by Daudin 131 years ago.

The Congo "eel" is a beast worthy of much attention. I had a letter last fall from an amphibiologist in a Canadian university asking for information on the breeding and early larvae of this species. The literature on the subject seems barren of information and I was able to give this naturalist nothing in the way of first-hand information, for the creature is one of those sluggish animals whose habitat reminds one of the Latin designation of the Siren, which we will discuss later. "Habitat in Carolinae paludosis" is given for the Siren, and indeed the range of the Siren and the range of our subject are almost perfectly coincident. Georgia, especially south Georgia, needs a museum and a staff to learn and make known these missing facts so important to a proper understanding of the subject. I believe I can promise you more information about this species at the end of the summer, for I am now trying to get some specimens for study in captivity.

The Hell-bender, on the other hand, is comparatively well known, since it ranges into the north, the land of museums and scientific plenty. I have seen specimens from the Pennsylvania rivers 20 inches long. There were half a dozen or so of them in the National Zoological park last year; I suppose they are still there. The animal is seemingly shapeless, for there are folds of skin running down each side that mask the real size of the body. This animal is known to eat the eggs of the mudpuppy which we described yesterday, but so does the mudpuppy, so we cannot hold the Hell-bender strictly to account for this. I have seen specimens from the rivers of the north Georgia mountains, where they seem to prefer the larger and deeper watercourses. Last summer about this time we saw what we thought was Cryptobranchus in a small trickle in Rabun county, but identification is not possible at a glance.

When this summer's work shall have revealed the secrets of the Congo snake, we will have more about it to pass on to you.

WESTERN.

Central Baptist Joy Class and Lakewood Criterion will meet at Almand Park today in the first game of a three-game series for the champion of the Western league in the Sunday School Amateur Athletic Association. One game will be played each Saturday until the championship is decided.

Both clubs have played good ball throughout the season with Joy Class taking the last half with seven straight victories and the Criterion winning the first half in the same manner. Both teams are at their best.

Milstead Y. M. C. A., with a chance to tie for first place in the last half of the Southern league with Ankyra Class, will play the latter at Adair park. Ankyra has six straight wins to its credit while Milstead has dropped one out of six attempts.

Both games will start at 3 o'clock.

GEORGIA LEAGUE.

McKendree Methodist and Avondale Baptist will battle on the Lee Baking Company diamond for the Georgia league lead in the best game of the Georgia league series this afternoon. This game should furnish one of the best hurling duels of the season. John McKinley will chunk for the Baptist boys, while Baker will be in the firing pit for the boys of McKendree Methodist.

Another good game in the loop sends Mayson Methodist to Roswell, where they are slated to play the boys of the North Fulton city. Jack Etheridge, ace hurler of Mayson, will endeavor to tame the hard-hitters of the Roswell clan. The complete schedule:

Mayson Methodist at Roswell. Umpire, Butcher.

COMMERCIAL.

With five more weeks of play left in the Commercial league, the leaders of the two sections of the race for the second half face a hard fight to stick at the top.

Today the feature game should be the battle between the Chevrolet Motor Company and Fisher Body Company.

Although Fisher Body, from past performances, has the better club, the last time the two clubs met Fisher had a hard time downing their co-workers. Paul Fittery, a former Cracker hurler, is manager of the Chevrolet team and has a hustling ball club. Lefty Williams, former Brooklyn star, is heading the Fisher Body crew.

The other star battle is the one between American Bakeries and White Provision Company.

Gulf Refining Co. vs. Pinson Tire Co. at John A. White. Umpire, Van Houten.

CHEROKEE LEAGUE.

The Alpha Class-Fulton Bag and Cotton Mill game on the Fair Street diamond Thursday afternoon is a great offering for Cherokee league fans. These two clubs have furnished the best games played in the league all season, Fulton winning both by a small margin. Thelma Mattox will pitch for the Millers, while "Lefty" Clements will hurl for Alpha. Martha Brown Memorial will play Pattillo Memorial on the latter's diamond to complete the series.

PierreHoward Enters Finals

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Presenting an attack which rendered his opponent practically helpless, Pierre Howard, ranked No. 7 in the south Georgia tennis championship, this morning won his way to the finals of the event by scoring an easy triumph over the highly favored Dave Hedekin, Panama Canal Zone, seeded No. 1. The smooth stroking Decatur ace tomorrow will meet W. B. Marcum, Lakeland, Fla., for the singles title. Marcum advanced today by trouncing J. H. Drake, Fort Benning, dropping only one of the four sets played.

Howard, who scored the tournament's major upset in defeating Hedekin, took the first set from the Central American with ease, 6-2, and then followed with a 6-4 win. Hedekin raillied to capture the third set, 6-3, but dropped the fourth, 2-6.

Drake opened his match with Marcum with a 10-8 victory but was edged out, 5-7, in the second. At that point Marcum grew stronger and lost only one game in the final two sets, 6-1 and 6-0.

In the women's division Lila Porter, Mobile, Ala., triumphed over Kate Jackson, Bainbridge, with ease. The scores were 6-2, 6-1. In the other semi-final match Mrs. Frank Coyne, Atlanta, defending champion, fell by the wayside as Evangeline McLennan, Decatur, won by scores of 7-5, 6-3. Mrs. Coyne had been favored to take the match and defend her crown tomorrow against Miss Porter.

ROMANOFF WINS IN ROUGH MATCH

George Romanoff, light heavyweight champion of the world, defeated Bill Crussell, Atlanta favorite, in the main match at the Key arena last night before a crowd of some 3,000 fans. Many were turned away.

It was a rough match and it was some 50 minutes before Romanoff was able to do anything with the fast Crussell. Use of his flying fists aided Crussell in his effort to defeat the tough little Romanoff.

Billy Lolas won from Wayne Coleman in the short opener. This match was another rough affair.

One of the largest crowds of the season attended the match and another good card was announced for next Friday night.

Eight hundred new seats will be erected to take care of next week's crowd.

MUNY GOLFERS IN FINAL ROUND AT PITTSBURGH

Armstrong, High School Star, Meets Mitchell, Stoker Salesman.

SOUTH PARK, PITTSBURGH, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Art Armstrong, the Honolulu high school boy, who would rather play football than golf, and Dave Mitchell, 26-year-old stoker salesman of Indianapolis, will battle it out tomorrow for the championship of the national public links tournament.

The grinning Armstrong, who is only 17 years old, beat a game golfer from San Antonio, Texas, Lorraine Young, 5 and 3, in his 36-hole semifinal match and Mitchell turned back Joe Coria, of St. Paul, 2 up. Coria is the fighting youngster who eliminated the 1933 titleholder, Charles Ferrera, in the third round.

Tomorrow's title-match will be over 36 holes.

The crowd appeared to bother Young. He was 5 down at the end of the first 18 holes. In the afternoon Armstrong lost the first hole, then measured a 25-foot putt to go 5 up again on the second.

The match continued until the 15th green where Armstrong ended it with a birdie 3.

Mitchell and Coria went through the morning round wise-cracking with each other. It ended with Coria leading 2 up.

Shooting par going out, Mitchell won the second, third and fifth holes of the afternoon.

For 12 successive holes then the two dueled along without either gaining one. On the 18th Mitchell putted his third shot to within a foot of the hole. Coria putted from 20 feet and rolled past. He kicked Mitchell's ball to his 6-foot, 185-pound smiling opponent, conceding the hole and making the score 2 up.

DAN SAGE BEATEN IN OPENING ROUND

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 3.—Dan Sage, Jr., Atlanta golf star, was eliminated in the opening round of match play in the annual Belle Meade Country Club invitation meet here this morning. He bowed to Jimmy Tupper, Nashville, on the 18th green.

Twin Bill Sunday To Aid Firemen

A double-header for the benefit of the Atlanta fireman's band will be played Sunday afternoon at the ball park. Tubby Walton's Firecrackers and the Gaylord Containers, will open the program at 2 o'clock, followed by the Buckhead 50 Club and the Goodyear Tire nine at 4 o'clock.

In addition to the two ball games, there will be a watermelon eating contest, a tug of war between the policemen and the firemen and a clowning act by Tubby Walton and Frank Darnell.

Tickets are on sale at Fire Stations No. 1, 4 and 8; Five Points Cigar Company and Marshall and Reynolds Cigar store.

UNUSUAL WORK AIRED OVER WGST TONIGHT

The radio premiere of LaSalle Spier's "Impressions of the Bowery" and Hans Kindler's arrangements of two unusual seventeenth century Dutch melodies will be played by the Philadelphia Summer Concerts orchestra over the WGST-Columbia chain tonight from 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Kindler will conduct the orchestra in beautiful Robin Hood Dell, Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. "In Time of Stress" and "See How Strong This Tiny Nation" are the Dutch melodies arranged by the noted conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra. They were originally the fighting hymns of Hollanders struggling for freedom from Spanish domination from 1568 to 1648. The first is a sombre summons to the defense of the fatherland. The latter is a martial battle hymn ending on a theme of victory.

"Impressions of the Bowery," a musical description of New York's famous thoroughfare, was composed by LaSalle Spier, prominent Washington pianist, in September, 1933. It was first performed by Kindler and the National Symphony on January 28, 1934.

The remainder of the program will be devoted to Ernest Chausson's only symphony, opus 20 in B flat major, one of the most colorful and dramatic of modern symphonic works, and the vivacious "Polonaise" from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Christmas Eve."

By FREDERICK GARDNER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Ignoring inflation talk that caused an abrupt decline in the dollar against foreign exchanges, the stock market sagged today in slow trading.

Leading commodities also failed to rise to the inflation bait held out by the foreign exchange market. A heavy tone pervaded most markets, with week-end profit-taking by traders a factor in leveling off the previous advance of stocks and grains.

The sharpest rise in the French franc, Dutch guilders, Swiss franc and other European currencies in weeks was attributed chiefly to selling of the dollar from Paris. Wall Street heard that an inflationary interpretation had been placed upon Secretary Morgenthau's announcement that the treasury would print silver certificates as fast as possible against its purchases of the metal.

In Wall Street, however, the inflationary significance of the silver program was minimized. Bar silver was marked up 1-8 of a cent an ounce to 46 3-4, duplicating the 1934 peak, but even metal shares sold off in the stock market.

With volume dwindling to 465,910 shares, compared with 558,980 yesterday, the market settled deeper into inertia while traders waited for new incentive.

A break of nearly 3 points in Chrysler, following publication of its mid-year earnings report, showing that profits failed to keep pace with an expansion in business, helped to unsettle stocks, especially the motor group. General Motors lost more than a point. Auburn was an exception and finished a point higher.

Aviation shares attracted a little buying on additional reports of plans for strengthening military air forces including U. S. army desires for a stronger aviation defense. Douglas, United Aircraft and Curtiss-Wright A netted small gains while Wright Aero, a relatively inactive issue, spurted more than 3 points.

EARNINGS DECREASE FOR FACTORY WORKERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Labor Department reported today factory workers earned an average of 1.6 per cent less in June than in May.

The report covered 23,347 factories employing 3,750,605 workers. Weekly earnings averaged $19.51.

Among the 90 industries surveyed, 41 showed gains in average weekly earnings. Cement had a gain on 8.5 per cent; chewing and smoking tobacco 7.1, and plumbers' supplies 5.9.

The largest decline was in cotton goods, 11.5 per cent.

The report said the decreases in a number of industries were due to seasonal curtailment of activity.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe there is a strong probability that inflationary psychology will play a prominent role during the short session Saturday and possibly revive broader interest in equities.

BEER & CO.—We would be inclined to accept trading profits on any advance from the present point, but would not disturb longer term holdings.

COURTS & CO.—We hear that the statistical position of the oil group is good, and that there has been some real buying in the past.

DOBBS & CO.—We would not expect any worth-while changes in our markets over the balance of the week in spite of the disruptions which took place in the foreign exchange markets during the last half hour Friday.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—There appears to be the usual disposition of traders with profits to cash them in advance of the bureau report. If this continues, process may sag some.

BEER & CO.—We do not advise our friends to go over the bureau report either long or short.

COURTS & CO.—We continue friendly to the market and believe prices will be higher after next Wednesday's report.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—The fear that government controlled cotton may come out on the market at any time is probably the chief influencing cause of the unsettled condition in the market.

HUBBARD BROTHERS & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—It seems difficult to formulate any definite opinion of the price outlook pending the government report and in the meantime we are inclined to look for irregularity in a comparatively narrow market.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—We believe the coming week will see accumulation of wheat contracts to be carried over the government report.

FENNER & BEANE—A technical reaction in the wheat market may be necessary to revive general buying, but for the long pull we can see possibilities only on the long side.

Earnings.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—J. C. Penney Co. and subsidiaries report for the six months ended June 30, net profit of $6,698,436 after charges equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.59 a share on the common. This compares with $3,448,319, or $1.27 a share on the common in the first half of 1933.

Barnsdall Corporation had net profit in the six months ended June 30, of $133,649 after charges, compared with net loss of $1,835,299 in the first half of 1933.

VALUES ON CURB TURN IRREGULAR

By BERNARD S. O'HARA.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Curb shares closed narrowly irregular today after drifting in exceedingly dull dealings.

The market started steady enough, but scattered selling appeared at the end of the first hour. The mild pressure lifted, in spots, in the late afternoon dealings. Activity was at its lowest in the fourth hour when only 7,000 shares were traded.

A few specialties moved independent of the general trend. Parker Rust Proof finished up 3 points, while Aluminum Company of America, Canadian Industrial Alcohol B and Lynch Corporation closed 1 to 2 higher. Negligible changes were shown by Electric Bond & Share, Standard Oil of Indiana and Swift & Company. Waco Aircraft firmed slightly in sympathy with active buying of aircraft shares on the big board.

Gulf Oil and Hiram Walker yielded around a point each following their recent firmness. Fractional recessions appeared in Swift Internacional, Glen Alden Coal and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams.

Transfers approximated 98,000 shares, compared with 110,000 yesterday.

Market Outlook

By MAX BUCKINGHAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(UP)—Inflation influences swept into certain sections of Wall Street today, missing the stock market, and brought revived interest in monetary problems.

Foreign exchange desks at leading banks—long desks filled with telephones and telegraph instruments which provide a constant pulse on international currencies — suddenly came to life as foreigners grew alarmed over possible inflation in the United States. French traders sold American dollars and this selling was reflected in relative strength in other currencies.

BASED ON RUMORS.

It was entirely rumor but rumor based on:

Plan to start printing silverbacks.

Recent statements of Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, favoring inflation.

Belief President Roosevelt will take some definite new monetary stand shortly, possibly in a speech on his tour from the Pacific coast to Washington. He is scheduled for a major speech at Green Bay, Wis., next Thursday.

But these inflation interpretations abroad were not reflected in stock or commodity trading. Share prices—in a dull session in which only 460,000 shares were exchanged—dipped irregularly lower with no particular interest manifest in any particular group. Chrysler was depressed, dropping 2 7-8 points to 32 5-8. The selling in this issue was based on the earnings report which indicated the tremendous increase in costs of operation. Commodity trading was dull even though the United Press-Dun & Bradstreet index of 30 cash commoditie reached another new high for the year at 115.92 per cent of the 1930-32 average.

MARKET FACTORS.

Meanwhile news developments affecting the market included:

Business failures, according to the Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., compilation, dropped 11.7 per cent in July and reached the smallest total since July, 1920.

Beer production in June was the highest since legalization. There was a little better tone generated into liquor stocks also on belief earnings may begin to show a pickup shortly.

Private compilations reported that construction of private homes was lagging considerably. Some trade reviews observed, however, that pressure behind the home construction program will create a lively interest shortly in various construction fields.

Aggregate value of all stocks listed on the stock exchange in July dropped $3,687,886,059 in July to a level more than $2,000,000,000 under the total value of a year ago.

Freight car loadings dropped more than 6,000 cars under the preceding week and were well under the corresponding week of 1933.

FURTHER GAINS NOTED IN LUMBER INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Continued improvement in the lumber industry was reported today by the National Lumber Manufacturer's Association for the week ending July 28.

Based on the activities of 1,345 mills, the associations' report showed orders at 203,553,000 feet compared with 140,406,000 feet for the previous week. Production was given at 166,783,000 feet against 162,535,000 feet while shipments climbed to 144,341,000 feet from 134,672,000 feet.

The week's new business was higher than at any time during the past nine weeks while production reached a new high for the previous four weeks.

DECLINE REPORTED IN CRUDE OIL STOCK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Stocks of domestic and foreign crude oil at the close of the week of July 28 were reported by the oil administration today at 341,313,000 barrels, a decline of 1,298,000 from stocks on hand July 21.

Domestic crude stocks decreased 973,000 and foreign crude 325,000 barrels.

Reports from the industry indicated that the daily average crude oil production during the week of July 28 declined approximately 50,000 barrels to 2,610,000. Imports doubled and runs to stills increased about 35,000 barrels daily to an average of 2,625,000 barrels.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Bleachable cottonseed oil was quiet today but the tone was steady, with final prices 1 point lower to 5 net higher. Distant positions were relatively firm, with March again making a new high for the season. NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Trading in cotton was quiet again today and prices worked gradually lower under further realizing or liquidation. Unfavorable features in the weather and crop news evidently failed to stimulate demand and the market responded to comparatively small selling orders. December declined to 13.07 in the late trading and closed at that figure, or about 28 points below the high price of last Tuesday. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 12 to 14 points.

The opening was barely steady, unchanged to a decline of 2 points in the face of steady Liverpool cables and unfavorable crop reports from the southwest. The failure of these features to bring in more aggressive buying was evidently a disappointment and liquidation became more active later in the day. October broke through the 13-cent level, selling off to 12.97, while March declined to 13.24 in the late trading and closing prices were the lowest for the day.

The selling was attributed chiefly to realizing or liquidation in preparation for the government crop report of next Wednesday. Another of the private end-July reports was issued this morning, placing the condition at 61.9 and the indicated yield at 9,375,000 bales. These figures were without apparent effect on the market, as they were within the range of recent reports.

According to a canvas made during the morning, New York Cotton Exchange members on the average are expecting a crop figure of around 9,434,000 bales and one of the cables received here from Liverpool said the trade there was looking for a crop of about 9,300,000 bales. Liverpool was credited with selling a little cotton here during the day and the market there will be closed for the holidays tomorrow and on Monday. Exports today, 19,946, making 27,382 so far this season. Port receipts, 7,391. United States port stocks, 2,408,327.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON DECLINES 4-12 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Cotton was decidedly quiet today and prices were influenced downward by pre-bureau liquidation and easier stocks. After gaining 2 points over the previous close at the start the market gradually eased off and closed steady at net declines of 11 to 12 points.

The opening was steady and Liverpool cables came in a shade better than due. Manchester cabled that the sale of cloths and yarns were unimportant.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 4 to 5 penny points down. Port receipts 7,817, for the week and season 21,439, last season 27,922. Exports 20,322, for week and season 44,553, last season 58,923. Port stock 2,415,595, last year 3,000,522. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 58,846, last year 88,351. Spot sales at southern markets 4,663, last year 7,613.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The bond market held close to a neutral line today and failed to move much either up or down. Better grade utilities were fairly steady, but considerable irregularity cropped out in other sections of the list.

Transfers aggregated $8,034,000, par value, compared with $7,192,000 on Thursday. The Standard Statistics Company average for 60 domestic corporate loans held unchanged at 84.7.

Obligations of the Denver & Rio Grande, General Theater, Hudson Coal, International Great Northern, Wabash, and Wisconsin Central, were actually higher.

Utility issues that improved included some of American & Foregin Power, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Laclede Gas, New England Telephone, Ohio Public Service and Western Union.

Many high-grade corporate bonds were neglected and, while a number of them advanced fractionally, such issues as Santa Fe 4s, California Petroleum 5s, Canadian Pacific 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5 1-2s, Sinclair 7s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s and Wilson & Company 6s, sold around 1-2 point lower. Great Northern 4 1-2s declined 1 1-2 to 68 1-2 and Nickel Plate 6s yielded 7-8 of a point to 63.

Treasury issues and Liberties were uneven, there being eight advances and 11 declines in this section ranging all the way from 1-32ds to 7-32ds of a point.

Bank Clearings

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—In spite of the fact that the clearings at cities outside of New York registered a small decline this week, the figure at New York city rose $255,823,000, carrying the total to a level 5.8 per cent above the previous week's.

The total for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was $4,521,046,000, which was 8.0 per cent below that for the comparative period a year ago; a week earlier the decline broadened to 23.0 per cent. Clearings at New York city were $3,003,332,000, a loss of 12.0 per cent, while the aggregate of $1,517,714,000 for all outside centers was higher by 2.9 per cent.

This week's clearings exceeded those of last week's by $246,796,000, while in 1933 the amount was smaller by $637,289,000 in the comparison covering the corresponding two weeks. The break in the New York stock market at this time last year was mainly the cause of this decline. Part of the monthly settlements due at the close of the month appear in the statement both this year and last. Gains were substantial this week at Philadelphia, Baltimore, Detroit, St. Louis, Omaha, Atlanta, Louisville and Dallas.

Figures for leading cities, compared with those of last year are printed herewith; also daily bank clearings for the year to date. In addition, comparative figures are given for the first six months of the current year and the corresponding period of last year:

WOODRING PLEDGES FLORIDA CANAL ACTION

OCALA, Fla., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Harry A. Woodring, acting secretary of war, has advised Congressman R. A. Green that a preliminary report of the special board of engineers appointed to investigate the cost of the proposed cross-Florida ship canal is being studied by the war department's rivers and harbors engineers.

The report, Woodring said, will be placed before congress with the recommendation of the chief of army engineers.

"In the meantime," Woodring wrote Green, "the special board of engineers . . . is now engaged in special studies in connection with the cost of construction and operation of the proposed waterway."

He said the board would attempt to complete the special studies as quickly as possible.

"Please be assured," Woodring said, "that this department is fully appreciative of the importance of this project to the state of Florida, and that its final conclusions will be reached as promptly as careful and consistent engineering and economic analysis will permit."

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Succumbing to the weight of persistent profit-taking sales on price advances, the wheat market turned downward at the last today.

Rallies which in the end failed to hold were due largely to the fact that Canada's 1934 wheat crop was estimated at as low as 250,000,000 bushels, whereas a month ago the Canadian government figures indicated 350,000,000 bushels. Besides, a next season repetition of this year's crop failure in the United States winter wheat belt was authoritatively predicted today unless there is a radical improvement of moisture supply within the next six weeks.

Despite strength in the corn market, wheat closed easy, 1-8 to 1-2 under yesterday's finish; corn 1-4 to 5-8 up; oats 1-8 to 3-8 down, and provisions showing 2 to 12 cents gain.

This was the third day of extensive profit-taking sales in the wheat market here, and as a consequence all fresh advances were kept within fractional limits despite encouragement which buyers received from Liverpool upturns attributed to apprehension over the changing world wheat crop situation, especially as regards North America.

Provisions advanced, responsive to upturns of hog values.

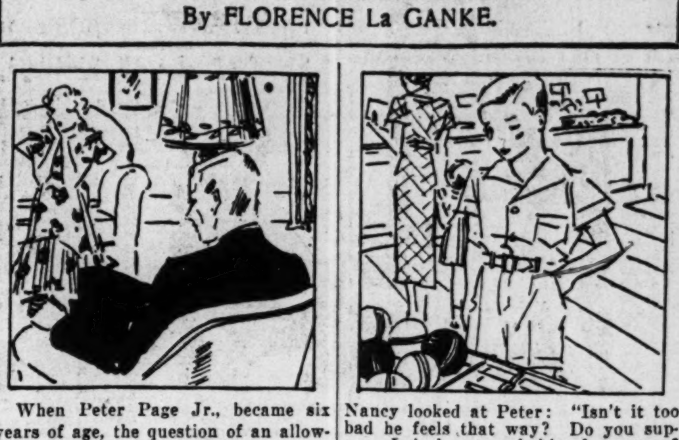
NANCY PAGE

Peter and Roger Argue for and Against Allowances

By FLORENCE La GANKE.



When Peter Page Jr., became six years of age, the question of an allowance came up for discussion. Both his father and his mother were in favor of giving him some money of his own. They happened to say so one evening when Roger and Lois were over. Roger disagreed with them.

"No, sir. If you give that child money, he will spend it on cheap candy and make himself sick. Mark my words—that's what he will do."

"I'll take you up on that, Roger. I bet he won't—and I'll tell you why. In the first place, we intend to have candy in the house—simple candy, but good—and we shall tell him he may help himself. So there will be no need of his spending money for that."

"Well, then you'll tell him he must give part of it to Sunday school—and put part of it in the bank—and what chance will the kid have of learning how to use money? No, sir, allowances are the bunk. But I'll never let Ann have an allowance. She can come to me for money when she wants it."

After Roger and Lois had gone, Nancy looked at Peter: "Isn't it too bad he feels that way? Do you suppose Lois has to ask him for money? Surely he gives her an allowance? Anyway we will show him what an allowance means to a child."

Peter Page Junior, was given 10 cents a week. He was told he could spend it whenever he wanted to and as he wished. It took great patience on Nancy's part to go shopping with him. He hung in agonies of indecision over the red ball versus the blue one, but she let him make his own choice, and suffer his own regrets. He spent his money the day after he received it the first month, then he began to see that the more desirable things cost 20 or 30 cents. Of his own accord he learned to save for a week or two, in order to get what he really wanted. Needless to say all of this was relayed to Roger, who finally was convinced of the wisdom of the Pages.

Nancy Page has a leaflet on "Candy Making." Write for a copy, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BIG INCREASE SHOWN IN TOBACCO EXPORTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A "notable improvement" in American tobacco export trade in the first half of this year was reported today by the tobacco division of the department of commerce.

Sales abroad during the six months were valued at $45,336,350, the department said, which was 65 per cent ahead of the corresponding period for 1933 and within 29 per cent of the 1929 figure.

Leaf tobacco exported during the six months period amounted to 207,-271,928 pounds, as compared with 168,411,377 pounds last year and 226,-095,946 pounds in 1929.

The return to leaf tobacco shippers for the first half of 1934 was more than $41,319,000, an increase of 70 per cent in income over the first six months of last year.

The division said manufactured tobacco exports "increased in volume and value" over last year's business.

The increase in cigaret exports was nearly 55.5 per cent, smoking tobacco about 35 per cent and chewing tobacco 6 per cent. The value of manufactured tobacco exports in the six months period this year was $4,016,-786 as compared with the 1933 period value of $3,117,949, or an increase of approximately 28.8 per cent.

The tobacco division said bright flue-cured tobacco represented about 66 per cent of the 1924 increase.

American Dollar Has Sharp Reaction

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(UP)—The American dollar experienced its sharpest reaction in weeks today on selling which followed rumors of further inflationary developments and a possible advance in the London gold price.

Foreign exchange trading turned extremely active in the afternoon and fluctuations in the domestic market made it difficult for traders to quote rates. The pound sterling led the advance, firming one cent to $5.04 3-4. Profit taking late in the day erased part of this gain and British funds closed at $5.04 1-2.

Strength spread to all of the principal gold bloc rates. German marks and Dutch guilders gained about 1-4 cent each, Swiss francs were up 12 points at 32.74 cents, and smaller gains were noted in French francs, Italian lire and belgas. The Canadian dollar closed at $1.01 25-32, up 1-16 cent.

GOOD FALL BUSINESS SEEN BY TRADE REVIEW

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Current indications point to a fall trade not much below that of last year, but on a more orderly basis and "devoid of the extreme fluctuations of that period," says the Dun & Bradstreet Weekly Business Review.

"The maintenance of retail distribution above the comparative level of a year ago is one of the most reassuring factors in the present situation," the summary states. "Reports this week showed the largest gains on the Pacific coast, where postponed buying of urgent needs crowded the stores with shoppers who had been forced to curtail budgets for more than two months on account of the strike.

"In the southwest the industrial and wholesale divisions have been affected seriously by the drouth, but retail trade has held up remarkably well, with the gains in sales running steadily around 25 per cent better than at this period a year ago. In the midwest there was a brisk turn for the better in most districts, while in the east more comfortable summer weather and special promotional events lifted the total of retail sales to the best position achieved in nearly three weeks."

The agency finds that although business has already started upward again, there is an urgent need for some strong stimulus to enable the turn to gather momentum and suggests that extension of industrial credits by the government, coupled with the home modernization program, will make long strides in the desired direction.

AIR DEFENSE PLANS ARE SHAPED FOR U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The war department has perfected a $33,000,000 plan to encircle the United States with anti-aircraft defenses.

The plans will be laid before the next session of congress. They call for the newest thing in anti-aircraft guns, searchlights and fire control equipment for:

1. Eight regular army regiments.
2. Seven national guard regiments.
3. Nineteen inactive regular army regiments.

The disclosures follows studies by war department experts, who called American anti-aircraft defenses inadequate.

Secretary of War Dern, as a result of a recent inspection, is described as feeling that the Panama canal is seriously lacking in defense against enemy aircraft.

Army men are moving to strengthen their air forces, also. The air corps has submitted a program to buy about 1,000 planes to bring its fleet up to the 2,340 urged by the Newton D. Baker investigating board. The general staff's approval is expected soon.

Congress has the say about providing the money. Although the program is designated for 1936, it is not expected that more than 500 planes will be purchased that fiscal year. That, with other purchases already planned for the interim, would give the army 1,800 serviceable planes.

At present the United States has four skeletonized anti-aircraft organizations in this country, and four in Panama, Hawaii and the Philippines. The war department would bring those units to full strength and equipment. The national guard organizations also are described as "woefully lacking in modern equipment."

TWO HURT IN CRASH OF TRAIN AND ENGINE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two men were injured, one seriously, today in the collision of an Atlantic Coast Line Railway freight train and a switch engine.

Henderson Harris, negro switchman, was said to be suffering dangerous injuries, while the condition of C. A. Cruse, yard conductor, was reported as more favorable.

Large Whisky Cache Found and Destroyed

Four Fulton deputy sheriffs seized 450 gallons of a fine brand of whisky late Friday night in a raid on a house at 836 St. Charles avenue, N. E., according to police reports.

Deputies S. G. Davies, Gus Howard Jr., Seab Sharp and Joe Schilling raided the residence and discovered a large cache of bourbon whisky and a barrel of gin on the second floor of the dwelling.

The house was unoccupied and no arrests were made last night. The officers said it was one of the largest seizures made in Atlanta for some time. The contraband was confiscated and poured out at Fulton tower.

MUSSOLINI STAGES BLOODLESS 'PURGE'

Il Duce Strikes Swiftly To End Defection at Bologna.

ROME, Aug. 3.—(UP)—A drastic, though "bloodless, purge" of the Bologna branch of the fascist party has been effected under the orders of Premier Benito Mussolini, it was announced today.

Twenty fascists at Bologna were expelled from the party on orders issued through Achille Starace, secretary-general, on behalf of Il Duce.

Among the former leaders expelled were Leandro Arpinati, erstwhile undersecretary of the interior, and Mario Ghinelli, former secretary of the fascist party in Bologna province.

The following communique, issued at Bologna, explained the purging:

"Twenty fascists have been expelled from the party by Secretary General Achille Starace because they showed an attitude slightly in contrasts with the traditional spirit of fascism, manifesting it by solidarity with a fascist who was expelled because he opposed party orders."

Arpinati, who also was formerly a member of the chamber of deputies, was the fascist mentioned as causing the dissension. He was expelled from the party on July 23 because "in various circumstances he assumed an attitude in contrast to directions which should be followed by whoever has the honor of belonging to the fascist party."

The officials revealed Arpinati was arrested July 25 at his residence at Malacappa, near Bologna, and sentenced by the local fascist committee to five years "enforced domicile" on the bleak Lipari islands, off Sicily, in the Mediterranean—Italy's "Devil's island" for political prisoners.

COUNTY NOT TO GIVE MORE TO RELIEF FUND

Fulton county will be unable to meet the $175,000 appropriation due the federal relief administration for the remainder of the year and definite word to that effect was transmitted Friday in a letter to Miss Gay B. Shepperson by George F. Longino, chairman of the board of county commissioners.

Mr. Longino's action followed a meeting of the finance committee at which it was decided that the only possible way the county can meet the federal appropriation would be by the old expedient of "robbing Peter to pay Paul." It was pointed out by Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the finance committee, that the county is limited by law to not more than $300,-000 per year for charitable appropriations, and that to pay the balance requested would be impossible.

Mr. Longino said that he did not expect the board will agree to cut appropriations for Grady hospital, the Community Chest and other agencies, in order to make a federal appropriation possible.

Members of the commission will meet Tuesday night with Alderman I. G. Hailey, Miss Ada M. Barker and others for a discussion of the general relief situation.

18-PLANE SQUADRON LANDS AT AIRPORT ON WAY TO BENNING

A squadron of army pursuit planes, under command of Captain Hal George, refueled at Candler field Friday morning in a hop from Langley field to Fort Benning to take part in the infantry school maneuvers in progress there.

The 18 fighting planes, in three flights, composing the 35th pursuit squadron at Langley, arrived at the airport at 9 o'clock and left at noon. The first flight was under the command of the squadron commander, the second under Captain Rex Stoner, and the third under Lieutenant Jack Hodgson, who was stationed at Candler field when the air corps was handling the work of flying the mail.

Early Friday morning a new Martin bomber and two transport ships carrying mechanics, stopped at Candler field en route to Columbus from Langley field.

On Thursday 10 bombers from Langley stopped at Candler field for refueling before going to Fort Benning. All of the planes which passed through are slated to return to Atlanta today and spend the night here.

REVIVAL AT HAPEVILLE STARTS SUNDAY NIGHT

A series of young people's revival meetings, led by H. E. Smith Jr. and sponsored by the Christian Crusaders of Hapeville, will begin Sunday night at the First Baptist Church of Hapeville.

From Monday through Friday meetings will be held daily at 10 o'clock in the morning and 8 o'clock at night, ending with a special consecration service Friday night. The businessmen of Hapeville are co-operating in a special discussion Tuesday morning on "Jesus Christ's Business Philosophy of Life." At a meeting for men only Sunday afternoon, August 12, at 3 o'clock, "The Exaltation of Virtuous Living" will be discussed. The preceding Saturday has been designated as recreation day.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, August 3.—Raw sugar was firm today and prices were unchanged at 3.30 for spot Cubas duty paid. No sales were actually confirmed today, but it was rumored that something had been done above the 3.30 level for late August and early September shipment.

There was a little more activity in futures, and price movements were irregular, early gains of 1 to 2 points being lost later under increased liquidation, with the market closing net unchanged to 1 point lower. Sales were 33,200 tons.

Range of prices:

	High.	Low.	Last.
September	1.80	1.78	1.78-79
December	1.86	1.84	1.84
January	1.84	1.84	1.83b
March	1.87	1.87	1.87
May	1.92	1.91	1.91b

b—Bid.

The refined market was unchanged with refiners' listing at 4.75 for fine granulated, although resale offerings were around at 5 points less. A moderate withdrawal demand was reported, but new business was still light.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Coffee was lower today under trade and foreign selling, probably prompted by lower prices in Brazilian markets. Other trade interests and commission houses bought on the scale down.

Santos opened 10 to 12 lower and closed 16 to 20 lower. Sales 22,000. No. 7 opened 11 to 12 lower and closed 18 to 20 lower. Sales 5,000. Closing quotations, Santos: September 10.30; December 10.64; March 10.70; May 10.78; July 10.83. No. 7: September 7.83; December 7.97; March 8.06; May 8.12; July 8.16.

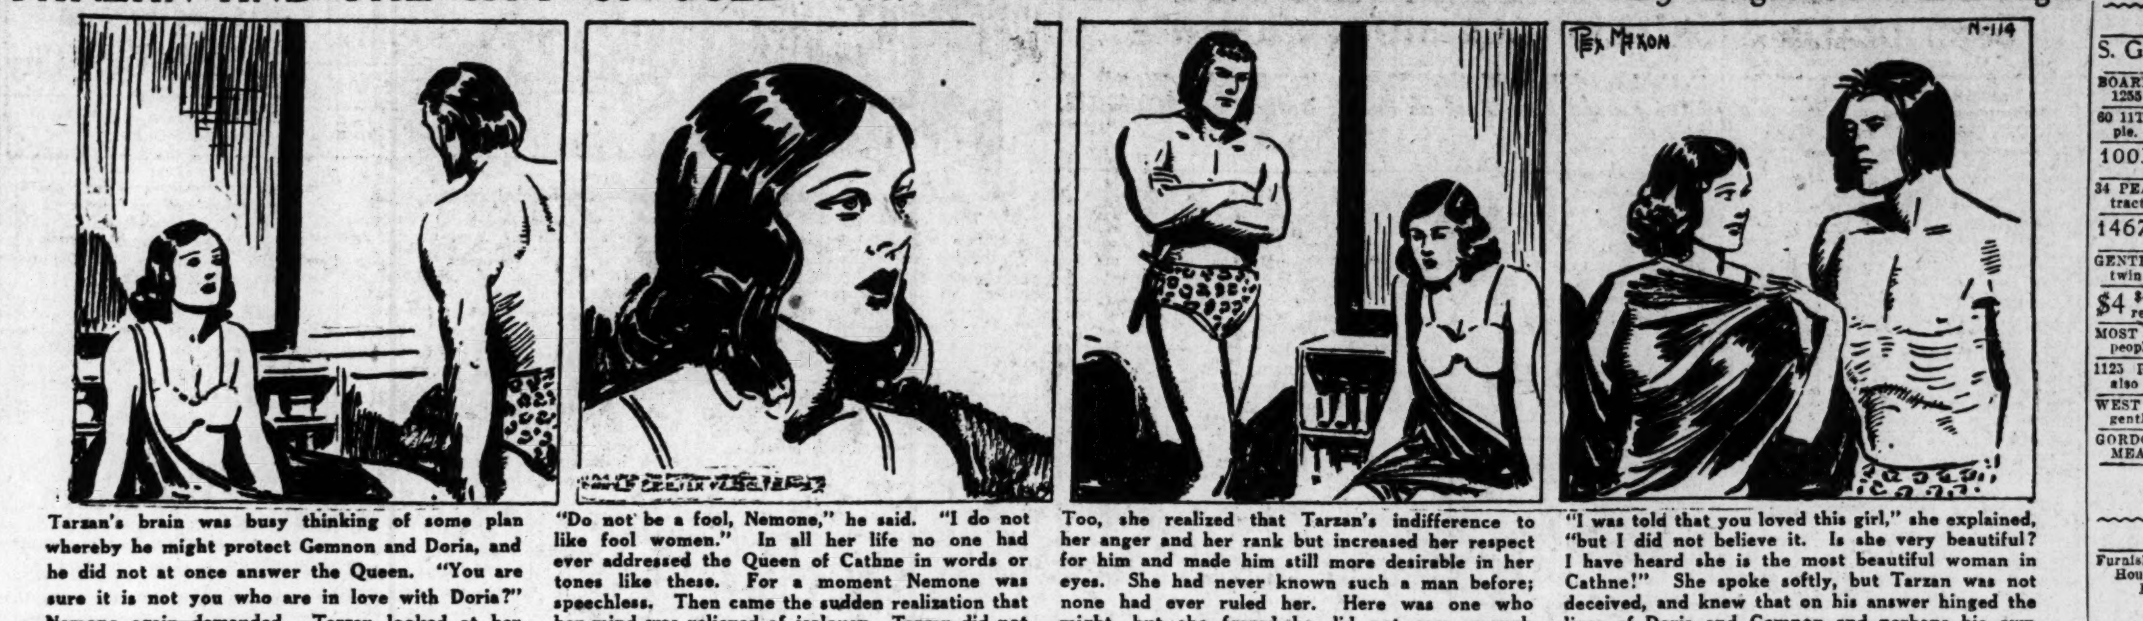
TARZAN AND THE CITY OF GOLD No. 114

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Tarzan's brain was busy thinking of some plan whereby he might protect Gemnon and Doria, and he did not at once answer the Queen. "You are sure it is not you who are in love with Doria?" Nemone again demanded. Tarzan looked at her with disgust he made no effort to conceal.

"Do not be a fool, Nemone," he said. "I do not like fool women." In all her life no one had ever addressed the Queen of Cathne in words or tones like these. For a moment Nemone was speechless. Then came the sudden realization that her mind was relieved of jealousy—Tarzan did not love Doria!

Too, she realized that Tarzan's indifference to her anger and her rank but increased her respect for him and made him still more desirable in her eyes. She had never known such a man before; none had ever ruled her. Here was one who might, but she feared he did not care enough about her to wish to rule her.

"I was told that you loved this girl," she explained, "but I did not believe it. Is she very beautiful? I have heard she is the most beautiful woman in Cathne!" She spoke softly, but Tarzan was not deceived, and knew that on his answer hinged the lives of Doria and Gemnon and perhaps his own fate.

DRIVE CAREFULLY TODAY

OUT-OF-STATE DRIVERS

The summer season is the time when our city streets and country highways carry the traffic of many out-of-state cars. Our state laws and local ordinances are strange to many of these folk. They are likely to be doing a lot of looking when they are driving. Make due allowances for these foreign cars.

DAILY SHORT STORY

CLOSED DOORS

Beth Loved Her Mother Devotedly, But No Words of Love Passed Her Lips; as Result Both Were Miserable.

By EMILY CALVIN BLAKE.

"Good-by, Beth. Sure you have the sample I want to match?"

"Sure. It's in my purse. I'll run over for it at lunch time."

Mrs. Rogers remained in the kitchen till she heard the front door close. Then, almost guiltily, she went into the living room as she did every morning that she might watch the slender figure till it turned the corner. When Beth disappeared she sighed, for a feeling of emptiness fell upon her. The hours loomed so long

"How long had that bell been ringing?"

She went at once to her sewing table in the little dining room and till Beth—"the best daughter in the world"—should come swinging in again, the really highlight of her day.

lifted the filmy, dancing frock she was making for Sybil Harding.

Beth's face rose before her and suddenly tears brimmed her eyes. And then through the crystal of those tears she saw Beth arrayed, as always in her dreams she saw her, in floating chiffons, silver slippers and pearls about her white throat. In her fancy she saw Beth pirouet before a long door mirror. "Do I look nice, mother?" she asked.

"You look lovely. Where did you say you were going?"

"To the theater; afterwards to the Ludon House with Antonio's orchestra. We'll dance—"

"That is what I have prayed for you—that life would be beautiful, that you should be happy."

"And so I am because of your care. Don't I know? Your prayers, your hopes for me. Such a wonderful mother."

The tears dimmed her vision now, for she had not known how much such spoken words would mean to her. But tenderly she touched her girl's soft cheek. "Now run along. He will be here soon and you must be quite ready."

"I've knocked twice, Mrs. Rogers, and you did not hear me. So I came right in. Can you alter the neckline of this blue dress for me today so I can wear it this evening?"

She was about to tell her customer that she would take on nothing more for the day already was filled to the brim with work. And then she visioned Beth again clad in the moonlight dress. She straightened her shoulders as mentally she adjusted swifter pace so that some day her hidden dreams for Beth might come true.

The day outside was dully and gloomy, but Beth at her filing cases did not notice. Deep in her dreams she and her mother were in Florida and the sun shone in golden brightness on the sand; the ocean rolled in with soft murmurings.

"Happy, mother?"

"Oh, yes, happy, child, but a bit conscious-stricken. You worked so hard all the years and now you are spending everything on me. It doesn't seem fair."

"Beth, there never was such a daughter as you."

Beth turned her face away a moment. She had not realized how greatly she had longed to hear such words. But when she spoke her voice was bright, teasing. "Foolish. I'm just ordinary garden variety."

"We'll not argue about that, Beth."

"No, not worth while. Mother, I'm glad your hair is white. I used to be sorry because I thought white hair meant that you were old. But now it's just sweet with those wide waves."

"That cost you such a pretty penny. But it is nice never to have to bother with curlers. I wet the waves through sometimes just to see them fall back into place."

"I always meant you should have a permanent. Listen, mother, when we come here again, next winter, I'll have a ltitle car and we'll go riding all over the place."

"Miss Rogers, would you mind answering that telephone?"

Oh, how long had that bell been ringing? And old Curtis ready to pounce for the slightest infraction. And if he put a blue slip in her pay envelope Saturday, where would all her dreams go?

Well, she'd show him; make up for her negligence by taking only 20 minutes for lunch at noon; give herself just enough time to run to the corner drug store for a sandwich and back.

At 6:30, tired and hungry, Beth opened the front door and walked on into the kitchen and gave the usual greeting: "Hello, ma."

Mrs. Rogers turned from setting the table. On it were cold meat, bread, butter and fruit.

"Hello, Beth,' she answered. Then: "Anything new today?"

"Not a thing, just the same old grind. Anything new here?"

"No. Only Mrs. Allen wanted her blue dress altered and I had to work it in somewhere."

"So, I see there'll be a cold meal again tonight. It does seem as though I'd rate above a customer occasionally."

"Sorry I can't always suit you. Did you match the silk at noon?"

"No—I'll do it tomorrow."

"Clean forgot, I suppose. Well, I'm not surprised. If ever you'd give a thought to me or to your home once you're out of sight I'd put a red chalk mark on the wall."

"You always know the answer ma, so let it go at that."

Sayingame

By THE SAYINGAME EDITOR.

Here's a valuable suggestion to Sayingame entrants Look at each picture carefully before starting in pursuit of an appropriate saying for it! Note the appearance and action of the characters—the locale—every detail. Often contestants get off on the wrong foot by inspecting a picture hurriedly—without due appreciation of its significance. This results in a lot of lost time that could be profitably spent in search of what really is the most appropriate solution, all things in the picture properly considered and understood. Be sure you're right, then go ahead!

"Sayings of the Wise," the book used by the artist in getting up Sayingame pictures, is in high favor among contestants. Those who wish may obtain this distinctive publication for 50 cents a copy—or for 54 cents by mail.

Q. Please send me the first 40 Sayingame pictures. When can the other half of the series be obtained? Miss S. R. S., Pineview, Ga.

A. Pictures are not available prior to their publication in The Constitution. However, we shall endeavor to have the complete sets ready, and they may be ordered a few days before No. 80 is to appear on August 19.

About Ties.

Q. Please tell me just how you will manage in case several contestants tie for first place. Mrs. C. D., Atlanta.

A. In the event of ties, and all conditions of the rules complied with, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

Back Pictures.

Q. How can I obtain the back numbers of the Sayingame pictures? E. T., Hardwick, Ga.

A. The back pictures may be had by calling at the office of The Constitution, or by mail. They are 5 cents apiece when bought singly. Or any 8 pictures would be 30 cents, 40 pictures (half the series) $1.25. An extra 3 cents should be included with orders for pictures by mail.

Judged Separately.

Q. I am planning to submit three sets. Will the judges consider them as a whole, or individually? Miss D. A., Atlanta.

A. Each set will be judged on its individual merits.

U. S. Probes Attack On Kansas Woman

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Federal agents have joined police in investigating an attack upon Mrs. Laura Ellis, a beauty parlor operator, who was found in her apartment today with her feet bound to the legs of a refrigerator, her eyes taped shut, and her hair closely cropped from her head.

Unconscious when found by one of her business associates, Mrs. Ellis had not regained composure enough to tell authorities what happened.

Mrs. Ellis was released in Decatur, Ill., June 22 after allegedly being kidnaped by three men in Kansas City, who, she said, tried to force her to sign a statement which she said was derogatory to W. Lee Vaughan, owner of a Kansas City (Kan.) theater.

A note, written in pencil, found on the kitchen table in Mrs. Ellis' apartment, was turned over to federal operatives, who refused to disclose its contents.

Kansas City (Kan.) police said the note was signed "The Big Three." They said Vaughan has had trouble with a union labor group, which has urged him to employ union workmen in this theater.
